STCU GOLD GLOVE MEMBER HIGHLIGHT

RICK RICHARD

We're thankful for each and every STCU Gold Glove Member! Throughout the next Gameday Program editions, we'll be highlighting some of our ticket package holders. Follow along to see how they utilize the great benefits that come with being a member.

How long have you had a ticket package with the Indians?

25+ years.

What type of ticket package do you have?

Season tickets, sometimes 2 boxes a year.

Favorite promotional night at Avista Stadium?

Family Feast Nights and Fireworks Nights.

Favorite ballpark food item at Avista Stadium?

German Sausage (and beer if that's considered a food item?)

Favorite Gold Glove Member benefit?

Online ticket management makes it easy for me to share my tickets with others.

What are you most looking forward to when baseball returns to Avista Stadium?

A relaxing night at the ballpark with friends and clients eating, drinking, laughing and having fun.

How do you use your tickets?

As a real estate agent, I send a letter out to over 400 of my past clients, those that have referred me to others over the years to buy and sell real estate. I invite them to call me and reserve my tickets. It's my most popular client event that I do with them and so easy for me. It's so popular some years I've bought a 2nd box of 4 seats. This list grows every year and I'm sure it will continue to do so for many years to come.

How have you benefitted from being a Gold Glove Member with the Indians?

I've had so many great nights at the ballpark with my clients, who are also my friends, getting to know them on a more personal level. Nothing like a nice warm summer night with friends.

Have questions about becoming a STCU Gold Glove Member? Give us a call at (509) 343-6886 or email us at tickets@spokaneindians.com.

EX.

THE SPOKANE RIVER AND AVISTA

Courtesy of Avista Utilities

The Spokane River provides us all with clean and affordable electricity, and much more, including a home for fish, habitat for wildlife and opportunities for recreation. We are committed to helping protect and enhance the health of the river. One way we work toward that end is in our fishery efforts in the river and nearby lakes.

Avista's Long Lake Dam creates the reservoir known as Lake Spokane, a great place to swim, boat, fish and live. As part of our operations on Lake Spokane, we monitor the water, particularly the fluctuation of oxygen and temperature. This helps us better understand conditions important to the fish who live in the lake.

Lake Spokane is managed to promote both warm water and cold-water fish, and to support sports fishing and native fish restoration. "Cold water fish, such as trout, are looking for water with cooler temperatures and high oxygen levels. That's the sweet spot," said Monica Ott, environmental scientist with Avista. "To better understand their preferred areas we are exploring temperature and oxygen levels available in the shallower areas of the lake."

Avista has monitored Lake Spokane for more than 10 years, in partnership with the Washington Department of Ecology. This year we implemented a new technique using automated recorders affixed to buoys at three different locations on the lake. This allows us to get readings of temperature and oxygen every 15 minutes, at varying depths.

Staff visit each buoy every other week throughout the summer and download the data, which we share with the Department of Ecology. Additionally, staff visit other baseline locations on the lake, from which we have recorded data for the past decade and capture manual readings. At those sites, Monica measures temperature, pH, conductivity and oxygen from the bottom of the lake to the surface.

“It gives us a vertical profile of the water column and allows us to compare data so that its relevant to our past data.”

In 2012, Avista initiated a 10-year plan to improve total dissolved oxygen in Lake Spokane. The data Monica collects helps us better understand the number of factors that contribute to the lake’s health.

One effort Avista has undertaken with the Washington Department of Fish and Wildlife to improve the lakes health is carp removal. Carp, an invasive species, often uproot and disturb vegetation, ultimately reducing oxygen levels in the lake. By removing carp, there are fewer invasive species competing with native species for the same habitat. In addition, excess phosphorus is removed from the watershed, which improve oxygen levels.

Another mitigation effort is a bulkhead removal program. Avista works with agency stakeholders and landowners to restore lakefront property to a more natural shoreline, to reduce erosion, add shoreline habitat and improve water quality on the lake.

Education is also key. “We want to let people know what water quality means, how dissolved oxygen gets improved and what they can do to make a difference,” said Monica. Partnering with state agencies and local homeowners, Avista is one of many stakeholders who have an impact on the lake. “We’re all in this together,” she said.

The Spokane Indians are all about the river! To learn more about the team’s Redband Rally Campaign and involvement, visit www.milb.com/spokane/community/redbandrally.

What made me apply to work with the Spokane Indians was hearing all the stories my brothers would talk about from working at the stadium.

What is your favorite memory of coming to Indians games when you were younger?

My favorite memories of coming to Indians games when I was younger include getting Dippin' Dots and seeing Otto!

What different gameday positions have you worked in?

I have been a Section Leader, Ticket Taker and Mobile Order Runner.

Out of those positions, which one has been your favorite and why?

My favorite position has been Section Leader because you get to have a longer interaction with the fans as well as get to watch some baseball at the same time.

There are a total of three Headley siblings that have worked with the Indians at the same time - What is it like working at the same place as your brothers?

It has been very unique being able to work with my brothers at the same time. It's not something a lot of people can say they have done! It is something that I will always remember.

What is your life like outside of Avista Stadium?

Outside of Avista Stadium, I work at Chick- Fil- A. I also love baking and being at the lake.

We heard you recently graduated from Mt. Spokane High School while also receiving your AA from Spokane Community College and working two jobs. Any tips for other students trying to manage multiple responsibilities?

My tip for other students trying to manage multiple responsibilities would be to create a daily to-do list to get everything done that you need to.

What's the next step for you, and what do you see yourself doing in 10 years?

In the next 10 years, I see myself being a Special Education Teacher.

Alright... now the tough one — Do you have a favorite ballpark food item?

My favorite ballpark food is Chicken Tenders and fries.

STCU has been serving members since “Take Me Out to the Ballgame” made its debut at the ballpark.

In 1934, America’s baseball anthem was played during a game for the first time at a Los Angeles high school; later that year, it was called up to the bigs and played in game three of the World Series.

In Spokane, local educators teamed up to form STCU. All these years later, we’re still root, root, rooting for our members.

STCU welcomes players and fans back to the ballpark. We missed you.

Here for good. TM
