JUMBO SHRIMP WELCOME LETTER

Jacksonville Jumbo Shrimp Baseball Club Triple-A Affiliate of the Miami Marlins

Dear Crustacean Nation,

I hope you feel the same excitement as both myself and the entire Jumbo Shrimp staff for our 2024 season presented by FIS. I have been eagerly anticipating the signature moments and memories we create for families and fans of all ages every summer at 121 Financial Ballpark. We are so grateful you chose to attend today's game, and I wish to express my gratitude and thanks to you, the city of Jacksonville, Northeast Florida and Southeast Georgia, because without you, all these extraordinary moments, attendance records, awards and recognition across the country never would have happened. I can't wait for the incredible memories we will make together again in 2024.

Like always, it is our pledge to offer our fans the same great Affordable Family Fun that has marked Jumbo Shrimp baseball over the years. Over the span of 75 fun-filled home dates this season, the Jumbo Shrimp have planned 23 fireworks dates, 14 giveaways, five free Military Appreciation Nights, five Forever Vets Animal Hospital Canines and Crustaceans Dog Days (plus one Cat Day and several other fun and memorable theme nights that provide entertainment to fans of all ages and backgrounds. We have also continued our tribute to the military on "Red Shirt Fridays," plus seats every game for our service men and women starting at just $7. Coors Light Thirsty Thursdays are back, and again, kids will get to run the bases following each Sunday home game on Baptist Health Sunday Family FUNdays.

We are always striving to enhance our guest experience and safety at the ballpark. In February, we had the pleasure to announce Project NEXT, our plan for the $31.8 million publicly-funded renovation plan to 121 Financial Ballpark. Project NEXT is the first major renovation to 121 Financial Ballpark since its opening in 2003. We consider these upgrades to be a generational moment for the Jacksonville Jumbo Shrimp, our city, fans and community partners,

In 2024, fans will get to experience the beginning phases of Project NEXT at 121 Financial Ballpark: a brand-new videoboard nearly 20 percent larger in size, new ribbon boards and new concourse ceiling fans. The long-term vision of Project NEXT also includes the creation of an enhanced club space behind home plate, a brand-new front porch and center field plaza to welcome fans like never before. In right field, Project NEXT plans a multi-level building making the Jumbo Shrimp VyStar Credit Union Souvenir Store accessible on the street level, and on the concourse level, an incredible space that will be downtown Jacksonville's newest spot for banquets and meetings. The Jumbo Shrimp are incredibly honored and proud to be working with the Canopy Team and Janet Marie Smith. Her impressive credentials include design work of Oriole Park at Camden Yards, Fenway Park renovations and many others.

On the field, we look forward to again watching Triple-A baseball in Jacksonville. The 2023 season saw 43 different players with major league experience suit up for the Jumbo Shrimp, including 33 who played both in the big leagues and with Jacksonville at some point last year. This season, we also expect to see several talented prospects on their way to the Miami Marlins play in Jacksonville and are pleased to welcome an excellent coaching staff in manager Daren Brown, pitching coach Jeremy Powell, hitting coach Greg Colbrunn, development coach Jose Ceballos, athletic trainer Jose Alvarez and performance/strength and conditioning coach Tim Rodmaker.

Thank you for attending today's game and for your support of the Jacksonville Jumbo Shrimp. Please don't hesitate to let me or any of our staff members know how your experience at 121 Financial Ballpark is going. Sit back, relax and enjoy Jumbo Shrimp baseball!

Warm wishes,

Harold Crow

Baseball is a game where a 30% success rate can get you to the Hall of Fame.

Adam Oller is no stranger to hardships in a game where players deal with failure far more often than success. After being selected in the 20th round of the 2016 MLB draft by the Pittsburgh Pirates, he was released from his contract just two years later and debated walking away from the sport he loved. As he watched his friends settle down, get married, start families, and embark on new careers, Oller found himself struggling and feeling lost within the baseball world. The thought of retiring crossed his mind multiple times during the latter part of that season, and when he was finally released, he felt a significant weight lifted off his shoulders.

During this difficult time, Oller's parents played a crucial role in his life. When he called them to share the news about being released, they were incredibly supportive and encouraged him to give baseball one more shot. With their encouragement, Oller approached the next season with a new mindset: to have fun.

He started 2019 by joining the independent Windy City ThunderBolts (pictured bottom left) of the Frontier League in Chicago, and performed exceptionally well.

"I didn't go into independent ball with the intent of getting signed," Oller said. "I just wanted to end on my terms."

This positive experience turned his previous struggles into motivation, and his performance caught the attention of scouts, leading the San Francisco Giants to buy out his contract with the ThunderBolts. He was then assigned to then Low-A Augusta.

Oller has continued to maintain the philosophy that if he is not having fun, he will not continue playing. "Going into it with the mindset that it is what it is," said Oller. "If I was done playing, then it was because I wasn't good enough anymore."

This mindset has been vital to his mental wellbeing and success to this day. He attributes much of his resilience and determination to his parents, who supported him not only with love and encouragement but also financially during his early years in the minor leagues. With the recent improvements in minor league pay, Oller is now able to give back to his parents, which means the world to him. It validates their support and shows that their sacrifices were not in vain all these years.

Oller has had a few stops in his professional career, but the main focus is having fun at his craft.

When describing his current relationship with baseball, one in which he serves in all sorts of roles with the Jumbo Shrimp, Oller uses two words: compassion and dedication. He believes that to survive and thrive in the game, one must truly love what they are doing.

The constant traveling and the uncertainty of this sport requires a deep passion and commitment. In his early years, Oller originally viewed baseball as merely a career and a job, but he has since learned that this perspective is not conducive to success. Maintaining mental health requires the ability to move on from setbacks, to take the good and the bad in stride, and to keep moving forward. He has taken with him the lessons he has learned from every team he has been on, incorporating the coaching and experiences to continually step up his game.

Now with the Miami Marlins, his eighth team, Oller knows all too well what it's like to live out of a suitcase.

"I have taken pros from every team," said Oller.

When signing with the Marlins on July 10, 2024, it was the eighth organization in his career. As a member of the Mets organization (2021) they helped change his overall outlook.

"The Mets is where I learned the whole freedom aspect and analytics," Oller said. "From that, I took 'pitch and be who you want to be.'"

Each step has taught him something new to become a better pitcher, and more important, more complete person. However, he embraces the opportunity to see new and different places.

Oller's overall perspective on professional baseball has changed significantly from when he started in 2016, and has shaped him into the pitcher he is today. His journey is a testament to the power of resilience, the importance of a supportive network and the necessity of finding joy in one's passion.

JACKSONVILLE JUMBO SHRIMP

121 FINANCIAL

Bragan Field at 121 Financial Ballpark, which opened in 2003, is one of the premier Minor League ballparks in North America.

The ballpark was the first completed project of the Better Jacksonville Plan. Featuring an old-fashioned design, brick facade and a grass seating berm, 121 Financial Ballpark reminds fans of the days of yesteryear and preserves all of the wonderful tradition baseball has to offer. The vivid sight lines capture the action up-close while providing fans with comfortable seating and easy access to concessions and restrooms.

121 Financial Ballpark features 12 luxury skyboxes, four skydecks, and a one-of-a-kind Tiki Terrace at the left field corner. It also has an HD videoboard and LED fence display in left field and two ribbon displays along the baselines of the suite level

The ballpark has hosted three Major League Baseball exhibitions (2006, 2010, 2015), four ACC Baseball Tournaments (2006-09) and two Southern League All-Star games (2003, 2013). The 2013 Southern League All-Star game boasted a league-record 9,373 fans in attendance.

In 2016, owner Ken Babby invested $1.8 million into the ballpark to add a new groups area directly behind the home bullpen, a Tiki Terrace near the left-field foul pole, renovations to all 12 private suites and expansion of the suite-level, third-floor lounge to give all fans a climate-controlled space to overlook the playing field.

Since 2007, 121 Financial Ballpark has hosted a game in the annual college baseball series between in-state rivals, Florida State and Florida. The annual installment brings capacity crowds to 121 Financial Ballpark for their storied rivalry.

The ballpark features nearly 6,000 stadium-style chairs and can accommodate more than 11,000 fans. Has 12 luxury skyboxes and four sky decks, each of which having private seating. Ballpark is also completely wheelchair accessible, including the dugouts, camera wells and playing field.

The total estimated cost is $34 million, paid for by Jacksonville residents as part of a tax approved in 2000 to fund the "Better Jacksonville Plan," an initiative to improve the city's infrastructure. The adjacent Jacksonville Veterans Memorial Arena was also funded through the plan and was completed in November 2003.

BASEBALL BASICS: HOW TO KEEP SCORE

DIFFERENT FANS have different methods of keeping a scorecard, and many use their own notations. But here's a simple method:

If the hitter grounds out to shortstop, for example, write in "6-3," which shows the shortstop threw him out at first base. If the hitter flies out to left field, write a "7."

If the batter gets a hit, write in the hit according to which base he reached. Each corner of the box represents a base, with the lower-right corner being first.

If he singles, put a "-" in the lower right. If he doubles, write a "=" in the upper right, and so on. For a walk, use "BB" in the lower right. As the runner advances, mark the appropriate symbol in the appropriate corner.

If a runner scores, put a circle at the bottom of the box, and inside the circle put the symbol of the play and/or the player that drove him in. For example, if the No. 5 hitter drives in two runs with a single, mark his single in the bottom right of his box and mark a circle with the number "5" in it in the boxes of the runners who score. (Some people like to use uniform numbers here, so you can tell who did what, even after lineup changes.)

At the end of each inning, total the hits and runs for that inning only. At the end of the game you'll be able to add the innings total to get the game score

A PROUD PARTNER OF THE
JACKSONVILLE JUMBO SHRIMP

JONATHAN DAVIS, THE JOURNEYMAN

BY: JOEY ROBERTSON

"This guy is a human highlight reel!"

You may have caught a glimpse of Jonathan Davis' handywork on SportsCenter's Top 10 plays. And yet, there's so much more to him than just crazy catches. To quote philosopher Ralph Waldo Emerson, "it's not about the destination, it's about the journey." That statement could not ring truer for Davis' career.

Jonathan Davis' journey started in Camden, Arkansas, a city tabbed as the "Star of the River" located in the southern part of the state. Throughout his early childhood, he was heavily involved in competitive sports but he mainly focused on football, basketball and baseball. As he grew older and advanced to high school, those three sports followed him as well. With blistering speed, Davis was the feature slot receiver, cornerback, and special teams returner for the Camden Fairview Cardinals. On the basketball court, he was a thorn in opposing coaches' sides and was named to the All-State squad. In the end, it was his skills on the baseball diamond that made college recruiters come calling. As a senior, Davis hit .419 while posting a .500 on-base percentage coupled with 19 stolen bases and three home runs. He was also a two-time all-conference member and was named to the All-State and Golden Triangle teams.

Head coach Allen Gum at Southern Arkansas University developed a special rapport with Davis throughout his junior and senior years of high school.

"He took the time to come and talk with me," Davis said. "During my senior year, he came to my football and basketball games, and we'd talk afterwards. He always told me he liked guys (recruits) who were athletes, he didn't believe in guys just playing one sport. . . We'd also discuss the future and how different playing at the next level was."

After committing to Southern Arkansas, life threw him a curveball. During an orientation visit at SAU, Davis was in a meeting prepping his class schedule when he looked over at a TV in the room and couldn't believe what he saw. The tagline across the bottom of the screen read, "Coach Allen Gum becomes the new head coach at Central Arkansas." Davis' heart skipped a beat. As he pondered how this could have happened, all of a sudden, his phone lit up. It was Allen Gum on the other line.

When Davis picked up the phone, he confusingly asked Gum what the deal was with him leaving SAU. After explaining the situation, Gum asked Davis if he wanted to follow him to Central Arkansas, making a simple threefold promise to J.D.

"If you come here, you're gonna get your degree, a conference championship, and you're gonna get drafted," Gum said to Davis. "All three came true, he was on the money with that," Davis said.

After switching his commitment to Central Arkansas, it did not take him long to become mainstay in the Bears' starting lineup. As a true freshman he led the team in batting average, hitting .350 with 21 stolen bases in 41 starts. He was named the 2011 Southland Conference Freshman of the Year and a Louisville Slugger Freshman All-American. In 2012, he posted similar numbers while making 42 straight appearances before a hand injury quickly halted that fantastic campaign.

Davis was projected to be selected somewhere between the eighth and the 12th rounds for the 2013 MLB First Year Player draft. However, those rounds passed by without even a whisper of his name. With each passing selection, Davis grew more and more anxious.

His dad stepped out of the house to run an errand and JD was sitting downstairs on the couch watching the 15th round on his TV. At long last, he finally received the call he had been waiting for. With the 445th overall pick in the 2013 MLB Draft, the Toronto Blue Jays selected Central Arkansas outfielder, Jonathan Davis.

“After I hung up the phone, I ran upstairs as fast I could, yelling mama, mama I just got drafted by Toronto, and she went crazy,” Davis exclaimed. “It was a dope moment for sure and we had our little celebration.”

A few weeks later, the former Central Arkansas Bear reported to Rookie-level Bluefield to start his professional career. During his trek through the lower levels of the minor leagues, Davis continued to find success at the plate, and thanks to his blazing speed, caught the attention of the higher-ups in the organization. Year-by-year, he ascended upwards and was approaching his dream of playing in the big leagues. It wasn't until one game in 2018 when all eyes of the baseball world were fastened upon JD.

On June 26, 2018, while playing for Double-A New Hampshire, Davis hit for the cycle for the first time in Fisher Cats history. A rare feat to pull off at any level of baseball. It started with a double in the first inning, then a three-run homer in the second, a single in the fourth, and a triple in the sixth inning. Davis finished 4-for-5 with three runs scored in the contest.

On a day where everything seemed to be going his way, it started with Davis not having one of the most important pieces of equipment for a baseball player. As he got to the clubhouse before that night's game, he realized he had run out of bats. Comically, he went around the clubhouse asking his teammates if they had any extra bats to spare. His teammate at the time and still one of his best friends today, Gunnar Heidt, told him that he had a bat that he needed to use. Hite exclaimed that the person who originally gave him the bat said it changed their career. Davis can now say the same.

After the game, JD remembers his wife greeting him after the game and nonchalantly saying good game to him, but she did not know he hit for the cycle.

“Later that night, everyone was blowing her phone up congratulating, saying JD had hit for the cycle.” Davis explained. “She said, ‘JD why didn't you tell me you hit for the cycle? I burst out laughing, saying I thought you already knew.”

THE OFFICIAL ON-FIELD CAP OF MINOR LEAGUE BASEBALL®

At the end of a solid 2018 Triple-A season, Davis was called into his manager’s office. Davis’s dream was finally coming true, he had made it to the big leagues. Pretty soon he found himself at home plate in the Rogers Centre taking in his moment. All of his hard work had finally payed off. On September 5, 2018, Davis stepped into the batter’s box for the first time as a big leaguer. The man standing 60 feet and six inches away from him on the mound was none other than the flamethrower and former Tampa Bay Rays ace, Tyler Glasnow.

“He struck me out two times, it seemed like he was throwing a 1000 (mph)” Davis laughingly explained.

A week later, Davis lined a single off former Red Sox southpaw David Price in the sixth inning for his first major league hit. To this day, his favorite ballpark to play in is Fenway Park.

“Just the atmosphere there, it feels like baseball. . . I feel a part of history when I play there,” Davis said. “Getting a chance to sign the wall out in left field. . . It’s one of those moments where you know that I made it.”

For the next two and a half seasons, the Arkansas native was a contributor to the Blue Jays lineup. In 2020, Davis slashed .259/.364/.444 in the pandemic-shortened season. In 2021, life threw Davis another obstacle and he made the most of the opportunity, as he was claimed off waivers by the New York Yankees on August 3, 2021.

Most players and fans of baseball view the Yankees as the most prestigious organization in all of baseball. With that designation comes a certain standard that players are held too. One of the most known rules with the Yankees culture is that players are not allowed to have facial hair. It was a small price to pay to be able to thank the good lord for making him a Yankee.

“You feel this unspoken sense of honor and respect, it’s the standard,” Davis said. “It’s a responsibility, being a Yankee is a big deal. It’s a sense of pride that comes with it. It made me a better baseball player.”

After the conclusion of the 2021 season, Davis elected free agency. On November 18 he signed with the Milwaukee Brewers. He played in 37 game with Milwaukee, a city that will always hold a special place in JD’s heart.

“It was fun, I think Milwaukee has a lot of things that you won’t be able to experience unless you are there: the family environment, the little nuances, it’s everything the city embodies,” said Davis. “Just being amongst normal people, a lot of cities in the big leagues are on this grand stage and you’re treated differently than normal. Being able to be amongst normal people was what I enjoyed the most.”

On October 6, 2022 after ending the season with Triple-A Nashville, Davis elected free agency again. After an off-season of uncertainty, he had a brief stint in the Detroit Tigers organization before being traded to the Miami Marlins on May 22, 2023.

Throughout his time in the Marlins’ organization, fans saw Davis continuing his highlight-reel-worthy defensive plays, his reliable presence in the lineup and team-first attitude. It’s all come from the long road to get here.

Davis’s journey has been long and extraordinary, with many different stops along the way. But for JD, it’s not about the destination: it’s about that journey that makes the trials and tribulations worth it in the end in this baseball career.

DAREN BROWN | MANAGER | THIRD SEASON

Daren Brown returns for his third consecutive season as Jacksonville manager in 2024.

A native of Holdenville, Okla., Brown holds a 1,281-1,269 (.502) record as a minor league manager. In 2022, Brown's first season with Jacksonville, he piloted the Jumbo to with an 80-69 (.537) record, placing third in the International League East Division. After stellar performances throughout the season, the Jumbo Shrimp saw 12 players from their 2022 roster make their major league debuts. Brown also juggled a franchise-record 79 players, including a Jacksonville high for starting pitchers (25). The Jumbo Shrimp followed that up with a 70-79 (.470) record in 2023, with Brown juggling a franchise-record 44 different pitchers on his staff throughout the campaign.

The 56-year-old is currently in his third stint as a Triple-A skipper. He piloted Triple-A Tacoma in the Seattle Mariners' organization from 2007-13 and again in 2019, tallying 494 victories, which marks the most wins for any manager in Rainiers franchise history. Brown led Tacoma to consecutive division titles in 2009 and 2010, and during that latter season, helped the Rainiers win the franchise's first outright Pacific Coast League Championship since 1969. Over this time period, Brown also earned a pair of call ups to the Mariners' coaching staff, including a stint as the club's interim manager for the final 50 games of the 2010 season.

After working as Seattle's baserunning coordinator in 2014 and bunting and baserunning coordinator in 2015, Brown steered Double-A Jackson to a 84-55 (.604) record and Southern League Championship in 2016. He skippered Double-A Arkansas during the 2017-18 seasons before returning to Tacoma for the 2019 campaign. In 2021, Brown managed the Kingsport Axmen, a summer collegiate baseball team in the Appalachian League.

The son of former major leaguer Paul Brown, who pitched for parts of four seasons with the Philadelphia Phillies from 1961-63 and 1968, Daren was selected in the 29th round of the 1989 draft out of Southeastern Oklahoma State University. He pitched for five seasons in Toronto's organization from 1989-93, reaching as high as Double-A Knoxville. From 1994-99, Daren served as a player-coach (1994-97) and player-manager (1998-99) for Amarillo of the independent Texas-Louisiana League. He retired as a player following the 1999 season, which saw Brown win the circuit's Manager of the Year and Amarillo take the league championship, and managed the Dillas for one more season.
