NEWS AND NOTES

BUMP DAY: Southpaw Thomas Pannone will make his 10th overall appearance and ninth start Thursday against the Bulls. He made two starts when Nashville visited Durham on May 19 and May 24, working 8.0 IP total (8 H, 5 R, 4 ER, HR, 8 K). He suffered his lone loss of the season in the series finale where he allowed two hits and one unearned run in a 2-0 shutout loss. He is coming off tossing 5.2 scoreless innings last Friday in Jacksonville and enters the start with a 2.55 ERA (10 ER/35.1 IP).

WHAT IT BADD00: Akil Baddoo continued his tear against Durham pitching with his fourth home run in six games played this season. Baddoo is hitting .318 (7-for-22) with a triple he hit on Wednesday night to go along with his home run and eight RBI against the Bulls. He joined Luke Adams, Eddys Leonard, Cooper Pratt, and Jett Williams as Nashville players to leave the yard in back-to-back games. His 418-ft blast on Wednesday came off the bat at 110.2 MPH and is the fifth-farthest home run hit by a Nashville player this season. It's his first time hitting home runs in consecutive games since hitting homers in three straight games, including a multi-HR game, from August 21-23 of last year with Triple-A Toledo when he set a single-season career-high with 16 home runs. Despite making his Triple-A debut in 2021 with Toledo, these six games are his first against the Bulls over his Triple-A career. It's the sixth time in his professional career with a home run in back-to-back games.

ON-TIME DEPARTURE: Brewers no. 3-rated prospect Jett Williams collected his second leadoff home run of the season for Nashville and the 10th leadoff home run of his minor league career. Nashville is now 23-11 when Williams hits in the leadoff spot of the lineup. He is one of 13 Nashville players since 2005 with multiple leadoff home runs in the same season. Daz Cameron holds the record five leadoff dingers in the same season for Nashville last year. Wednesday night's blast was the 13th Triple-A home run and the 38th of his minor league career.

YO-NO: Another game, another scoreless outing for Brewers no. 26-rated prospect Craig Yoho. He worked 2.0 perfect innings and struck out four of the six batters he faced to extend his streak without an earned run in Triple-A to 14 straight games and 17.2 IP dating back to April 25. Since allowing back-to-back home runs to the Charlotte Knights in game one of a doubleheader, the only time in his minor league career allowing multiple HR in the same game (111 games), Yoho has rattled off 17.2 IP without allowing an earned run and allowed just six hits over the span with 27 strikeouts. His 14 straight games ties Brian Fitzpatrick for the longest streak in terms of games this season without an earned run by a Nashville pitcher this season and the longest streak of his Triple-A career. His 14-game streak is tied for the longest active streak in Triple-A and tied for the sixth-longest in the minors.

WICH HUNT: Brett Wichrowski became the first Nashville pitcher since Sean Manaea in 2016 to win each of their first two Triple-A starts. Manaea did so on April 11 and April 16 when he entered the 2016 season as the Athletics no. 2-rated prospect. Through his first two games, Manaea had allowed just 10 hits with two earned runs including a home run and added 17 strikeouts to just two walks and carried a 1.50 ERA. Wichrowski has won each of his first games backed by solid offensive output for him with the Sounds scoring eight runs in each of his first two starts. Through his first two Triple-A games, Wichrowski has allowed eight earned runs (2 HR) on 10 hits with nine strikeouts and six walks over 10.2 IP.

BULL-IED: Brewers no. 16-rated prospect Tyson Hardin struck out a career-high 11 batters on Tuesday night, retiring 18-of-the-21 batters he faced. Hardin ended his night allowing a run on three hits to go along with his third 6.0+ inning quality start with the Sounds, and fourth overall quality start this season. The 11 strikeouts ties for the most strikeouts on the team matching Robert Gasser, who fanned 11 Norfolk Tides batters in the season opener on March 27. Hardin is just the sixth player to record 11+ strikeouts at the Triple-A level this season.
