MADE TO

JUMBO SHRIMP WELCOME LETTER

Jacksonville Jumbo Shrimp Baseball Club Triple-A Affiliate of the Miami Marlins

Dear Crustacean Nation,

I hope you feel the same excitement as both myself and the entire Jumbo Shrimp staff for our 2024 season presented by FIS. I have been eagerly anticipating the signature moments and memories we create for families and fans of all ages every summer at 121 Financial Ballpark. We are so grateful you chose to attend today's game, and I wish to express my gratitude and thanks to you, the city of Jacksonville, Northeast Florida and Southeast Georgia, because without you, all these extraordinary moments, attendance records, awards and recognition across the country never would have happened. I can't wait for the incredible memories we will make together again in 2024.

Like always, it is our pledge to offer our fans the same great Affordable Family Fun that has marked Jumbo Shrimp baseball over the years. Over the span of 75 fun-filled home dates this season, the Jumbo Shrimp have planned 23 fireworks dates, 14 giveaways, five free Military Appreciation Nights, five Forever Vets Animal Hospital Canines and Crustaceans Dog Days (plus one Cat Day and several other fun and memorable theme nights that provide entertainment to fans of all ages and backgrounds. We have also continued our tribute to the military on "Red Shirt Fridays," plus seats every game for our service men and women starting at just $$ 7$. Coors Light Thirsty Thursdays are back, and again, kids will get to run the bases following each Sunday home game on Baptist Health Sunday Family FUNdays.

We are always striving to enhance our guest experience and safety at the ballpark. In February, we had the pleasure to announce Project NEXT, our plan for the $$ 31.8$ million publicly-funded renovation plan to 121 Financial Ballpark. Project NEXT is the first major renovation to 121 Financial Ballpark since its opening in 2003. We consider these upgrades to be a generational moment for the Jacksonville Jumbo Shrimp, our city, fans and community partners,

In 2024, fans will get to experience the beginning phases of Project NEXT at 121 Financial Ballpark: a brand-new videoboard nearly 20 percent larger in size, new ribbon boards and new concourse ceiling fans. The long-term vision of Project NEXT also includes the creation of an enhanced club space behind home plate, a brand-new front porch and center field plaza to welcome fans like never before. In right field, Project NEXT plans a multi-level building making the Jumbo Shrimp VyStar Credit Union Souvenir Store accessible on the street level, and on the concourse level, an incredible space that will be downtown Jacksonville's newest spot for banquets and meetings. The Jumbo Shrimp are incredibly honored and proud to be working with the Canopy Team and Janet Marie Smith. Her impressive credentials include design work of Oriole Park at Camden Yards, Fenway Park renovations and many others.

On the field, we look forward to again watching Triple-A baseball in Jacksonville. The 2023 season saw 43 different players with major league experience suit up for the Jumbo Shrimp, including 33 who played both in the big leagues and with Jacksonville at some point last year. This season, we also expect to see several talented prospects on their way to the Miami Marlins play in Jacksonville and are pleased to welcome an excellent coaching staff in manager Daren Brown, pitching coach Jeremy Powell, hitting coach Greg Colbrunn, development coach Jose Ceballos, athletic trainer Jose Alvarez and performance/strength and conditioning coach Tim Rodmaker.

Thank you for attending today's game and for your support of the Jacksonville Jumbo Shrimp. Please don't hesitate to let me or any of our staff members know how your experience at 121 Financial Ballpark is going. Sit back, relax and enjoy Jumbo Shrimp baseball!

Warm wishes,

FEATURE STORY

Troy Johnston, drafted by the Miami Marlins in 2019, has not only excelled as a first baseman but has also embarked on a journey that pushed him to explore the profound connection between mental health and his performance on the field. Johnston's journey through baseball is not just about athletic skill; it's deeply rooted in understanding his "why."

Johnston's understanding of the connection between his performance on the field and his mental well-being crystallized during a challenging period while playing for High-A Beloit in 2021. Despite initial success, he faced financial strain, relationship difficulties, and untreated anxiety, which caused sleepless nights and panic attacks. Reflecting on this demanding time, Johnston shares, "I realized that all of that stemmed from how my mental health was."

In a society where seeking help for mental health issues can carry stigma, especially among male athletes, Johnston's choice to seek support marked a crucial turning point.
"I do want to tell anybody out there that if you think that you need help, do not hesitate to go and get it," Johnston said. "The longer you let it fester, the worse it's going to get—that was kind of the breaking point for me."

Reflecting on his time at Gonzaga University, Johnston acknowledges similar challenges exacerbated by a sea-son-ending injury.
"I was out essentially my whole sophomore year," said Johnston. "And I thought I'm done playing baseball like it's the end. And it's hard because you never really know when the end is."

During this period, Johnston admits he faced significant mental health challenges that went unrecognized.
"I think for a long time I was going undiagnosed, especially at a young age," he said. "Because at that point, it's like, oh, you're not being tough, you know, you get through it, you'll be alright, you know, to keep doing what you're doing."

He emphasizes the pivotal role of reaching a breaking point in seeking help:
"I think everybody has to have a breaking point. It's not just something that you just kind of roll into. But once you have that breaking point, that's where you're like, I need help."

Transitioning to professional baseball with the Marlins provided Johnston access to resources that reshaped his mental outlook.
"I got access to somebody that I didn't really have to pay for, and I didn't have to go to a therapist," said Johnston. "I think that was very, very helpful for me because it was provided by my employer. And that's when I really started to take off mentally and really have a strong mental outlook on the game and everything that's going on."

Central to Johnston's resilience has been the steadfast support of his wife.
"The first person that told me to go get help more than anything else was my wife and I thank her every day for it," Johnston said. "She's been my rock and she's been the person that's just been there for me through thick and thin.

She helps me out every time that I'm feeling a certain way, or when I feel like everything's weighing on my shoulders. She reminds me, 'Hey, go talk to somebody, go do your breathing exercises, go around, go do something else, focus on what you have done in the past that's been successful.' She's been a huge proponent for me."

Central to Troy Johnston's approach to maintaining mental well-being are structured breathing techniques that help manage stress and anxiety.
"The first one is the box drill, where you breathe in for four seconds through your nose, hold for four, exhale for four through your mouth, and repeat. It's for when I feel stress or pressure building up. I also use a quick inhale through the nose to boost oxygen to my brain, helping me focus before critical moments."

Johnston finds grounding in visual cues like his bat's label, noting, "I look at my bat to center myself before stepping onto the field." These practices play a crucial role in preparing him mentally for baseball challenges.

Seeking help for his mental health has not only enhanced Johnston's performance on the field but also enriched his personal life.
"I think it's made me a better person in the fact that I can see things not as a selfish manner but that I can see how other people are reacting to me."

He recognizes that constant anxiety and self-focus can hinder his ability to be a good teammate and person. Johnston believes that improving his mental health has made him more aware of his impact on others, fostering positive interactions and relationships both on and off the field. In essence, Troy Johnston's journey through baseball embodies a profound understanding of the interconnectedness between mental health and athletic performance. Despite facing significant challenges, Johnston's commitment to understanding his "why" - his deeper purpose beyond the game - has been pivotal in maintaining his mental well-being.
"I like baseball. I really do," said Johnston. "But I'm not somebody that needs to be enthralled in it 24/7. I need something outside of the game to focus on." This introspection has not only enhanced his performance but has also allowed him to cultivate empathy and positive relationships in his personal life. As we continue to understand more and more about mental health in our modern society, Johnston's journey serves as a testament to the importance of prioritizing mental health in achieving both athletic success and personal fulfillment.

Bragan Field at 121 Financial Ballpark, which opened in 2003, is one of the premier Minor League ballparks in North America.

The ballpark was the first completed project of the Better Jacksonville Plan. Featuring an old-fashioned design, brick facade and a grass seating berm, 121 Financial Ballpark reminds fans of the days of yesteryear and preserves all of the wonderful tradition baseball has to offer. The vivid sight lines capture the action up-close while providing fans with comfortable seating and easy access to concessions and restrooms.

121 Financial Ballpark features 12 luxury skyboxes, four skydecks, and a one-of-a-kind Tiki Terrace at the left field corner. It also has an HD videoboard and LED fence display in left field and two ribbbon displays along the baselines of the suite level

The ballpark has hosted three Major League Baseball exhibitions (2006, 2010, 2015), four ACC Baseball Tournaments (2006-09) and two Southern League All-Star games (2003, 2013). The 2013 Southern League All-Star game boasted a league-record 9,373 fans in attendance.

In 2016, owner Ken Babby invested $$ 1.8$ million into the ballpark to add a new groups area directly behind the home bullpen, a Tiki Terrace near the left-field foul pole, renovations to all 12 private suites and expansion of the suite-level, third-floor lounge to give all fans a climate-controlled space to overlook the playing field.

Since 2007, 121 Financial Ballpark has hosted a game in the annual college baseball series between in-state rivals, Florida State and Florida. The annual installment brings capacity crowds to 121 Financial Ballpark for their storied rivalry.

The ballpark features nearly 6,000 stadium-style chairs and can accommodate more than 11,000 fans. Has 12 luxury skyboxes and four sky decks, each of which having private seating. Ballpark is also completely wheelchair accessible, including the dugouts, camera wells and playing field.

The total estimated cost is $34 million, paid for by Jacksonville residents as part of a tax approved in 2000 to fund the "Better Jacksonville Plan," an initiative to improve the city's infrastructure. The adjacent Jacksonville Veterans Memorial Arena was also funded through the plan and was completed in November 2003.

HOW TO KEEP SCORE

BASEBALL BASICS: HOW TO KEEP SCORE

DIFFERENT FANS have different methods of keeping a scorecard, and many use their own notations. But here's a simple method:

If the hitter grounds out to shortstop, for example, write in " $6-3$," which shows the shortstop threw him out at first base. If the hitter flies out to left field, write a"7."
If the batter gets a hit, write in the hit according to which base he reached. Each corner of the box represents a base, with the lower-right corner being first.

If he singles, put a "-" in the lower right. If he doubles, write a " $=$ " in the upper right, and so on. For a walk, use "BB" in the lower right. As the runner advances, mark the appropriate symbol in the appropriate corner.

If a runner scores, put a circle at the bottom of the box, and inside the circle put the symbol of the play and/or the player that drove him in. For example, if the No. 5 hitter drives in two runs with a single, mark his single in the bottom right of his box and mark a circle with the number" " 5 " in it in the boxes of the runners who score. (Some people like to use uniform numbers here, so you can tell who did what, even after lineup changes.)

At the end of each inning, total the hits and runs for that inning only. At the end of the game you'll be able to add the innings total to get the game score

A PROUD PARTNER OF THE JACKSONVILLE JUMBO SHRIMP

feATURE STORY

Change can be difficult for anybody. Adjusting to new locations, routines, and careers is not an easy thing to do. Jacksonville Jumbo Shrimp pitcher Kyle Tyler knows this far too well. The right-hander is in the midst of a successful first season in the Miami Marlins organization. As of June 19, Tyler has a 4-2 record for Triple-A Jacksonville with a 2.80 ERA in 45.0 innings of work.

Tyler slid into the Jumbo Shrimp rotation and has found his groove over the last month. While the recent success for Tyler has helped Jacksonville win ball games, it did not start out that way. Originally starting the season at Double-A Pensacola, Tyler was promoted to Jacksonville and began his 2024 season in the bullpen. The righty was a starter during Spring Training and quickly changed to a reliever.

After three appearances out of the bullpen and Jacksonville in need of starting pitching, Tyler was given an opportunity to prove himself as a starter. In his last five starts, Tyler is 3-0 with a 0.96 ERA in 28 innings with 18 strikeouts.
"I've always enjoyed being a starter," said Tyler. "It's what I've done pretty much my entire career, whether it's been from high school, college, first couple of years in pro ball, to now."

While Tyler has preferred being a starter over reliever, the Oklahoma City native's focus has been getting into the game whenever he can. However, free agency allowed him to weigh different offers and search for an opportunity to be a starting pitcher.
"Miami was the one that said, 'We're going to give you a chance to be a starter at Triple-A,"'Tyler said. "I leapt at the opportunity."
Despite being a professional baseball player, Tyler did not initially consider baseball as a career. He opted to stay local to his hometown in attending the University of Oklahoma. Tyler followed in the footsteps of both his parents and carried on a tradition of the Tyler family attending that school. Heading into school, Tyler wanted to be a dentist. A family friend, who also was a dentist, wanted to help Tyler achieve this dream. Everything seemed to line up perfectly, until Tyler wanted to change.

THE OFFICIAL ON-FIELD CAP OF MINOR LEAGUE BASEBALL

FEATURE STORY

"I got into school, and it was 'Hey, you need to take these eight classes', and it was chemistry, biology, and I was like 'I don't think so,"' said Tyler. "So, I changed the major right after that."

With dental school off the table, Tyler switched his focus to baseball. The right-hander was drafted in the 20th round of the 2018 draft by the Los Angeles Angels. He rose through the minor league ranks and made his debut with the big-league squad in 2021. Tyler made five appearances down the stretch for a 77-win Angels team, getting his first taste of Major League Baseball.
The following spring, Tyler was designated for assignment by the Angels. For the first time in his career, Tyler was in limbo, not knowing where he was going to play. He was claimed off waivers by the Boston Red Sox three days later. The change of scenery from the West Coast to the Northeast never occurred for Tyler, as for the second time in a week, he was DFA'd. He would only have to wait two more days to learn his new team, the San Diego Padres.

As 2022 Spring Training wrapped up, Tyler was among the final roster decisions for San Diego. Instead of making the 26-man roster, Tyler was DFA'd again. Instead of joining his teammates in either San Diego or El Paso, the Triple-A affiliate of the Padres, Tyler was again sitting around with his wife waiting for the phone to ring.
Tyler's next team was a familiar one, the Los Angeles Angels. After two weeks of constant questioning and hoping to build off a strong 2021 season, Tyler was back with the team that drafted him. The Angels had other plans. For the fourth time, Tyler was back on waivers after being DFA'd. San Diego claimed him and optioned him to the minors.
"The whole experience, l'm glad had it, so l know what to expect, if and when it happens again. . But I kind of wish it didn't (happen)", said Tyler.

The stop in San Diego ended up being a rewarding one. Tyler was recalled to the Major Leagues and made his first appearance with the Padres on June 14, 2022. Tyler, facing off against the Chicago Cubs, his favorite team growing up, secured his first professional win at Wrigley Field.

While change is inevitable, one thing for Tyler is certain. When his career comes to a close, staying close to the game of baseball is what he wants to do. Tyler changed his college major to physical therapy and intends on completing his degree when he has to hang up his baseball cleats.
Throughout his entire career, Tyler has been a part of six different organizations, some for only a few days. He has been a minor league free agent three times, constantly adapting to new coaches, teammates, and organizations. And in 2024, already thriving in a new organization with different affiliates in different roles, it is safe to say that Tyler has mastered the "Art of Change."

DAREN BROWN I MANAGER I THIRD SEASON

Daren Brown returns for his third consecutive season as Jacksonville manager in 2024.
A native of Holdenville, Okla., Brown holds a 1,281-1,269 (.502) record as a minor league manager. In 2022, Brown's first season with Jacksonville, he piloted the Jumbo to with an 80-69 (.537) record, placing third in the International League East Division. After stellar performances throughout the season, the Jumbo Shrimp saw 12 players from their 2022 roster make their major league debuts. Brown also juggled a franchise-record 79 players, including a Jacksonville high for starting pitchers (25). The Jumbo Shrimp followed that up with a 70-79 (.470) record in 2023, with Brown juggling a franchise-record 44 different pitchers on his staff throughout the campaign.
The 56 -year-old is currently in his third stint as a Triple-A skipper. He piloted Triple-A Tacoma in the Seattle Mariners' organization from 2007-13 and again in 2019, tallying 494 victories, which marks the most wins for any manager in Rainiers franchise history. Brown led Tacoma to consecutive division titles in 2009 and 2010, and during that latter season, helped the Rainiers win the franchise's first outright Pacific Coast League Championship since 1969. Over this time period, Brown also earned a pair of call ups to the Mariners' coaching staff, including a stint as the club's interim manager for the final 50 games of the 2010 season.
After working as Seattle's baserunning coordinator in 2014 and bunting and baserunning coordinator in 2015, Brown steered Double-A Jackson to a 84-55 (.604) record and Southern League Championship in 2016. He skippered Double-A Arkansas during the 2017-18 seasons before returning to Tacoma for the 2019 campaign. In 2021, Brown managed the Kingsport Axmen, a summer collegiate baseball team in the Appalachian League.
The son of former major leaguer Paul Brown, who pitched for parts of four seasons with the Philadelphia Phillies from 1961-63 and 1968, Daren was selected in the 29th round of the 1989 draft out of Southeastern Oklahoma State University. He pitched for five seasons in Toronto's organization from 1989-93, reaching as high as Double-A Knoxville. From 1994-99, Daren served as a player-coach (1994-97) and player-manager (1998-99) for Amarillo of the independent Texas-Louisiana League. He retired as a player following the 1999 season, which saw Brown win the circuit's Manager of the Year and Amarillo take the league championship, and managed the Dillas for one more season.
