We are a true baseball family. Within the Minor Leagues, my daughter works in promotions, my husband was a groundskeeper and I am a merchandise manager. My husband experienced a life changing medical event that has left him with little hope to ever return to his job. The Baseball Assistance Team kept us from losing our home. I honestly don't know what I would have done without them!

We are Minor League Club Employees

We are part of the Baseball Family

We are B.A.T.™ grant recipients

The Baseball Assistance Team provides members of the Baseball Family with medical, financial and psychological assistance through charitable contributions from corporations, foundations and individuals. THE HISTORY OF THE MINOR LEAGUES

THE BEGINNING (1901-1932)

The National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues (NAPBL or NA), now known as Minor League Baseball, was formed Sept. 5, 1901, from a meeting of Minor League executives at the Leland Hotel in Chicago. The President of the Eastern League, Patrick T. Powers, was elected as the first president of the NAPBL. Fourteen leagues and 96 clubs were members during the first season in 1902. The first NA office was established in Auburn, New York, under President Powers and successfully run by Secretary-Treasurer John H. Farrell. By the time Powers left office in 1909, there were 35 leagues and 246 clubs.

In 1910, Michael Sexton became president. In his first few years, wars between the Major Leagues and the outlaw Federal League hurt Minor League Baseball. The Federal League raided top Minor League Baseball teams, as well as National and American League teams, for players and territory. Sexton led a fight at the 1914 Baseball Winter Meetings to ward off a bid from radicals for Minor League Baseball to desert the Major Leagues and back the Federal League. For 22 years, Sexton presided over Minor League Baseball, leaving at the height of the Depression in 1932. But during his time, peace was restored and the Minor Leagues began to flourish.

THE BRAMHAM & TRAUTMAN ERA (1933-1963)

At the 1932 Baseball Winter Meetings, Judge William G. Bramham was elected president and served for 15 years. Bramham, who moved the NAPBL office to Durham, North Carolina, inherited 14 leagues and 102 clubs, but turned over 52 leagues and 388 clubs to George M. Trautman in 1947. During the height of World War II in 1943, the National Association had only 66 clubs and drew less than six million fans, an all-time low. But the end of the war would see fans again crowding into the ballparks in record numbers.

Trautman moved the office to Columbus, Ohio, as he began a 16-year reign as president. The year 1949 saw 59 leagues and 448 clubs, both all-time highs, attract 39,640,443 fans, a record that stood for 54 years. However, the advent of television and, in Trautman's last two years, Major League expansion, would begin to cut into attendance. Following Trautman's death in March 1963, Frank Shaughnessy served as interim president until Trautman's assistant, Phillip Piton, was elected in December 1963. There were 20 leagues and 132 clubs in 1964 and attendance was only 10 million. By the time Piton left office in 1971, membership was back to 155 clubs.

THE MOVE TO SAINT PETERSBURG (1973)

With the election of Henry J. Peters as president in December 1971, the NA was headed for another move. In September 1973, the office found its fourth home on Fourth Street South in St. Petersburg, Florida. Peters left in 1975 to become general manager of the Baltimore Orioles. Robert R. "Bobby" Bragan became president in January 1976, and by 1978 there were 158 clubs. On March 28, 1978, the office moved five blocks to Bayshore Drive into the old clubhouse beside Al Lang Stadium, which was renovated and turned into an office building.

THE 1980s & 90s: A PERIOD OF PROSPERITY

In January 1979, John H. Johnson took office and while the number of clubs stayed between 160 and 170, attendance skyrocketed. In 1987, more than 20 million fans attended games, a figure not reached since 1953. Franchise values also went up dramatically during Johnson's time. Johnson died January 12, 1988, and Sal Artiaga was elected in April as the ninth president. His first year in office saw Minor League Baseball climb to over 21,659,000 in attendance with 188 clubs.

Mike Moore, who had been Chief Administrative Officer of the NA, was elected president during the 1991 Baseball Winter Meetings. One of his first moves after taking over in January 1992 was to convene a constitutional convention that would rewrite the National Association Agreement, the by-laws that spell out the relationship between the NA and its member leagues. It was an agreement that had not materially changed in nearly a century of existence. One of the more important changes was converting the National Association to more of a "corporate" structure than a "political" one. The governing authority of the NA is vested in the president, working closely on policy and direction with the 17-member Board of Trustees (consisting of one club owner from each of the various leagues) and the Council of League Presidents (consisting of the Presidents of the various leagues).

The NA had phenomenal growth under the leadership of Moore, who retired in December 2007 after 16 years as president. In 1991, prior to becoming president, he established an agency agreement partnership between the Professional Baseball Promotion Corporation, a NAPBL subsidiary, and Major League Baseball Properties to authorize licensed merchandise. From a humble beginning in the early 1990s, merchandise sales in 2018 topped $85.7 million.

There were several major accomplishments during the 1998 season, including the realignment of Triple-A baseball from three leagues into two, and establishing the Triple-A World Series, which was played in Las Vegas (1998-2000). From 2006-19, the Triple-A champion has been determined by the winner of a game between the International League and Pacific Coast League champions, hosted by a Triple-A club. Another subsidiary, Professional Baseball Umpire Corp. (PBUC), was formed in 1998 to operate and maintain the umpire program for the 16 domestic leagues, under terms of the historic 10-year Professional Baseball Agreement that was negotiated with Major League Baseball.

Minor League Baseball has been a continuing success story at the box office. The 2008 regular season attendance total of 43,263,740 established a new all-time record. Total regular season attendance has increased in 28 of the last 37 seasons and has surpassed 33-million fans for 25 straight years, a level not attained since the late 1940s when membership consisted of more than 50 leagues and more than 400 teams. In 2019, the 15 leagues with a total of 176 teams that charged admission attracted 41,504,077 fans.

THE O'CONNER YEARS

After serving 15 years as chief operating officer, Pat O'Conner took over as Minor League Baseball's 11th president in January 2008. O'Conner was re-elected to a second term in December 2011, a third term in December 2015 and a fourth term in December 2019 before his retirement on Dec. 31, 2020.

Highlights of O'Conner's first term in office included the extension of the Professional Baseball Agreement with Major League Baseball through the 2020 season; a five-year collective bargaining agreement with the Association of Minor League Umpires (AMLU) through 2016; realignment of four Class A leagues; the organization-wide bundling of Internet rights; a first-ever diversity initiative; and the location of new office space comprising of four buildings, totaling 18,000 square feet, on 16th Street North in St. Petersburg, Florida.

In his second term, O'Conner and MiLB launched Minor League Baseball Enterprises and Project Brand in 2013 in an effort to create national sponsorship revenues by monetizing the collective branding power of 160 Minor League Baseball franchises. Prior to the 2015 season, PBUC was re-named MiLB Umpire Development and The Umpire School was rebranded as the Minor League Baseball Umpire Training Academy. Also in 2015, Major League Baseball began the use of 20-second pitch clocks to speed up the pace of play at the Triple-A and Double-A levels. The result was a 13-minute improvement in the time of game at those levels.

In 2016, Major League Baseball implemented the use of 15-second pitch clocks in the Florida State League which led to a six-minute improvement in the time of FSL games and in 2018, Minor League Baseball began placing a runner at second base in extra innings. The change resulted in 73% of games ending in one extra inning and more than 1,000 fewer extra innings being played than in previous seasons.

PANDEMIC SEASON

On June 30, 2020, the 2020 season was the first season in Minor League Baseball history to be canceled as the global coronavirus pandemic shut down much of the country in mid-March. Minor League clubs went more than 600 days without playing a game from September 2019 until the Minor Leagues reopened on May 4, 2021. Following O'Conner's retirement and the resignation of Vice President Stan Brand, MiLB's Senior Vice President and General Counsel, D. Scott Poley, was named the 12th president of the National Association as the organization transitioned to operation by Major League Baseball.

MAJOR LEAGUE BASEBALL TAKES OVER OPERATION OF MINOR LEAGUES

Following the expiration of the PBA on Sept. 30, 2020, Major League Baseball took over operations of Minor League Baseball, with 120 teams signing 10-year Professional Development Licenses to remain as affiliates of MLB's 30 clubs. MLB Commissioner Rob Manfred named Peter Woodfork as senior vice president, Minor League Operations & Development.

Albuquerque is the only city to win Minor League Baseball's John H. Johnson President's Award three times (in 1984 and 1991 as the Dukes and in 2018 as the Isotopes).

The Isotopes claimed the first two Copa de la Diversion championships in 2018 and 2019 for their efforts as the Mariachis de Nuevo Mexico. On May 5, 2018, the team set a franchise attendance record as 16,975 fans packed Isotopes Park for the Mariachis' debut.

During the 2021 season, the Isotopes will draw their 10 millionth fan since opening Isotopes Park in 2003. The Isotopes have averaged 567,678 fans per season over the past 17 years in the new ballpark.

Despite having an organization history that dates back to 1902, Chipper Jones' induction into the National Baseball Hall of Fame in 2018 marked just the second time a former Durham Bull has been enshrined in Cooperstown. Joe Morgan was the first.

Durham's Blake Snell was the 2015 Minor League Player of the Year.

Durham Bulls Athletic Park was built in 1995 and features the iconic "Hit Bull, Win Steak" sign above the left field wall that was a staple at the old ballpark and made famous in the movie "Bull Durham."

Light up the night...

Western League Park on Sixth Avenue and Holcomb in Des Moines was the site of the first professional baseball game played under permanent lights on May 2, 1930, when the Des Moines Demons beat the Wichita Aviators 13-6 in front of 12,000 fans.

Principal Park sits at the confluence of the Des Moines and Raccoon rivers and provides a view of the Iowa State Capitol building in the distance behind the center field wall. The downtown Des Moines skyline is visible to fans seated on the first base side of the grandstand.

Promotional honor....

In 2019, the Jumbo Shrimp were honored by the Southern League with the league's Promotional Trophy. Their promotional calendar was highlighted by a night that drew just two fans. In conjunction with local charity Dreams Come True, the team hosted Jacksonville Dreamer Junior Ribeiro – who is fighting cancer – and his father as the only two fans in a fully-staffed ballpark.

Larry Walker, who will be enshrined in the National Baseball Hall of Fame in July, is the ninth Hall of Famer to have played for Jacksonville, joining Randy Johnson (1987), Al López (1927), Hoyt Wilhem (1948-49), Hank Aaron (1953), Phil Niekro (1960), Tom Seaver (1966), Nolan Ryan (1967) and Edgar Martinez (1993 on rehab).

Now in its 24th year of operation, Chickasaw Bricktown Ballpark has served as host to nearly 10 million fans (9,815,841). Prior to the 2019 season, a new playing field was installed and Musco Sports Lighting installed its state-of-the-art Sports Cluster LED lighting system. New seats were installed throughout the entire ballpark prior to what would have been the 2020 season.

Congratulations are in order...

Sacramento General Manager Chip Maxson was named 2019 Pacific Coast League Executive of the Year.

Did you know?

Sacramento's landscape and proud tradition have brought about several nicknames, including "City of Trees," for its world-renowned urban forest, "River City" for the convergence of the Sacramento and American rivers, and "America's Farm to Fork Capital" for its regional agriculture and local culinary flavor. Locals often just refer to it as "Sactown."

The defending league champions are shooting for back-to-back championships for the third time since 2003. The River Cats claimed titles in 2003 and 2004, and 2007 and 2008.

The Saints averaged 8,061 fans per game in 2019 as an independent team. That average attendance mark would have been the eighth-best in the affiliated minor leagues in 2019.

CHS Field was opened in 2015 and also serves as home of the Hamline University baseball program. CHS Field was built at a cost of $64 million and boasts several environmentally-friendly features. An estimated 12 % of the stadium's electricity is generated by 300 solar panels and a 27,000-gallon rain water collector supplies the park's sprinklers and toilets.

Smith's Ballpark, with its scenic view of the Wasatch Mountains, is the third stadium located in the same location. Community Park opened in 1915 and was later renamed Derks Field and rebuilt following a fire in 1947. Derks Field was razed in 1993 to make way for Smith's Ballpark's opening in 1994. Smith's Ballpark was the first stadium to host the Triple-A All-Star game twice (1996 and 2011). The ballpark also serves as home to the University of Utah baseball team.

Big flies

In the 61-year history of Cheney Stadium, only two home runs have cleared the 29-foot-high center field wall that sits 425 feet from home plate. On Sept. 1, 2004, A.J. Zapp cleared the wall off Sacramento's Joe Blanton and on May 6, 2005, Shin-Soo Choo went over the wall against Salt Lake's Scott Schneider.

Cheney Stadium was constructed during the 1959-60 offseason when the San Francisco Giants agreed to move their Triple-A team to Tacoma. The hasty construction of the ballpark earned it the nickname "100-Day Wonder."

Baseball's Longest Game

In 1981, McCoy Stadium in nearby Pawtucket played host to baseball's longest game, a 33-inning affair between Pawtucket and Rochester that took more than eight hours over three different days (April 18-19, June 23) to complete. The game featured future Hall of Famers Cal Ripken Jr. (Rochester) and Wade Boggs (Pawtucket).

IMPORTANT INFORMATION

Hip & Knee Replacements

Hip joint replacement is intended for use in individuals with joint disease resulting from degenerative and rheumatoid arthritis, avascular necrosis, fracture of the neck of the femur or functional deformity of the hip. Knee joint replacement is intended for use in individuals with joint disease resulting from degenerative, rheumatoid and post-traumatic arthritis, and for moderate deformity of the knee. Joint replacement surgery is not appropriate for patients with certain types of infections, any mental or neuromuscular disorder which would create an unacceptable risk of prosthesis instability, prosthesis fixation failure or complications in postoperative care, compromised bone stock, skeletal immaturity, severe instability of the joint, or excessive body weight.

Like any surgery, joint replacement surgery has serious risks which include, but are not limited to, pain, infection, bone fracture, change in the treated leg length (hip), joint stiffness, hip joint fusion, amputation, peripheral neuropathies (nerve damage), circulatory compromise (including deep vein thrombosis (blood clots in the legs)), genitourinary disorders (including kidney failure), gastrointestinal disorders (including paralytic ileus (loss of intestinal digestive movement)), vascular disorders (including thrombus (blood clots), blood loss, or changes in blood pressure or heart rhythm), bronchopulmonary disorders (including emboli, stroke or pneumonia), heart attack, and death.

Implant related risks which may lead to a revision of the implant include dislocation, loosening, fracture, nerve damage, heterotopic bone formation (abnormal bone growth in tissue), wear of the implant, metal and/or foreign body sensitivity, soft tissue imbalance, osteolysis (localized progressive bone loss), audible sounds during motion, reaction to particle debris, and reaction to metal ions (ALTR). Hip and knee implants may not provide the same feel or performance characteristics experienced with a normal healthy joint.

The information presented is for educational purposes only. Speak to your doctor to decide if joint replacement surgery is appropriate for you. Individual results vary and not all patients will return to the same activity level. The lifetime of any joint replacement is limited and depends on several factors like patient weight and activity level. Your doctor will counsel you about strategies to potentially prolong the lifetime of the device, including avoiding high-impact activities, such as running, as well as maintaining a healthy weight. It is important to closely follow your doctor's instructions regarding postsurgery activity, treatment and follow-up care. Ask your doctor if a joint replacement is right for you.

What's in a name...

The Curve take their name from the nearby Horseshoe Curve, a 2,375-foot railroad stretch that was constructed in the 1850s by the Pennsylvania Railroad as a means to lessen the grade for trains to the summit of the Allegheny Mountains.

Peoples Natural Gas Field features a view of the Allegheny Mountains and Lakemont Park's "Skyliner" roller coaster. The amusement park is located just outside of the stadium.

Dickey-Stephens Park is named after four brothers: Baseball Hall of Famer Bill Dickey, former MLB catcher George Dickey and businessmen Jackson Stephens and W.R. Stephens. The Travelers were founded in 1901 as the Little Rock Travelers.

On July 27, 1998, in San Antonio, Arkansas' Tyrone Horne (above) became the only player in the history of professional baseball to hit for the home run cycle in one game. Horne hit a two-run home run in the first inning, a grand slam in the second, a solo shot in the fifth and a three-run homer in the sixth. Horne was named 1998 Texas League MVP after hitting .313 with 37 homers and 140 RBI for the Cardinals affiliate.

More than a baseball team

The Hartford Yard Goats claimed the 2019 John Henry Moss Community Service Award after taking a 1,300-foot retail space at Dunkin' Donuts Park and turned it into a community center. The Aetna Community Center would not only house the larger-than-life community programs the Yard Goats were building, but become a front door to the people of Hartford. Since that time, the location has served as the home base for the Yard Goats Foundation, the team's 501(c)3 charity initiatives, such as the Young Ambassadors Program, a Youth Culinary Program, a Theater Arts Program and the Yard Goats Dance Team.

The term "RockHound" is another word for geologist, a nickname more than fitting for the Permian Basin and West Texas.

Midland won four straight championships from 2014-17. In 2017, the RockHounds had to win the final game of the regular season to secure a playoff spot, then had to win the final two games of the Division Championship against San Antonio (trailing 2-1). In the Texas League Championship Series against Tulsa, they had to win the final three games in Tulsa after losing the first two games at home.

The Mississippi Braves have yet to be no-hit by an opponent in 15 seasons and 2,068 games. Twice in 2018, the M-Braves entered the ninth inning without a hit, but rallied in the final frame. Tyler Marlette broke up Mobile's combined no-hit bid with a double to start the ninth inning on April 25. Daniel Lockhart's bloop double with two strikes and two outs on June 15 at Biloxi was the closest the M-Braves have come to being no-hit in franchise history.

Three members of the National Baseball Hall of Fame have suited up for the M-Braves. Chipper Jones (2006), John Smoltz (2008) and Tom Glavine (2009) have all donned the 'Tomahawk M' cap.

Did you know?

The Sea Dogs' Strike Out Cancer in Kids Program has raised over $5 million dollars as it enters its 27th season in 2021. With each strikeout by a Sea Dogs pitcher, money is raised by generous businesses and individuals to assist children battling cancer at the Maine Children's Cancer Center at Maine Medical Center.

In 2003, the "Maine Monster" was added to left field when the Sea Dogs became an affiliate of the Boston Red Sox. After a Sea Dogs home run or victory, a lighthouse rises behind the center field fence. The bullpens at Hadlock Field are unique as they are located above the right-center field wall, about 30 feet above the playing field. The seating area in right field replicates Boston's Green Monster seats.

EASTERN LEAGUE UMPIRE CALLS NO-HITTERS IN CONSECUTIVE PLATE JOBS

Eastern League umpire Takahito "Taka" Matsuda had quite a week early in the 2019 season as he called no-hitters in two consecutive plate assignments April 25 in Binghamton and April 29 in Altoona. Working with crewmates Mike Raines and Derek Thomas on April 25 in Binghamton, Matsuda called a combined no-hitter by Portland. A postponement pushed Matsuda's next plate assignment to April 29 in Altoona, where Tigers prospect Casey Mize fired a no-hitter in his Double-A debut for the SeaWolves. According to CloseCallSports.com, the last Major League umpire to call no-hitters in consecutive plate assignments was Bill Dinneen in 1923. Dinneen called the Sept. 4 New York (AL) no-no over Philadelphia and three days later presided over Boston's Sept. 7 no-hitter against Philadelphia.

We are a true baseball family. Within the Minor Leagues, my daughter works in promotions, my husband was a groundskeeper and I am a merchandise manager. My husband experienced a life changing medical event that has left him with little hope to ever return to his job. The Baseball Assistance Team kept us from losing our home. I honestly don't know what I would have done without them!

In 2019, not only did the Loons welcome their three millionth fan through the gates, but they also shattered their previous attendance record with 6,671 fans at Dow Diamond on Aug. 23, 2019. The previous record stood for a little over a year as 6,383 fans watched Loons take on the West Michigan Whitecaps in June 2018. The 2019 season's record crowd was also part of one of the best three-game stretches in recent history, with 15,634 fans (avg. 5,211) in attendance.

Partnering with Daktronics, the Michigan Baseball Foundation and the Great Lakes Loons installed a new 31-by-80-foot video board prior to the start of the 2018 season. It's the fifth-largest board installed by Daktronics in the Minor Leagues.

At the turn of the 20th century, Peoria's team was known as the Distillers, as the city was home to the Hiram Walker plant and numerous other distilleries. Baseball Hall of Famer Joe McGinnity pitched for the Distillers in 1898, and Pants Rowland, manager of the 1917 World Series champion Chicago White Sox, was the Distillers' manager in 1913.

Caterpillar Inc. purchased the naming rights to the park in 2013, naming it Dozer Park, a reference to the company's bulldozers.

A two-pitch inning?

On Aug. 10, 2018, Braves lefty Hayden Deal needed just two pitches to retire West Virginia in the top of the 10th inning. Deal coaxed a line drive double play that retired the automatic runner at second base and on the next pitch coaxed a lineout. It is believed to be the only two-pitch inning in professional baseball history.

So much fun, they did it twice...

After going two decades without a triple play, the Dash were the only team in the minors to turn two of them in 2019. On April 9, they went around the horn for a 5-4-3 triple play against Wilmington (Yeyson Yrizarri to Johan Cruz to Jameson Fisher) and on Aug. 2 at Carolina, they went 5-4-3 again, with three different players (Mitch Roman to Tate Blackman to Andrew Vaughn).

In 2019, BBGT Ballpark paced all 30 Class A-Advanced teams in total attendance by welcoming 264,879 fans.

The Timber Rattlers beat Burlington 7-6 on Aug. 10, 2018, by scoring three runs on a dropped third strike with two outs in the bottom of the ninth inning for the wildest walkoff victory in team history.

The 2019 season was the 25th anniversary season of Timber Rattlers baseball. The franchise changed names from the Appleton Foxes to the Wisconsin Timber Rattlers after moving from Goodland Field following the 1994 season. Neuroscience Group Field at Fox Cities Stadium opened on April 20, 1995.

Bears Hitting Bombs

In 2019, Yadiel Hernandez (33) and Brandon Snyder (31) became the first pair of teammates in Fresno history (22 seasons, since 1998) to hit 30 homers in a season. As a team in 2019, Fresno homered 208 times, setting a new franchise record. A.J. Reed (34 HR, 2017) and Pedro Feliz (33 HR, 2000) are the only Grizzlies players to hit as many or more homers than Hernandez and Snyder in a single season.

Bear Bite

The Grizzlies made charitable donations totaling over $1 million in 2019. The team held 135 charitable events that drew over 25,000 attendees.

The Grizzlies have been the Triple-A affiliate of a Major League Baseball World Series champion five times in the last 10 seasons (2010, 2012 and 2014 with the Giants, 2017 with the Astros and 2019 with the Nationals). The Grizzlies claimed their only PCL title in 2015.

All-Star summer

Banner Island Ballpark, the newest ballpark in the Cal League (2005), hosted the league's All-Star Game in 2019. The midsummer classic was last played in Stockton in 2007.

Banner Island Ballpark was named a historical site in 2008 by the Stockton Cultural Heritage Board, as Charles Weber flew the flag there to celebrate Union victories during the Civil War. World War II ships were also constructed at the site. The Ports are tied with San Jose for the most California League championships with 11.

The streak is snapped!

The Rawhide broke a 41-year championship drought in 2019 when Alek Thomas hit a walk-off double to drive in Geraldo Perdomo in the bottom of the 10th inning for Visalia's first title since 1978.

Valley Strong Ballpark is one of the oldest ballparks in the country. Built in 1946, the location was previously the site of Visalia's rodeo grounds.
