LAST GAME

The Bowie Baysox made a late push to overcome a five-run deficit, but fell short to the Richmond Flying Squirrels on Opening Day, eventually falling 7-5. Richmond made two big attacks to push the game in their favor, scoring three runs in the third inning, and then again in the sixth inning, capped by a two-run home run by Brett Auerbach. Bowie started a ninth-inning flurry with two outs, scoring three runs on hits by Jordan Westburg, Gunnar Henderson, and Andrew Daschbach, but could not get the last two runs across to tie. Westburg and Henderson each scored a pair of runs, Hudson Haskin knocked three doubles, and Bowie got a perfect relief outing from Morgan McSweeney out of the bullpen.

TODAY'S OPPONENT

While Richmond finished fourth in the tough Southwest Division standings, 2021 was one of the most successful seasons in recent history. With a win on the last day of the season, Richmond secured a winning record for only the fourth time in team history, and the first time since 2015. The Squirrels saw plenty of their success carried by their pitching staff, as they ranked third in the league in ERA, home runs allowed, and home runs allowed. As an organization, San Francisco follows the best season in their history, after capturing 107 wins in 2021. MLB Pipeline lists the Giants farm system as the 11th-best in the minors, but many of their headlining prospects are not slated to see Richmond on Opening Day. The Baysox will have plenty of time to see what prospects San Francisco has to offer, though, as Bowie and Richmond will square off 24 times in 2022.

TODAY'S OPPOSING STARTER

Kai-Wei Teng will take the mound for the Flying Squirrels for the second game of the series. The Taiwanese pitcher most recently spent time with the Eugene Emeralds in 2021, where he posted a 5-6 record with a 4.33 ERA. Teng was signed by the Minnesota Twins organization in 2017, and has since been traded to the Giants affiliate. He notably played a role on the Taiwanese team that competed for the 2019 Asian Championship, and has been building experience ever since.

NOT AS OFTEN AS YOU'D THINK

This weekend series is only the third time that Richmond and Bowie have faced off to open the season since Richmond joined the Eastern League in 2010. The two sides split the previous two Opening Days, including a 14th inning walk-off win for Richmond in 2015 at The Diamond. Bowie has routinely squared off with Harrisburg to start their seasons, a battle aided by their parent clubs being so close to each other. Bowie and Harrisburg have battled 10 times to open a season, including four straight seasons of opening the season against the Senators from 2010-2014. Bowie is now 14-15 on Opening Day in their history.

HASKIN SHINES IN HIS DEBUT

Bowie outfielder Hudson Haskin made a big impact at the plate in Bowie's Opening Day loss, smacking a career-high three doubles at the plate. Despite the showing from Haskin, Bowie was only able to drive him in once on the day. Haskin is ranked as the Orioles #16 prospect entering the 2022 season according to MLB Pipeline, #22 according to Baseball America. He was named the Orioles Organization All-Star in the outfield by MiLB.com for his 2021 season, but did not get to see the full season due to a thumb fracture in late August.

TOP GUNNAR

Despite being hit by a pitch on his right hand in the eighth inning of Bowie's Opening Day, infielder Gunnar Henderson lined a double to left field as part of Bowie's ninth inning rally to drive in a run. The left side of Bowie's infield is going to be a key part of their roster, as Henderson and Jordan Westburg each scored a pair of runs on the day. Henderson is ranked as the Orioles #3 prospect and Minor League Baseball's #64 overall prospect entering the 2022 season according to MLB Pipeline. Listed as #4 for the Orioles and #57 in MiLB by Baseball America. He was named the Orioles Organization All-Star at third base by MiLB.com for his 2021 season.

THE TOP STORY

For the first time, the Orioles have been selected as the best farm system in baseball by MLB Pipeline, including five players among the Top-100 Overall Prospects list. The publication cited how EVP Mike Elias, "revamped their Minor League operations, invested heavily in the Draft and began making splashes in the international market for the first time." during his current tenure to bring Baltimore on the cusp of contention again. In slight contrast to the top marks from MLB Pipeline, Baseball America has listed Baltimore as the fourth-best organization in baseball, trailing Seattle, Tampa Bay, and Pittsburgh. Baseball America lists a slightly lighter amount of depth in the Orioles system compared to its higher rankings, but still notes Baltimore as holding both the top pitching prospect in the game (Grayson Rodriguez) and the top overall prospect in the game. (Adley Rutschman) In 2017, prior to Mike Elias' tenure, Baseball America listed Baltimore as having the 27th-ranked organization in baseball.
