2022 R-PHILS RECAP

The 2022 Reading Fightin Phils finished the season with a 61-77 record and missed the postseason, after finishing in fourth-place in the Northeast Division. After a delayed start to the 2021 season, 2022 returned a sense of normalcy to Reading. The season got underway on April 8 and concluded on September 18. One notable addition in 2021 that stayed for the 2022 season was the six-game series and universal league-off day on Monday's.

Even with a below-.500 record, the R-Phils still touted out tons of exciting prospects onto the field. The Philadelphia Phillies plethora of pitching prospects were showcased in Reading, especially late in the season. Both Andrew Painter and Mick Abel, the Phillies top-two prospects entering the season, spent August and September with the R-Phils. Additionally, other Phillies' pitching prospects Andrew Baker and Griff McGarry, amongst others turned in strong years on the mound for the R-Phils.

Offensively, Reading saw impressive seasons from a bunch of bats as well. Jhailyn Ortiz slugged his way to 17 home runs, which led the R-Phils, along with 61 RBI. Aldrem Corredor led the team in runs driven in with 70 on the season. Catching prospect Logan O'Hoppe also had a strong first-half of the season for Reading, but O'Hoppe was traded to the Los Angeles Angels in a deal that returned the Phillies Brandon Marsh.

Some notable players also made rehab assignments with the R-Phils in 2022. Johan Camardo and Mickey Moniak had brief stays in Reading at the plate. On the mound, JoJo Romero made a couple of rehab appearances with the R-Phils.

At the big-league level, multiple former R-Phils helped the Phillies to a National League Championship. At the plate, Rhys Hoskins, Bryston Stott, Alec Bohm, Matt Vierling and others played huge roles in the Phillies postseason run. On the mound, Aaron Nola, Ranger Suarez, Seranthony Dominguez and Connor Brogdon were amongst former Reading greats who contributed innings on the mound last October.

Shawn Williams managed the 2022 R-Phils. It was his third season in Reading and Williams will not return as the R-Phils manager in 2023.

Arizona Diamondbacks Third Base Coach (2003)

The Reading Fightin Phils are excited to announce the addition of Al Pedrique to serve as the team's manager for the 2023 season. Pedrique brings both Major League playing and coaching experience to Reading.

Pedrique most recently served as the third-base coach for the Miami Marlins, under now-former Manager Don Mattingly. In his lone year with the Marlins, Miami stole 122 bases and were successful at an 81% rate. That was good for fourth across Major League Baseball.

Prior to his lone year in Miami, Pedrique spent one season as the Manager of the Jacksonville Jumbo Shrimp, the Triple-A affiliate of the Marlins. In 2021, Pedrique led Jacksonville to a 75-55 record and postseason appearance.

From the 2018-20 seasons, Pedrique was on the Oakland Athletics' staff. He was Oakland's first-base coach in 2018 and served as the third-base coach during the 2019 and '20 seasons.

Pedrique spent multiple seasons in the New York Yankees' system after being hired prior to the 2013 season. He spent one season-each as the manager for the Charleston RiverDogs (Low-A), Tampa Yankees (High-A), Trenton Thunder (Double-A) and then was promoted to lead the Scranton/Wilkes-Barre RailRiders (Triple-A) prior to the 2016 season. In Pedrique's first season with Scranton/Wilkes-Barre, he led them to a Triple-A National Championship, in addition to playoff appearances in both seasons at the helm.

Pedrique's prior Major League experience includes a stint with the Houston Astros as a special assistant and bench coach. Notably, Pedrique convinced the Astros to sign then 16-year-old José Altuve.

In 2004, Pedrique served as the Interim Manager of the Arizona Diamondbacks to close out the season. He began that season as the manager for Arizona's Triple-A affiliate Tucson Sidewinders. In 2003, Pedrique was on the Diamondbacks big-league staff as the team's third-base coach. His coaching career began with minor-league stops with Diamondbacks, Astros and Kansas City Royals from 2000-02.

Pedrique was signed by the New York Mets as a 17-year-old in 1978. He made his Major League debut in 1987 with the Mets and spent parts of three seasons with New York, the Pittsburgh Pirates and Detroit Tigers. Pedrique spent a total of 17 seasons in the Minor Leagues before retiring from playing in 1994.

PLAYER BIO

McGarry has been a prospect since his high school days, when he was a late-round pick of the Rangers before honoring his commitment to Virginia. With the Cavaliers, he showed off his premium arm strength as well as a lack of familiarity with the strike zone, making him an intriguing, yet enigmatic college arm in 2021. The Phillies thought McGarry's stuff was worth taking in the fifth round, and he pitched his way from High-A to Triple-A in his first full season of pro ball. If you're just evaluating pure stuff, McGarry could be considered one of the better pitching prospects in the game. He's flirted with 100 mph in the past and was up to 99 mph at the upper levels in 2022, averaging over 95 mph. It's an elite pitch not just because of velocity, but because of his vertical approach angle as well. His mid-80s slider can be plus at times, missing a ton of bats, and he fools hitters with an upper-70s curve too. He doesn't throw his changeup nearly as much as the breaking stuff, but it has characteristics of a plus pitch. He added a hard cutter at the end of last year to give him a potential five-pitch mix. How often McGarry can land his elite-level stuff in the strike zone will determine exactly what he can be in the big leagues. A 13.9 K/9 rate to start off his pro career shows he can fool pro hitters, but even with some improvements since joining the Phillies, he's walked 5.4 per nine entering 2023. There's hope that as he adds mass to his loose 6-foot-2 frame, he can keep refining his delivery and throw enough strikes to start, a role he'll continue for now unless there's a need as a reliever in Philadelphia.

PLAYER BIO

During the 2017-18 international signing period, the Phillies handed out 19 bonuses of six figures or more, topped by the $2.5 million they gave Luis Garcia. They found a bargain later on in the period, in January of 2018, when they inked Rojas for just $10K. In each of his two years of full season ball, he's started slowly but finished well offensively, showing off his plus speed and defense at all stops. He made it to Double-A for the first time in 2022 and then finished with a strong performance in the Arizona Fall League before getting added to the 40-man roster. Rojas has shown he can be an impact player on both sides of the ball thanks to his near-top-of-the-scale speed. He's an elite baserunner, one who stole 62 bases in 67 tries last season and then went 13-for-13 in the AFL. His speed is an obvious asset in the outfield, where he is a premium defender in center field, one who could be a Gold Glove contender because of his range, instincts and above-average arm. The young outfielder's ceiling is tied to what advancements he can make at the plate. The right-handed hitter is very adept at making contact, striking out in just 16.6 percent of his plate appearances entering 2023. He's too often been content to hit the ball on the ground and use his legs to get on base, though he did get the ball in the air a bit more in 2022. The Phillies would love to see him make more hard contact, with line drives to the gaps turning into doubles and triples, to give him a real chance to be a table-setter atop a big league lineup.
