To Our Fans:

On behalf of Major League Baseball, it is my pleasure to welcome you to the second season of the new Appalachian League. Baseball has a storied history in Appalachian League communities, and we are proud to continue this tradition in partnership with USA Baseball, the national governing body for amateur baseball. The Appalachian League is well on its way to becoming the premier collegiate summer league for elite rising college freshmen and sophomore players.

Last season featured many exciting developments for the Appalachian League, largely because of how Appalachian League fans embraced the new format and collegiate players who were visiting their communities for the summer. All 10 teams went through an extensive rebranding process that focused on creative new names that paid homage to their respective local communities. The League held its first All-Star Game at Calfee Park in Pulaski, Virginia, nationally broadcast on MLB Network and decided on the final swing of a post-game Home Run Derby. Finally, the Appalachian League and its teams continued to be a driving force for good in their communities, as league charitable outreach totaled more than $2.5 million in gift-in-kind and monetary donations.

We expect the 2022 Appalachian League season to be even better than last year. The season will feature many of the nation's top collegiate athletes across a 58-game season, with players from every Power 5 conference plus players who have existing personal ties to the communities. Summer leagues have a long record of developing the next generation of baseball's stars, allowing you to catch a glimpse of the next Jim Thome, CC Sabathia, David Wright or Jose Altuve before they excel in the big leagues. The Appy League will be where these prospects showcase their abilities and grow their skills on and off the field.

The Appalachian League plays a central role in our new player development system. These players will benefit from new training methods and state-of-the-art technology, as well as educational programming designed to prepare them for careers as professional athletes. With this modernized system also comes significant enhancements to the fan experience. Our goal is to provide the most fun and excitement possible, the highest level of play and growth opportunities for the players who will be the future of our sport.

As we move into the second year of the new Appalachian League, we are grateful to you, our fans, for supporting America's Pastime and embracing this new format in your community. Thank you for coming to the ballpark today and supporting our great game. We couldn't be more excited for another season of the Appalachian League in communities like yours, and we look forward to hosting high-caliber baseball for years to come.

Sincerely,

Robert D. Manfred, Jr.
Commissioner of Baseball

Dear Fans:

Welcome to the 2022 season of the Appalachian League. We are excited about another great season of baseball in our storied league. This marks our 110th season of league play.

Congratulations to the 2021 Appalachian League Champion Greenville Flyboys. Led by Manager of the Year Alan Regier, the Flyboys scored two runs in the bottom of the ninth to defeat the East Division Champion Pulaski River Turtles 9-8 in dramatic fashion in the winner-take-all game. Elizabethton River Riders INF Marcus Brown (Oklahoma State) was named Player of the Year, while Flyboys RHP Bryce Mayer (St. Charles CC) earned Pitcher of the Year honors. Off the field, Greenville General Manager Kat Foster was named the Executive of the Year and the Burlington Sock Puppets received the Promotional Award of Excellence.

A number of great players, including Hall of Famers Nolan Ryan, Cal Ripken, Jr. and Tony Oliva, as well as present Major League stars like Ronald Acuña Jr. and Vladimir Guerrero Jr., have all played in the Appalachian League. Like these players, those who you will see tonight will look back years from now and remember the time they spent in your ballpark and your community.

Throughout the year, our clubs are actively engaged in numerous local charities and fundraising initiatives. We value the opportunity to give back to our communities through volunteerism. Appalachian League executives and team staff members have participated in blood drives, school lunch distributions, mask donations, food pantries, family shelters and diaper giveaways. We also held league-wide initiatives on the Martin Luther King Jr. Day of Service, with the league and each of its teams participating in different service projects and activities held in their local communities to honor Dr. King's legacy.

We are glad you decided to spend a few hours with us watching our great game. Our clubs are proud of the food we serve, the promotions on the field and the affordable family entertainment we bring to our ten communities in North Carolina, Tennessee, Virginia and West Virginia.

Please come again soon to see the Appalachian League in action.

Sincerely,

CHARITABLE CONTRIBUTIONS

The Appalachian League continues to give back to the towns and communities our teams call home, making a difference in our neighborhoods in North Carolina, Tennessee, Virginia, and West Virginia. The league's charitable outreach totaled more than $2.5 million of gift in kind and monetary donations in 2021. The league and its teams continued to be actively engaged in safely helping and assisting their local communities during the COVID-19 pandemic.

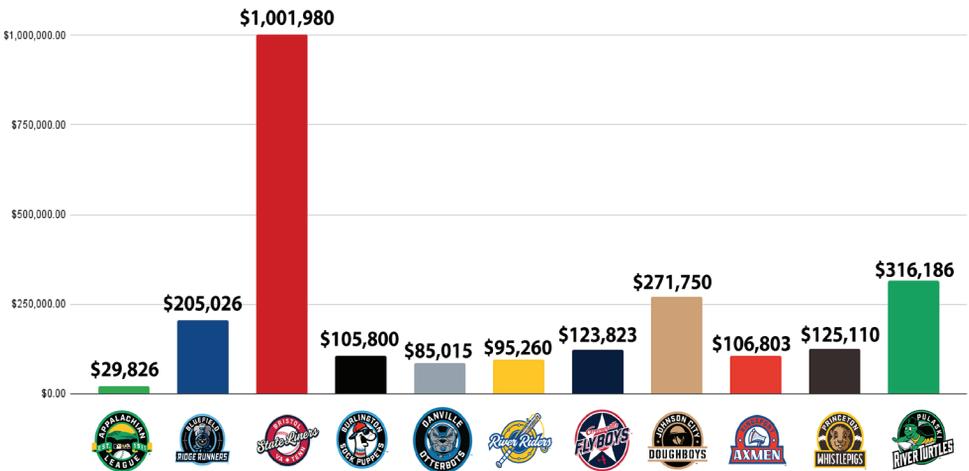

"As a league, we appreciate the opportunity to give back and to enhance the communities that have supported our member clubs for more than 100 years," league president Dan Moushon said.

Appalachian League executives and team staff members volunteered through food deliveries, speaking engagements, mask donations, player appearances, jersey auctions and more.

League representatives also participated in a league service project at Bays Mountain Park and Planetarium. Prior to the 2021 All-Star Game, the Pulaski River Turtles hosted a very successful Play Ball youth clinic at Calfee Park.

BURLINGTON SOCK PUPPETS TO HOST THE 2022 APPALACHIAN LEAGUE ALL-STAR GAME

Two-Day Event Will Be Held on July 25 and July 26 at Burlington Athletic Stadium

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. -- The Burlington Sock Puppets will host the 2022 Appalachian League All-Star Game at Burlington Athletic Stadium on July 25 and July 26. The two-day event will feature a Fan Fest and Skills Competition on Monday and the All-Star Game on Tuesday. The All-Star Game will be streamed live on MLB.com and replayed nationally on MLB Network (Date/Time TBD). Former Danville Brave and 17-year MLB veteran Bruce Chen will be a part of the broadcast team.

"We are extremely proud to be hosting the Appalachian League All-Star Game in Burlington." Burlington Mayor, Jim Butler said. "We believe we have an All-Star venue in Burlington Athletic Stadium and we have an All-Star Team in our Sock Puppets; so it's only fitting that we host the All-Star Game. We are honored to have that opportunity."

Anderson Rathbun, General Manager of the Burlington Sock Puppets, echoed Mayor Butler's thoughts and continued saying, "when we launched our rebranded identity last year, we wanted to tell the story of our community but also to have a sports identity that resembles what people will see when they walk through our gates -- a sockingly different experience."

Monday, July 25: Fan Fest and Skills Competition All-Star Game festivities begin on Monday, July 25 when the gates open to Burlington Athletic Stadium at 5:00pm with a full-roster autograph session for fans. Live music, fire breathers, circus acts, inflatables and more will also start when gates open. At 7:00pm the Skills Competition is slated to begin, but this isn't your run of the mill Skills Competition. This event will not only focus on the incredible, physical talent of our All-Stars, but will also put the fans of each Appalachian team against other fans, players, and coaches.

Tuesday, July 26: All-Star Game The All-Star Game, which is set to start at 7:00pm on July 26, will feature the best players from the West Division against the best players from the East. The uniqueness, however, isn't just going to be on display that Monday... Stay tuned for what the Sock Puppets will be unveiling leading up to the contest that will surely knock your socks off.

"Last season's All-Star Game in Pulaski was a great event for the players, fans, and everyone involved," League President Dan Moushon said. "In addition to showcasing our players' skills, we look forward to the exciting events and festivities that the Sock Puppets have planned for both players and fans in Burlington."

The inaugural Appalachian League All-Star Game was held July 27, 2021 at Calfee Park in Pulaski, VA. In a game that featured six total home runs, the East and West All-Stars were tied at six after nine innings. The West then won a tie breaking home run derby, 10-9, to secure a victory over the East.

LEAGUE HISTORY

The Appalachian League was born in 1911 with teams in Asheville, N.C.; Bristol, Va.; Cleveland, Tenn.; Johnson City, Tenn.; Knoxville, Tenn.; and Morristown, Tenn. That first version of the league lasted just four years, with the league disbanding in the middle of the 1914 season when Morristown and Middlesboro, Ky., folded on June 17.

The league reformed in 1921 with six teams: Bristol; Cleveland; Greeneville, Tenn.; Johnson City; Kingsport, Tenn.; and Knoxville. That incarnation of the league managed five seasons, before again closing up shop midway through 1925.

In 1937, the league was restarted with teams in Elizabethton, Tenn.; Johnson City; Newport, Tenn.; and Pennington Gap, Va. During World War II, while most other minor leagues ceased operations, the Appalachian League played on. It continued right up until 1955. That year legendary minor league slugger Leo “Muscle” Shoals led the league with 33 homers and 134 RBIs in a 126-game season for Kingsport. It was the fifth Appalachian League home run title for Shoals, who had also led in 1939, 1946, 1947 and 1951.

The Appalachian League reformed again in 1957, its first year as a short-season league. Six teams played that year, in Bluefield, W.Va.; Johnson City; Kingsport; Pulaski, Va.; Salem, Va.; and Wytheville, Va. The league, which put 139 former players on MLB rosters in 2021, served as a rookie-level league in Minor League Baseball from 1963 until 2021, when it became part of the Prospect Development Pipeline (PDP) and began fielding teams with collegiate athletes.

A collaborative effort between MLB and USA Baseball, the PDP establishes a player development pathway for amateur baseball players in the United States. Beginning in 2021, the Appalachian League serves as an integral part of the identification and development process for the USA Baseball Collegiate National Team, along with other future national teams. Players receive extensive visibility to MLB Club scouts throughout the season and instruction from former MLB players designed to prepare them for careers as professional athletes.

ABOUT

The 98-year history of baseball in Bluefield continues this summer as the club enters its second season in the newly revamped Appalachian League. Most recently an affiliate of the Toronto Blue Jays organization since 2011, Bluefield revealed a new identity in 2021 as the Ridge Runners.

Reflective of the rich railroad history of the Bluefield area, the name references the fact that historic Bowen Field at Peters Park straddles the state line of Virginia and West Virginia, as did the original namesake of the team.

Beginning in 1964, the original Ridge Runner locomotive circumnavigated a one-mile loop atop East River Mountain, half in Virginia and half in West Virginia. The little train now resides just outside the right field wall of Bowen Field. On warm summer days, you can see and hear the excited passengers as the train makes its loop throughout Lottio Park.

A 13-time Appalachian league champion, Bluefield most recently won the title in 2001. Notable alumni of the club include Hall of Famers Cal Ripken, Jr. and Eddie Murray, as well as current Major Leaguers Kevin Pillar, Daniel Norris, Vladimir Guerrero, Jr., and Noah Syndergaard.

Leading the Ridge Runners into the 2022 Appy League season will be manager Aaron Mathews, who began his coaching career in Bluefield with the Blue Jays in 2015. Joining him on the bench will be pitching coach Garrett Schilling, hitting coach Mike Weatherford and bench coach Cristian Crespo.

ABOUT

Bristol will be returning to its roots this season as the club enters the new version of the Appalachian League with the same name it used when it began its second foray into the league exactly 100 years ago as the then-newly renamed State Liners.

In addition to recognizing the centennial anniversary of Bristol's return to the Appy League in 1921, the team's name also celebrates the unique nature of the Twin Cities which share the same name and lie directly across the Tennessee-Virginia border from each other. The boundary between the two cities is also the state line, which runs along State Street in their common downtown district.

To further celebrate the historical connection, the team's logos will use the same blue and red coloring that appear in the American flag, and will incorporate a cream which harkens back to a color found in many old-time baseball jerseys.

A number of notable players have suited up for Bristol over the years, including Hall of Famer Alan Trammell and many other former MLB stars, among them Bobby Thomson, Lance Parrish, Lou Whitaker, Carlos Lee, Gio Gonzalez and Chris Young who is currently the general manager of the Texas Rangers.

Most recently an affiliate of the Pittsburgh Pirates organization since 2014, Bristol also served as a farm team for the Detroit Tigers and Chicago White Sox over the years. It has won seven Appalachian League championships with its last coming in 2002.

Leading the State Liners into the 2022 Appalachian

League will be Barbaro Garbey. He will be joined on the coaching staff by pitching coach Larry McCall, hitting coach Juan Lopez, and bench coach Xavier Paul.

Following his arrival to the United States from Cuba in 1980, Garbey played parts of nine seasons in professional baseball, including 226 games over three seasons in the big leagues for the Detroit Tigers (1984-85) and Texas Rangers (1988). He made his MLB debut in 1984, hitting .287 with 52 RBIs while helping the Tigers win their fourth World Series title. ABOUT Baseball has long been a sport with an obsession in hosiery. From the Red Stockings to the White Sox, teams have used these colorful uniform accessories to differentiate themselves on the field and brand themselves off of it. Couple that with Burlington, North Carolina's century-long tradition of hosiery manufacturing and you have a perfect match.

Known as the "Hosiery Capital of the South," Burlington decided to embrace its history and tradition when it announced its "sockingly unique" identity for its entry into the newly-reorganized Appalachian League. Fans can certainly say they have a team that is uniquely theirs when they cheer on the Sock Puppets this summer.

With over 80 hosiery mills in Burlington by the early 1900s, the textile industry has always been an important part of the local economy. That was never more true than during the Great Depression when a switch from cotton to a new synthetic fiber called rayon helped the city become one of the largest manufacturers of textiles in the world, which saved it from many of the economic difficulties of the time.

The Sock Puppets will not only carry on that tradition but a strong history of success on the field as well. Most recently an affiliate of the Kansas City Royals organization since 2007, the organization has seen a host of great players don the Burlington uniform over the years, including Hall of Famer Jim Thome, former MLB stars Manny Ramirez, C.C. Sabathia and Bartolo Colon, current Major Leaguers Salvador Perez and Wil Myers and current Cincinnati Reds manager David Bell.

The club will turn to Ty Blankmeyer to lead the way in year two of the new Appalachian League. He will be joined in the dugout by pitching coach Anthony Essien, hitting coach Rob Selna, and bench coach Carol Laube.

COACHING STAFF

TY BLANKMEYER MANAGER

Ty Blankmeyer is entering his first season as the manager of the Sock Puppets. He is also a member of the Wake Forest Demon Deacons coaching staff. Prior to joining the Deacs, Blankmeyer served as an area scout in the Milwaukee Brewers system from 2017-21. During his time with the Brewers, Blankmeyer was in charge of all scouting responsibilities in the Northeast region of the United States. His time with the Brewers was highlighted by the drafting and signing of Sal Frelick, the 15th overall pick in the 2021 MLB Draft. Blankmeyer is from Morristown, NJ and played collegiately at St. John's from 2013-16. He appeared in 128 games and was a part of the 2015 Big East Championship team. Blankmeyer also won a Gold Glove in the Northwoods League in 2015. He was selected in the 36th round by the Cincinnati Reds in the 2016 MLB Draft and hit .281 over 26 games in the Pioneer League.

ANTHONY ESSIEN PITCHING COACH

With over decades of coaching experience under his belt, Anthony Essien is set to serve as the pitching coach for the Burlington Sock Puppets for the second straight summer. He is currently in his seventh season as an assistant coach at Reedley College. Essien coaches the pitchers and is a part of all recruiting aspects for the Tigers. Prior to joining the Tigers, he spent 17 years as an Assistant Coach under legendary Valley coach James Patrick at Clovis High School in California. Essien was part of 7 Valley Championships, 3 State Championships, and 2 National Championships (1997 & 1998). During his tenure at Clovis he coached over 50 players that moved on to College, over 20 players that played in the Minor leagues, and one Major Leaguer (Ryan Cook). Essien was a 3 year letterman at Narbonne High School in Harbor City, California and pitched at Mendocino Junior College in 1990.

ROB SELNA HITTING COACH

Rob Selna is in his first season as the hitting coach in Burlington. Selna is entering his 27th year overall in coaching baseball. Selna has coached at the high school, junior college, and DI level. He has also coached in the Cape Cod League and California Collegiate League.

CAROL LAUBE BENCH COACH

Carol Laube is entering her first season as the bench coach in Burlington. Laube is currently the Head Junior Varsity Baseball Coach at Galena High School in Reno, NV. Laube was previously a concert violinist with the Reno Philharmonic Orchestra, but a shoulder injury forced her to take six months off from playing violin to heal. She decided to pursue baseball coaching after that. Her father was a minor league baseball player and she played softball for several years. After the injury in 2017, she took an on-line course in athletic coaching through Ball State University and obtained her master's degree.

ABOUT

For the first time in almost three decades, baseball in Danville has its own unique identity, one formed by ideas from fans and community members and which represents Danville and the Southside to the fullest extent.

Derived from two overwhelming themes the team heard in conversations with fans and saw in a name submission contest - the playfulness and symbolism of otters and the future of STEM education and new industry across the southside of Virginia - the organization will now be known as the Danville Otterbots.

The Otterbots' primary blue is designed to honor the Dan River and highlight the role it played in building the tobacco and textile industries that defined Danville for generations. The team's secondary orange, featured in the otter's eyes, is closely aligned with the color of the HOME sign, formerly above Dan River Fabrics, currently adorned in the River District on Main Street. The tobacco industry, the mills and the HOME sign were three more recurring themes seen in name submissions.

The neon typeface, which will be proudly displayed on the team's jerseys, is a tribute to two additional themes: the blur of the cars racing by at nearby speedways and race tracks and the bright lights of the casino that will soon call Danville home.

Heading into year two, the Otterbots have announced a slew of improvements and programs that are new for 2022. Danville now boasts the Appy League's first Ballpark Sensory Room: Luca's Place, presented by the Hughes Center. The Good-year's Good Seats program will donate 20 tickets per home game to local non profit organizations. A new "History of Danville Baseball" mural will greet fans along the 1st base concourse, featuring logos of the Danville Leafs, Danville All-Stars, Danville Braves, and Danville 97s. Finally, "Lagerbot," brewed by Danville's Ballard Brewing, will be available all season long in a branded can featuring the Otterbots name and logo.

Desi Relaford returns as the Otterbots manager, along with pitching coach Clyde Keller and hitting coach and Danville native Ed Fulton. Torrey Pettiford joins the club as the bench coach in 2022.

ABOUT

The most successful team in Appalachian League history with 14 championships, Elizabethton will look to keep that storied history alive as it transitions into a new identity as the River Riders this summer.

Surrounded by the Watauga and Doe Rivers and with Watauga Lake just miles away, Elizabethton has become a popular destination for aquatic recreation, including whitewater rafting, kayaking, and fishing.

The Watauga River, which runs parallel to the third-base line of Northeast Community Credit Union Ballpark, has some of the highest quality whitewater in the Southeast with Class I, II, and III rapids.

The drier surface of the baseball diamond has proven to be a little more predictable for Elizabethton over the years as the organization has won an Appy League-high 14 championships, including back-to-back titles in 2017-18. Most of that success came as an affiliate of the Minnesota Twins organization, a relationship that dated back to the 1974 campaign.

Alumni of the Elizabethton club include Hall of Famer Kirby Puckett, former Major Leaguers Gary Gaetti, Kent Hrbek, and Joe Mauer, as well as current big leaguers Byron Buxton, Miguel Sano, Jorge Polanco, and Max Kepler.

Manning the helm for the River Riders in 2022 will be Jeremy Owens. Assisting him will be pitching coach John Chalupa, hitting coach Lee Stevens, and bench coach Bree Nasti.

He spent the 2017 campaign with the independent New Jersey Jackals before returning to affiliated ball, coaching with the Low-A Bowling Green Hot Rods for two seasons. ABOUT

With a history dating back exactly a century to 1921, baseball has long been a part of Greenville's narrative. That tradition will continue this year as the newly rebranded Greenville Flyboys will continue to play in the Appalachian League, now one of the nation's premier wooden bat collegiate summer leagues.

Flyboys was chosen as the official name of the club in reference to the fact that the team's stadium was constructed near to the location of an old airfield, as well as the strong history of patriotism in the area.

The "Jewel of the Appalachian League," Pioneer Park opened in 2004 in conjunction with Tusculum College and was built just a few hundred feet from the former runway of Tusculum Field, the first airport in Greene County.

Most recently an affiliate of the Cincinnati Reds since 2018, Greenville was also a longtime affiliate of the Houston Astros from 2004-17, winning Appy League titles in 2004 and 2015, and played host to two versions of the Greenville Burley Cubs from 1921-25 and 1938-42.

Among the many future Major Leaguers to play in Greenville are current stars Jose Altuve, Lance McCullers, Jr., Carlos Correa, J.D. Martinez, and Joe Musgrove.

ABOUT

The baseball jerseys in Johnson City will sport a new logo for the first time in over 45 years this summer as it joins the newly-reorganized Appalachian League as the Doughboys.

The nickname is in reference to a statue behind their home stadium, TVA Credit Union Ballpark, named “Spirit of the American Doughboy.” Doughboys was a nickname for American soldiers during World War I and the statue honors U.S. infantrymen who died in service to their country.

The Doughboys moniker also harkens back to the city’s baseball past as Johnson City’s original Appalachian League team was called the Soldiers from 1910-38.

Johnson City is the final champion of the affiliated Appy League, winning its 11th title in 2019. It had served as an affiliate of the St. Louis Cardinals since 1975, among its alumni former Cy Young winners Ron Guidry (1978) and LaMarr Hoyt (1983), 1991 National League MVP Terry Pendleton, and current big leaguers Yadier Molina, and Jordan Hicks.

Kevin Mahoney is set to serve as the skipper for Johnson City in 2022. In the dugout with him will be pitching coach Ryan Mossman, hitting coach Wayne Riser, and bench coach Jacqui Reynolds.

COACHING STAFF

KEVIN MAHONEY

MANAGER

Kevin Mahoney will manage the Doughboys in 2022. Mahoney sports over 14 years of playing and coaching experience at the collegiate and professional level. The Miller Place, NY native was drafted in the 23rd round of the 2009 draft by the New York Yankees. Mahoney played collegiately at Canisius College where he was twice an All-MAAC selection and the 2009 MAAC Player of the Year. Correspondingly he was the 2008 Coastal Plain League Offensive Player of the Year, representing the Forest City Owls. Mahoney played six seasons professionally, five in the Yankees organization. He made it as high as Triple-A Scranton/Wilkes-Barre in 2013. Prior to retiring, Mahoney played one year in the American Association. In 61 games with the Amarillo Sox, he hit .286 with 2 home runs and 21 RBI. In 442 professional games, Mahoney was a .257 hitter. After retiring in 2014, Mahoney has been a coach in the Yankees organization for seven years.

ABOUT

In 1775, Daniel Boone and 35 axmen began clearing forests in East Tennessee, near present-day Kingsport, to create the Wilderness Road.

Little did they know that they would later be memorialized by a baseball team over 200 years later, but that is exactly the case as the Appalachian League's Kingsport organization has been rebranded as the Axmen in honor of that group of frontiersmen.

Much like how the Wilderness Road led early settlers from the East into Kentucky, the Kingsport Axmen hope that this new identity will help lead them to continued success in the new-look collegiate wooden bat Appy League.

It is the first name change the club has seen since 1980 when it became an affiliate of the New York Mets. En route to seven league titles over the years, dozens of future big leaguers have passed through Kingsport on their way to The Show, including Dale Murphy, Darryl Strawberry, Dwight Gooden, Kevin Mitchell, Jose' Reyes, David Wright, and two-time National League Cy Young Award winner Jacob deGrom.

Guiding the Axmen into 2022 is Mike Guinn. At his side will be pitching coach Josh Warner, hitting coach Aaron Guinn, and bench coach TyRelle Harris.

MIKE GUINN

MANAGER

Mike Guinn returns to the Kingsport Axmen for the second straight season. A Knoxville, TN native, Guinn has amassed 468 wins in 17 seasons as a high school Head Coach, formerly at Anderson County High School and currently at Pigeon Forge High School. His teams have won 14 district championships and five region championships, reaching the region tournament every year in each of his first 17 seasons. Guinn has aided more than 50 players to sign letters of intent to play baseball at the collegiate level. When not on the diamond, Guinn teaches health science and rehab careers at Pigeon Forge High School.

JOSH WARNER

PITCHING COACH

Josh Warner returns to Mike Guinn's staff for the 2022 season, he is the pitching coach in Kingsport. Warner is the Head Baseball Coach at Powell High School in Tennessee. Warner previously spent one year as an assistant coach at Pigeon Forge High School where the team finished 27-9 and won a district championship. In between coaching stints in The Volunteer State, Warner coached at Easley High School in South Carolina from 2014-18. His team went 82-23 and won two region championships. He was also named Coach of the Year twice and had 11 student-athletes sign collegiate baseball scholarships. Warner has also coached at Gatlinburg-Pittman High School and Jefferson Count High School. He is a native of Kingsport and a graduate of East Tennessee State University where he pitched for the Buccaneers.

AARON GUINN

HITTING COACH

Aaron Guinn returns to Kingsport as the hitting coach. Guinn is the Associate Head Coach at Pigeon Forge High School in Tennessee. Guinn played at Tusculum College and played two years of Independent Baseball.

TY'RELLE HARRIS

BENCH COACH

Ty'Relle Harris joins the Axmen as the bench coach for 2022. Harris began his collegiate baseball career in 2006 at the University of Pacific. The California native then transferred to Sacramento City College where he spent one year. Harris then spent two seasons pitching at the University of Tennessee. The Atlanta Braves drafted Harris in the 19th round in 2009. He began his professional career with the Danville Braves in 2009. Harris made just three appearances with Danville, and posted a 1.59 ERA in 5.2 innings pitched. Over 12 years, Harris spent time in the Braves and Chicago Cubs organizations, the Atlantic League, the American Association, the Pacific Association, the Chinese Professional Baseball League, the Puerto Rican Winter League, the Venezuelan Winter League, and the Australian Baseball League. In 329 professional appearances, Harris has a career 4.35 ERA with 781 strikeouts in 757.0 innings pitched.

ABOUT

When the Appalachian League’s Princeton organization started to look for a new nickname, it didn’t have to look far.

Near to the team’s home, Hunnicutt Field, is a small creek where you can often spot one of the area’s more adorable, albeit pesky, animals.

While they might normally be referred to as groundhogs, that is not the case in West Virginia where residents often call them by the more colloquial name of whistlepigs, based on the high-pitched whistling sound they are known to make when they feel threatened.

That was as far as the search for a new team name needed to go and how the Princeton Whistlepigs became part of the new-look Appy League.

Previously known as the Princeton Rays due to their affiliation with Tampa Bay since 1997, the West Virginia town has seen its fair share of future big leaguers suit up for the hometown team, including Carl Crawford, Josh Hamilton, Kevin Kiermaier, Blake Snell, and current Minnesota Twins manager Rocco Baldelli.

ABOUT

According to the Virginia Herpetological Society, 20 different species of turtles reside within the state's boundaries, over half of which can be found in the New River Valley where the town of Pulaski is located.

In a nod to that New River Valley heritage and its waterways teeming with terrapins, the newly-restructured Appalachian League's Pulaski franchise has been rebranded as the River Turtles.

The inspiration behind the River Turtles name was based on feedback from the local baseball community, as well as a renewed commitment to a family-friendly culture at Motor Mile Field at Calfee Park.

Most recently an affiliate of the New York Yankees, Pulaski is a four-time Appy League champion since joining the league in 1946. Its alumni include former MLB stars David Justice, Steve Avery, and Javy Lopez, and even legendary football coach Urban Meyer who spent two seasons in the Atlanta Braves organization.

Returning as the manager of the Pulaski River Turtles is Clark Crist who brings with him 42 years of professional baseball experience with seven different MLB organizations. At his side in the dug-out will be pitching coach Ted Power, hitting coach Roger Hill, and bench coach Chris Kennedy.

COACHING STAFF

CLARK CRIST

MANAGER

Clark Crist will manage the River Turtles for a second straight season. Crist led Pulaski to 32 wins, the East Division Title, and reached the Appy League Championship Game in 2021. His baseball career spans more than four decades. The Tucson, AZ native was the starting shortstop for the 1980 National Champion University of Arizona baseball team. He was drafted by the Seattle Mariners in the 14th round of the 1980 MLB Draft. Crist spent four seasons in Minor League Baseball and eventually served as a player-coach for the Mariners' Double-A affiliate from 1982-85. Crist's baseball tenure also includes scouting roles with the Houston Astros, Boston Red Sox, Cleveland Indians, New York Mets, St. Louis Cardinals, Cincinnati Reds, and Arizona Diamondbacks. He oversaw the signing of many notable names as an MLB scout, including Kenny Loftin, Albert Pujols, and Coco Crisp.

TED POWER

PITCHING COACH

Longtime Major League pitcher and coach Ted Power arrives in Pulaski this summer to serve as the pitching coach for the River Turtles for the second straight season. Most recently the bullpen coach for the Cincinnati Reds from 2016-18, he also worked throughout the club's minor league system as the pitching coach for the Rookie Advanced League Billings Mustangs (2000-01), High-A Dayton Dragons (2002) and Triple-A Louisville Bats (2006-16). Over the course of his 13-year MLB playing career Power pitched for eight different teams, posting a 4.00 ERA over 564 appearances with 701 strikeouts and 70 saves. In his first of two stints with the Reds, he led the National League with 78 appearances in 1984, recorded a career-high 27 saves in 1985 and amassed 204.0 innings over 34 starts in 1987. In 1990, Power helped the Pittsburgh Pirates reach the NL Championship Series, starting game six for the Bucs. He also pitched for the Los Angeles Dodgers, Kansas City Royals, St. Louis Cardinals, Cleveland Indians and Seattle Mariners. Power was drafted in the fifth round of the 1976 MLB Draft out of Kansas State.

ROGER HILL

HITTING COACH

Roger Hill will join the Pulaski River Turtles as the club's hitting coach for the second straight season. He is currently in his first season as head coach of the West Los Angeles College baseball team after having served as an assistant coach with the Wildcats since 2014. Hill previously coached at Compton Community College and Washington Preparatory High School in California, as well as two seasons in the Cleveland Indians minor league system. As a player, Hill was named the California State Junior College Co-Player of the Year before moving on to the University of Nebraska where he earned All-Big 8 First Team honors in back-to-back seasons. He was then drafted in the 14th round of the 1982 MLB Draft by the Seattle Mariners and played five professional seasons, ascending as high as Triple-A.

CHRIS KENNEDY

BENCH COACH

Chris Kennedy is in his first season as the bench coach in Pulaski. Kennedy played collegiately at Bacone College in Muskogee, OK and professionally for the White Sand Pupfish in the Independent Pecos League in Alamogordo, NM.
