BALLPARK STORY

Carilion Clinic Field at Salem Memorial Ballpark is the picturesque home of the Salem RidgeYaks, the Single-A affiliate of the Boston Red Sox, competing in the Carolina League.

The ballpark was constructed in 1995 at a cost of approximately $10.1 million to replace the aging Municipal Stadium. The initial name was Salem Memorial Baseball Stadium, chosen to honor Salem's veterans. It has gone through a few name changes due to sponsorship, including Lewis-Gale Field and Haley Toyota Field, before becoming Carilion Clinic Field in 2021.

The stadium has hosted various baseball organizations since its opening, starting with the Salem Avalanche (a Colorado Rockies affiliate) and most recently the Salem Red Sox with. Beyond Minor League Baseball, the venue has hosted the ACC Baseball Tournament in 2003 and 2004 as well as the NCAA Division III National Baseball Championships (1996-1999).

The most notable feature of Carilion Clinic Field is its scenic backdrop. With no outfield seating, the views of the distant Blue Ridge Mountains are completely unobstructed, creating one of the most scenic spots in MiLB. Fans can enjoy frequent promotions, including post game fireworks on many Friday nights throughout the season! Be sure to check out the unique Kid Zone on the third-base side, which includes a to-scale wiffle ball replica of Fenway Park, complete with its own "Green Monster".

The park name was chosen to honor Salem's veterans, while the current naming rights belong to local healthcare organization Carilion Clinic. The Roanoke College baseball team (D-III) often uses the stadium as a second home field.

Notable alumni include Mookie Betts, Rafael Devers, Andrew Benintendi, Xander Bogaerts, Yoan Moncada, Larry Walker, Tim Wakefield, Moises Alou, Matt Holliday, Juan Uribe, Hunter Pence, Ben Zobrist and Jarren Duran.

MEET THE SALEM RIDGEYAKS

The Salem RidgeYaks are rooted in the resilience and rugged beauty of Southwest Virginia. From the misty, blue hues of the Blue Ridge Mountains to the sunlit stands of Virginia Pine, our home teaches toughness. We embrace the calm focus of paddling a kayak through serene waters and the unyielding strength of the yak—a symbol of staying resilient, steady, and unafraid of hard ground. We embody the spirit of this dramatic landscape: making do, showing up, and never giving in.

BREAKING DOWN THE DETAILS OF THE SALEM RIDGEYAKS NEW LOGO

Mountains: Stretching across the eastern United States, the Blue Ridge Mountains are a subrange of the Appalachians known for their misty, blue hues when viewed from afar. The Blue Ridge is the dramatic spine that separates the Piedmont from the Valley & Ridge region and include many of the state's highest peaks.

Trees: Pine trees are an integral part of Southwest Virginia's landscape. They grow naturally on dry ridges, steep slopes, and old fields. Virginia pine (Pinus virginiana) is one of the most widespread species here – a pioneer tree that thrives in poorer soils and open, sunlit areas.

Kayak: Tucked into the hills and hollows of Southwest Virginia, kayaking isn't just a hobby – it's a way to slow down and reconnect. Between mountain-ringed lakes, wooded rivers, gentle meandering streams, and the invigorating splash of whitewater, there's something for everyone.

Yak: Living in the hills teaches the toughness. When your steady climb is gained, your fortune depends on living off the land, showing up anyway, making do and never giving in. Yaks embody that: resilient, steady, and unafraid of hard ground. It's a fitting metaphor for a place where strength isn't optional—it's essential.

2025: THE FINAL SEASON OF THE SALEM RED SOX

Season Overview

Salem entered Opening Day against the Delmarva Shorebirds with a new leader at the helm. Bench Coach Ozzie Chavez was promoted to become the 10th manager in Salem Red Sox history. The roster featured 16 players with prior Single-A experience, including returners from the 2024 squad such as OF Natanael Yuten, IF Antonio Anderson, RHP Nathanael Cruz, and RHP Luis Cohen.

The season got off to an electrifying start. RHP Blake Aita made his professional debut on Opening Day, throwing five scoreless innings with four strikeouts and just one walk, earning a Carolina League Pitcher of the Week honor. The Sox capped the series with a 12–1 rout of Delmarva, completing a three-game sweep, the team’s first opening-weekend sweep since 2022.

April Highlights

Salem opened the season with several top 30 prospects in the lineup, including IF Franklin Arias (No. 4), IF Yoelcin Cespedes (No. 7), and LHP Brandon Clarke (No. 29). Arias made an immediate impact, hitting .346 with 27 hits in 19 games and compiling a 16-game on-base streak before earning a promotion to High-A Greenville on April 29. Clarke impressed on the mound in three starts, posting a 0.93 ERA over 9.2 innings with triple-digit velocity.

The Red Sox made history with a first-time visit to the Hickory Crawdads following the Carolina League realignment. The series was memorable for both its quirks, like LHP Michael Sansone entering the game in the wrong-colored jersey and its dominance, including a 19–1 victory, Salem’s highest-scoring game of the season.

May/June Momentum

The Sox hit the road to Fayetteville to face the Woodpeckers, a series that showcased the team’s emerging offensive power. Salem blasted 10 home runs in the series, highlighted by Freili Encarnacion’s three homers, Starlyn Nunez’s two, and contributions from Yoelcin Cespedes, Yosander Ascencio, Natanael Yuten, and Kleyver Salazar. Encarnacion’s strong May performance (.333 AVG, 7 HR, 15 RBI) earned him Carolina League Hitter of the Month honors.

Salem also delivered dramatic finishes, including walk-off victories from Yuten against Fredericksburg on May 2 and Eddy Azocar versus Lynchburg on June 5 during a Thirsty Thursday game. The first half concluded with a six-game series against in-state rival Fredericksburg, leaving Salem with a 26–38 record (.406), finishing last in the Carolina League Northern Division.

2025: THE FINAL SEASON OF THE SALEM RED SOX

Second-Half Standouts

Outfielder Justin Gonzales, an 18-year-old prospect from Bani, Dominican Republic, turned heads in the second half. The 15th-ranked Red Sox prospect earned Carolina League Player of the Week honors, hitting .400 with 3 doubles, 1 HR, 4 RBI, and 2 stolen bases over five games at Lynchburg from July 1–6. Over his final 45 games, Gonzales hit .339 with 22 extra-base hits and a .907 OPS, establishing himself as one of the team's premier offensive threats.

On the pitching side, Yhoiker Fajardo developed into a dominant force after a rough start. From July 10 onward, Fajardo posted a 1.32 ERA over 42 innings, striking out 51 batters with a 1.07 WHIP and .190 batting average against. His performance earned him two Carolina League Pitcher of the Week honors and Pitcher of the Month for August, making him one of Single-A's top pitchers.

New Faces and Milestones

The Red Sox injected fresh talent into Salem on August 1, assigning four of their newest draft picks: IF Mason White and Maximus Martin, OF Skylar King, and utility man Jack Winnay. Starlyn Nunez provided an instant spark, delivering a walk-off single in Salem's first series with the new additions to stun the Kannapolis Cannon Ballers 8–7 in nine innings.

One of the season's most memorable storylines was the debut of D'Angelo Ortiz, son of Boston Red Sox legend David Ortiz. "Baby Papi" appeared in 27 games, recording his first Single-A hit on July 24 with a single to right field against Charleston.

Season Conclusion

Salem closed the 2025 campaign with a 30–36 record in the second half, finishing the season 56–74 (.431) and placing fifth in the Carolina League North Division. While the standings did not reflect the excitement and milestones of the season, the year was a showcase of prospect development, individual excellence, and memorable moments.

A total of 161,899 fans filed into Carillion Clinic Field at Salem Memorial Ballpark including a top 15 attendance in ballpark history with 7,002 fans in attendance for a Friday night affair with Delmarva on May 23rd.

As the Salem Red Sox played their final season under the Red Sox identity, the team left a legacy in the community and laid the foundation for the next chapter as the Salem RidgeYaks, set to debut in 2026.

BRADEN SCHENCK
WILL SERVE AS THE INAUGURAL
VOICE OF THE RIDGEYAKS

The Salem RidgeYaks and the Virginia Tech School of Communication will partner for the sixth consecutive season to broadcast all 66 RidgeYaks home games in 2026.

Sports Media & Analytics students at Virginia Tech study sports journalism and work in the school's digital broadcast studio, newsroom, and media lab. Students learn in real-world environments through extensive field work on campus and at stadiums and arenas throughout the ACC and the country.

"Everyone at Virginia Tech is delighted to collaborate with the Salem RidgeYaks again this season in one of the most unique partnerships in professional baseball," said Bill Roth, ESPN and Westwood One broadcaster and Professor of Practice in Virginia Tech's School of Communication.

"We're thrilled to continue our partnership with Bill Roth and the Virginia Tech School of Communication," said General Manager Allen Lawrence. "This collaboration provides incredible opportunities for students and delivers high-quality coverage for our fans."

The partnership, established in 2021, has produced six Virginia Tech broadcasters who have spent time in Salem as lead voices: Kevin DiDomenico (2021-22), Andy Loce (2022), Giovanni Heater (2023-24), Tyler Katz (2023), Carter Hill (2024) and Braden Schenck (2025-present).

SALEM IN THE CAROLINA LEAGUE

BY SALEM TEAM HISTORIAN JIM FULTON

In the Beginning

In 1968, the Salem Athletic Club, owner of the Salem Rebels franchise in the short-season Appalachian League, moved the franchise to the full-season Carolina League. Former Pittsburgh third baseman Don Hoak was named manager. The team retained the “Rebels” nickname and was affiliated with the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Salem won the Western Division pennant with an 85-55 record, the only winning mark in the league that season, before falling to the Lynchburg White Sox in the playoffs. On July 15, 1968, Salem hosted the Carolina League All-Star Game, the first time the event had been held outside North Carolina since 1949. John Jeter hit a two-run home run to lead Salem to a 6-1 victory over the league’s All-Stars.

Chuck Hiller, the first National League player to hit a grand slam in the World Series, was named manager for the 1969 season. He guided Salem to a 78-66 record and another Western Division pennant. The Rebels defeated High Point-Thomasville in the opening round of the playoffs before losing the division championship to Burlington. First baseman Lou Quinn (.314, 20 HR, 74 RBI) was named Carolina League Player of the Year.

Billy Klaus took over as manager in 1970, and Salem finished seventh overall with a 60-80 record. Outfielder Rennie Stennett led the league with a .326 batting average, 170 hits and 229 total bases. In 1971, Tim Murtaugh, son of longtime Pittsburgh manager Danny Murtaugh, was named manager and led Salem to a sixth-place finish with a 65-71 record. Third baseman Art Howe paced the league with a .348 batting average, adding 12 home runs and 79 RBI.

Following the 1971 season, the “Rebels” nickname was retired, and the club became the Salem Pirates to reflect its affiliation with Pittsburgh. Murtaugh returned for his second season in 1972. After finishing third in the first half at 33-34, Salem surged to a 46-24 second-half record to claim the pennant. In the playoffs, the Pirates defeated Burlington in three games to capture the Mills Cup, the first championship in franchise history.

Outfielder Dave Parker led the league with a .310 batting average and topped the circuit in hits (162), doubles (30), RBI (101), runs scored (91) and stolen bases (38). He narrowly missed the Triple Crown by one home run and was named league MVP. Doug Bair (15-7, 2.85 ERA) earned Pitcher of the Year honors, leading the league with 15 complete games and 186 strikeouts in 180 innings. Jim Minshall (16-1, 3.38 ERA) led the league in wins and set a Carolina League record with 16 consecutive victories.

Steve Demeter was named manager in 1973, and Salem finished fifth at 66-72. Shortstop Craig Reynolds (.287, 13 HR, 89 RBI) led the league with 166 hits, while outfielder Omar Moreno (.284) set a league record with 77 stolen bases in 88 attempts.

John Lipon became manager in 1974 and led Salem to one of its most successful seasons. The Pirates went 47-23 in the first half and 40-27 in the second half to win the pennant and the Carolina League championship. Lipon was named Manager of the Year, while outfielder Miguel Dilone (.333) led the league in hits (177), singles (140) and stolen bases (85) to earn Player of the Year honors.

SALEM IN THE CAROLINA LEAGUE

Field. Edmead, 18, was playing his first professional season and was widely regarded as the Pirates' top outfield prospect since Roberto Clemente. Earlier that day, Edmead (.314, 7 HR, 59 RBI, 62 SB) had been named to the postseason All-Star team.

Lipon returned in 1975 as the Pirates finished third at 74-66-1. With only four teams in the league, the Carolina League played an interlocking schedule with the Western Carolinas League. Outfielder Luke Wrenn (.293, 12 HR, 97 RBI) was named league MVP.

Demeter returned as manager in 1976 and again in 1977. Salem posted records of 68-69-1 and 66-72, respectively. In 1977, outfielder Ozzie Olivares was named Player of the Year after setting a league record with 208 hits while also leading the league in batting average (.370), runs scored (121), triples (14), stolen bases (46) and total bases (280).

Jim Mahoney was named manager in 1978, guiding Salem to a second-place finish at 72-63. The following season, the Pirates fell to 54-82, the worst record in the league.

Birds and Bucs

Before the 1980 season, the Salem Athletic Club sold the team to a group led by Nashville businessman Larry Schmittou. Other investors included Richard Sterban of the Oak Ridge Boys, Jerry Reed and Conway Twitty. The club was renamed the Redbirds, with Lipon returning as manager.

Salem finished third in the first half at 33-36-1 and rebounded to go 46-24 in the second half. The Redbirds ended the season 79-60-1, and Lipon was again named Manager of the Year. Attendance reached 102,456, the first time the franchise surpassed 100,000 fans.

Following the 1980 season, Salem changed its affiliation from Pittsburgh to San Diego. The Redbirds finished last in the first half in 1981 but won the Northern Division second-half title at 40-30 before falling to Hagerstown in the playoffs.

The 1982 Redbirds, managed by Jim Zerella, endured a 39-101 season, the worst in franchise history. Salem began the year 6-1 before losing 100 of its final 133 games. One bright moment came May 1, 1983, when Salem defeated the Lynchburg Mets and Dwight Gooden 4-1 at Shea Stadium, scoring all four runs in the ninth inning.

After the 1983 season, the Redbirds switched affiliations again, joining the Texas Rangers. Over three seasons, Salem posted a combined 181-232-1 record and never reached the playoffs.

When a proposed relocation to Charleston, W.Va., was denied after the 1985 season, the franchise was sold to Franklin County investor Kelvin Bowles. The team was renamed the Buccaneers in 1987 and rejoined the Pirates organization. Demeter returned for his third stint as Salem manager and fourth season overall.

Salem went 47-23 in the second half and finished 80-59 overall, winning the Northern Division and the Mills Cup by defeating Hagerstown and Kinston. Attendance climbed to 111,661.

Jay Ward took over as manager in 1988, leading the Buccaneers to a second straight winning season at 73-66 before a playoff loss to Lynchburg. From 1989-93, Salem struggled, posting a combined 364-465 record.

Trent Jewett, a former Salem catcher, was named manager in 1994. After a 64-75 finish, the Pirates affiliation ended, and the team became a Colorado Rockies affiliate known as the Avalanche.

The Avalanche Era

Salem finished 68–72 in its first season with Colorado in 1995. On Aug. 7, the Avalanche opened Salem Memorial Ballpark with a 15-inning, 3–2 win over Frederick. The club recorded its first non-losing season since 1988 in 1999, finishing 69–69 as attendance surpassed 200,000 for the first time.

Alan Cockrell managed Salem to a 73–67 record in 2000, followed by a 70–68 campaign in 2001 under Dave Collins. The Avalanche captured the 2001 Mills Cup championship, with John Lindsey named playoff MVP.

Stu Cole led Salem in 2002, when Brad Hawpe (.348, 22 HR, 97 RBI) earned league MVP honors. Jim Pankovits managed Salem from 2006–08, guiding the Avalanche to consistent winning seasons before the team was sold to Fenway Sports Group in December 2007.

Red Sox in the Roanoke Valley

Salem became a Boston Red Sox affiliate in 2009 and adopted the Red Sox nickname. The club reached the Mills Cup Finals that season and posted several winning years under managers Kevin Boles and Billy McMillon.

The 2013 season marked one of the most memorable in franchise history, as Salem won the Mills Cup behind a late-season surge. Designated hitter Sean Coyle delivered four RBI in the championship-clinching win.

Joe Oliver managed the 2016 club, which featured top prospects Andrew Benintendi, Yoan Moncada and Rafael Devers. Salem finished 87–52, the best record in the Carolina League.

In 2017, the franchise celebrated its 50th Carolina League season and renamed Salem Memorial Ballpark as Haley Toyota Field. Michael Chavis became the first player in ballpark history to hit three home runs in a game, and Salem hosted the Carolina League All-Star Game as part of the milestone year.

Oliver returned for a third season in 2018 as Salem finished 63–75. Third baseman Bobby Dalbec set Red Sox-era records with 26 home runs, 55 extra-base hits and a .573 slugging percentage. He also set a franchise record with 13 home runs at Haley Toyota Field before being promoted to Portland on Aug. 3 and was named Carolina League MVP. First baseman Jerry Downs set a franchise record by being hit by a pitch 26 times.

In 2019, Melanie Newman became Salem’s lead broadcaster. Along with Suzie Cool, they formed the first all-female broadcast crew in affiliated baseball. Corey Wimberly was named manager. Salem finished 25–42 in the first half, then rebounded to win the Northern Division second-half title at 42–28, the league’s best record in the half. Salem lost to Wilmington in the Northern Division finals, 3 games to 2. The club used a franchise-record 57 players (31 position players and 26 pitchers).

The 2020 season was canceled due to the COVID-19 pandemic. At the end of 2020, Minor League Baseball’s agreement with Major League Baseball expired. MLB reduced the number of affiliates to four per organization, leading to a realignment of the minors and the elimination of 120 minor league teams.

SALEM IN THE CAROLINA LEAGUE

Baseball Returns to a New League

On Feb. 12, 2021, the new minor league structure was announced. Salem was placed in the Low-A East, a 12-team league with three divisions. Salem's North Division included Delmarva, Fredericksburg and Lynchburg. The Central Division included Carolina, Down East, Fayetteville and Kannapolis. The South Division included Augusta, Charleston, Columbia and Myrtle Beach. Luke Montz was named manager.

Salem went 71-49, winning the Northern Division title and posting the league's third-best overall record. Salem did not qualify for the playoffs, however, as only the two teams with the best records advanced. Nick Yorke led the league with a .323 average. Nick Northcut led the league with 32 doubles, 51 extra-base hits and a .513 slugging percentage.

For the 2022 season, the schedule expanded to 132 games and the league returned to the Carolina League name with a two-division format. Montz returned, and Salem went 35-31 in the first half and 29-35 in the second half, finishing fourth overall. Salem used a franchise-record 61 players, including a franchise-record 34 pitchers – all right-handed. Eddinson Paulino led the league with 35 doubles and also led in triples (10), extra-base hits (58) and total bases (217). Niko Kavadas led Salem with 14 home runs (11 in Salem) in the first half before earning a promotion to Greenville.

Before the 2023 season, Diamond Baseball Holdings purchased the Salem franchise from Fenway Sports Group. Liam Carroll was named manager. Salem went 30-33 in the first half and 25-39 in the second half, finishing 55-72 overall. Albert Feliz led the team with 10 home runs, while Luis Ravelo led Salem with a .217 batting average. Salem used a franchise-record 66 players, including 38 pitchers.

Carroll returned in 2024 as Salem went 34-32 in the first half and 36-30 in the second half, finishing 70-62 overall and in third place. Feliz led Salem with 11 home runs, and Royman Blanco won 10 games to lead the pitching staff.

Ozzie Chavez was named manager for the 2025 season. Salem went 26-38 in the first half and 30-36 in the second half, finishing 56-74 overall. Justin Gonzales led the league with a .298 batting average.

2026 marks the 10-year anniversary of the 2016 Salem Red Sox team that won the Carolina League South Division first half led by Rafael Devers, Mauricio Dubon, Michael Kopech, and Yoan Mocada

ALFREDO EDMEAD

Born: March 22, 1956 in Santo Domingo, Dominican Republic

Died: August 22, 1974 (Age 18) in Salem, Virginia

Bats	Throws	Position

Alfredo Edmead was born in 1956 in Santo Domingo, Dominican Republic, and signed with the Pittsburgh Pirates organization as a teenager after emerging as one of the country's top amateur players. One of eleven children, Edmead represented the Dominican National Team at the 1974 Central American and Caribbean Games, helping the club earn a silver medal while batting .304 across 10 games.

Edmead joined the Salem Pirates at just 17 years old during the 1974 season and quickly established himself as one of the Carolina League's most dynamic players. Despite speaking little English upon arrival, he adapted rapidly, earning praise from manager John Lipon, who described him as "so very smart." In 119 games with Salem, Edmead hit .314, stole 61 bases, and added seven home runs, emerging as one of the Pittsburgh organization's top outfield prospects.

On August 22, 1974, Edmead was fatally injured during a game against the Rocky Mount Phillies at Municipal Field. He was transported to Lewis-Gale Hospital in Salem, where he was pronounced dead later that evening. Earlier that same day, Edmead had been named to the Carolina League End-of-Season All-Star Team. At the time of his death, he was regarded as the Pirates' best outfield prospect since Roberto Clemente. At just 17 years old, Edmead remains the youngest professional baseball player to die as a result of an on-field injury.

In remembrance of his talent, promise, and impact, the Salem franchise retired Alfredo Edmead's number, ensuring his legacy remains a permanent part of Salem baseball history.

Later that summer, Million was selected seventh overall in the 1994 Major League Baseball Draft by the Colorado Rockies and signed a $905,000 contract.

Million impressed early in his professional career, going 1–0 with a 1.50 ERA in the Rookie-level Arizona League before posting a 5–3 record and a 2.34 ERA with short-season Bend. SALEM BEERMONGERS

The Salem Red Sox "draughted" an alternate appearance in 2019 as the Salem BeerMongers in a nod to the growing craft industry. In addition to the industry throughout the Roanoke valley, fans at Carilion Clinic Field can enjoy 30 different craft beers available at the ballpark. General Manager Allen Lawrence added, "Craft beer has taken off here locally and across the entire state with the number of breweries increasing from less than 50 in 2011 to over 200 today. We thought it was appropriate to recognize the growth of the craft beer industry and the importance that it plays in our local economy."

MALMO OAT MILKERS

The Malmö Oat Milkers are a fun, temporary identity in Minor League Baseball starting for the 2024 season, part of a unique sponsorship with oat milk brand Oatly. Instead of one new team, all 120 existing MiLB teams played one game each as the "Oat Milkers," wearing special pink-accented jerseys to honor Oatly's Swedish hometown, Malmö. It's a promotional concept where the entire league becomes one team for a day, featuring unique game experiences and branding.
