ABOUT LAST NIGHT - Despite South Bend out-hitting Peoria 5-4 last night, the Chiefs held on for a 3-1 victory to even this week's series at two wins apiece. South Bend left the bases loaded in the game twice, and left 10 men on-base, going 2/9 with RISP.

CLINCH DAY?- Even with last night's loss, South Bend lowered its magic number to two thanks to the Wisconsin Timber Rattlers dropping one of its doubleheader games against the Great Lakes Loons. South Bend can win the Midwest League's first-half in the West Division today with a victory over Peoria, or a Wisconsin loss to Great Lakes. South Bend was last a first-half playoff team in 2016 when they won the East Division.

KEEP IT IN THE PARK - South Bend has given up six in the series to Peoria, who leads the Midwest League in homers with 97. Up until Thursday South Bend had given up the fewest home runs in the Midwest League and all of High-A, but now have surrendered 45 on the campaign.

NO SOUP FOR YOU- Catcher Justin Stransky continues to help out the pitching staff in a big way, leading the Midwest League with 20 baserunners caught stealing this year. He is one of 15 MiLB catchers with 20 or more. In comparison, Milwaukee's William Contreras leads all of MLB in that category with 15.

THE HARTSHORN FILE - Chicago Cubs #7 prospect Josiah Hartshorn will not turn 20-years-old until February. He has reached base in all 16 games he has played in the Midwest League, and also is working on a 10-game hit streak. Hartshorn is 6/13 in the series against Peoria with two home runs and seven RBI.

THE KANE TRAIN - No. 6 Chicago Cubs prospect Kane Kepley leads all of affiliated baseball (MLB and MiLB) in runs scored (67). Kepley, who broke the South Bend Cubs records (since 2015) for walks, stolen bases, and runs scored before the end of May, became the first Midwest League player since Byron Buxton (2013) to score at least 55 runs by the end of May. South Bend's everyday lead-off hitter also leads all of High-A in on-base percentage with runners in scoring position at .583. Ty Southisene is second in that category at .566.

ON-BASE MACHINES - Among qualified Midwest League players since May 6 (36 plate appearances or more), Kane Kepley (.614), Ty Southisene (.574), Alex Madera (.500), and Christian Olivo (.500) all have posted top-10 on-base percentage figures in the circuit. Justin Stransky is three plate appearances away from qualifying in the same group, he stands at .515.

HT/WT: 6'2" / 170 .. AGE: 24 ... THROWS: Right BORN: Cary, North Carolina

LAST TIME OUT: Matched a career-best with six strikeouts at Quad Cities on June 6. Surrendered a home run to Derlin Figueroa, but allowed two runs over 4.0 innings with six hits given up. Did not walk a batter in an outing for the second time this season. Tossed 72 pitches with 46 strikes.

Responded well in the month of May after posting 8.82 ERA in April, with much of that number being inflated with the seven runs surrendered at Peoria to begin season. Had 2.37 ERA in May across five total outings, with four being starts. Struck out 22 batters in 19.0 IP. Final two starts of May at West Michigan and vs Fort Wayne featured four shutout innings.

THROWBACK BLUES: Moreno throws his bullpen side each week in the game uniform that he is going to wear in his next start. Will select the new 80's throwback Chicago Cubs alternate blue top anytime the Cubs are not wearing a specialty night jersey. Likes the jersey because they don't have buttons, and that he can wear it either at home or on the road.

THE RETURN: Moreno returned to the South Bend Cubs in August after needing season ending Tommy John Surgery following his appearance on June 2 at Quad Cities in 2024. Home run surrendered on Opening Day 2026 in Peoria was first homer given up since April 18, 2024 at Beloit.

After coming back from injury in 2025, Moreno made four appearances out of the South Bend Cubs bullpen to end last season. Last pitched in 2025 on September 6, in a no-decision effort vs Wisconsin. Matched a season best with four strikeouts...His 2025 season debut and first game since Tommy John Surgery featured 2.1 innings thrown at Beloit on August 16. Did not give up a run, although Beloit had at least one man in scoring position in each of his innings, including a man at third base in two of them.
