Leading Off

Tonight, Reading continues a six-game homestand with the Altoona Curve, the double-A affiliate of the Pittsburgh Pirates. It's the third of 12 matchups between the teams this season, one in Reading and another in Altoona. After this week, Reading travels to Altoona from July 18-23. In 2022, the teams split their series in Reading and Altoona took 4/6 in September to win the season series 7-5.

Curve Work

Altoona's bats went to work last night, in a 9-4 win over Reading. The R-Phils got three innings of one-run ball from Phillies' reliever Nick Nelson, who was on a rehab start. But, the Fightin Phils bullpen struggled in the loss. Ethan Wilson homered for the second game in a row, but Henry Davis' long home run was the exclamation point for the Curve in last night's Altoona win.

Home Luck

Though early, the Fightin Phils are playing much better at FirstEnergy Stadium this season, then away from the friendly confines. Through eight home games, the R-Phils are hitting .299 and scoring 5.5 runs per game. On the road, Reading is slashing just .201 and scoring 3.2 runs per contest. Additionally, the R-Phils have 31 extra base hits at home compared to just 16 on the road in one more away game.

Wonderful Wilson

Ethan Wilson has been a bright spot for the R-Phils in this series. Wilson has now homered in back-to-back games, both nearly-identical shots off the top of the Redner's Event Center. This is the first time in Wilson's career that he has hit home runs in back-to-back games. Wilson recently spent time on the IL, but came off it last week at Portland.

Ranger Rehab

After Nick Nelson's rehab appearance last night, Ranger Suarez will start for the R-Phils tonight and is expected to throw two innings. Suarez pitched in Reading in 2018 before making his big-league debut in 2019. Suarez was a pivotal piece for the Phillies, both as a starter and reliever, in their run to the 2022 World Series.

Around the Organization

The big club, Philadelphia Phillies beat the Seattle Mariners in come-from-behind fashion in the second game of a three-game series at home. The two teams close their series this afternoon. Lehigh Valley won a pitcher's duel over Jacksonville 2-0 yesterday. While Jersey Shore beat Brooklyn 3-2 and Clearwater topped St. Lucie 11-4 as well.

This Day in Baseballtown History

April 27, 2004: At Reading, Gavin Floyd pitches 5.1 shutout innings and extends his season-opening scoreless streak to 17 straight innings, leading the Phils past Portland, 3-1, in game one of a twin bill. Miguel Quintana knocks in all three Reading runs with a pair of singles. Floyd's streak would end at 18 in the second inning of his next start on May 4 at Norwich.

Welcoming the Curve

The Altoona Curve enter tonight with a 8-8 record on the season. Altoona just took four-of-five games from the Bowie Baysox at home. Saturday's game between the teams was rained out. Prior to the Bowie series, the Curve had just won three of their first nine games to start the season. After this week, Altoona stays on the road for a six-game series at Richmond next week.

"Curve" Ball

Getting the ball tonight for Altoona is righty Sean Sullivan. Sullivan is making his third start of the year. He has not allowed a run over 6.2 innings and has six strikeouts to three walks. Sullivan threw last Friday and went 4.1 innings with three punchouts and two hits against Bowie.

They found a bargain later on in the period, in January of 2018, when they inked Rojas for just $10K. In each of his two years of full season ball, he's started slowly but finished well offensively, showing off his plus speed and defense at all stops. He made it to Double-A for the first time in 2022 and then finished with a strong performance in the Arizona Fall League before getting added to the 40-man roster. Rojas has shown he can be an impact player on both sides of the ball thanks to his near-top-of-the-scale speed. He's an elite baserunner, one who stole 62 bases in 67 tries last season and then went 13-for-13 in the AFL. His speed is an obvious asset in the outfield, where he is a premium defender in center field, one who could be a Gold Glove.
