The All-Star Futures Game

The All-Star Futures Game, which is now in its 26th year, features the top Minor League prospects competing in the fourth-ever edition of All-Star Saturday. The Futures Game will once again feature a National League vs. American League format, which was introduced in 2019 following 20 years of U.S. vs. World matchups. Major League Baseball, in conjunction with MLB Pipeline, Baseball America and the 30 Major League Clubs, selected the 25 players currently on each team. MLB Network will air the 2024 All-Star Futures Game live at 7 p.m. ET, with Melanie Newman (play-by-play), Mark DeRosa (analyst), Jonathan Mayo (analyst) and Sande Charles (reporter) on the call from Globe Life Field. The game will be simulcast on MLB.tv, MLB.com and in the MLB App.

The two squads combine for 13 internationally-born players, as well as a combined 17 former first round picks (11 on AL; 6 on NL). Eight players who have participated in Development Programs led by MLB and USA Baseball are featured on the Futures rosters.

Some features of the event are as follows:

- The NL will be the home team in this year's game.
- The game will last seven innings, but in the case of a tie after seven innings, an 8th inning will be played. The game will end in a tie if it is still knotted after eight innings.
- A bottom of the 7th inning may be played regardless of the score.
- If an 8th inning is necessary, the batting team will begin the inning with a runner on second base.
- The designated hitter will be used.
- Re-entry into the game is permitted in the event of injury.
- The ABS (Automatic Balls and Strikes) Challenge System will be in effect. Each team will receive three challenges and retain the challenge if successful. Challenges are initiated by players (not managers) by tapping their helmet or hat.

ESPN and MLB Network will both broadcast the first 43 live selections from inside the Coca-Cola Roxy. Following the live event, MLB Network will carry each of the remaining 62 picks of the opening night of the Draft with a simulcast on MLB.com. The Draft will feature 20 rounds overall across the two days. Selections on day two on Monday, July 14th will feature picks in rounds 4 through 20 beginning at 11:30 a.m. (ET) on MLB.com.

After securing the number one overall selection at December's Draft Lottery in Dallas, the Washington Nationals will pick first for the third time in history. Previously, Washington selected All-Stars Stephen Strasburg and Bryce Harper in consecutive years in 2009 and 2010, respectively. The Baltimore Orioles and the Tampa Bay Rays have a Major League-best six picks each on the Draft's opening night, followed by the Cleveland Guardians, Kansas City Royals and Milwaukee Brewers (five each).

MLB Network will produce comprehensive coverage of the MLB Draft Opening Night presented by Nike for the 17th consecutive year, featuring interviews with newly-drafted players, extensive highlight packages, footage from Club draft rooms, player profiles and interviews with front office personnel. MLB Network's Draft Pre-Show presented by Nike will begin at 5:00 p.m. (ET).

ESPN will nationally broadcast the first round as well as compensation picks prior to the second round. Veteran ESPN MLB voice Karl Ravech will host ESPN's coverage of the event. T-Mobile Home Run Derby

The eight participants for the 2025 T-Mobile Home Run Derby include Byron Buxton of the Minnesota Twins; first-time All-Star Junior Caminero of the Tampa Bay Rays; Jazz Chisholm Jr. of the New York Yankees; Oneil Cruz of the Pittsburgh Pirates; Matt Olson of the host Atlanta Braves; MLB's home run leader Cal Raleigh of the Seattle Mariners; Brent Rooker of the Athletics; and James Wood of the Washington Nationals. The final two participants will be revealed today.

Buxton, who has been named an All-Star for the second time in his career, will participate in the Derby for the first time. The Georgia native will become the eighth Twins hitter to participate in the showcase (ninth appearance overall), joining Tom Brunansky (1985); Gart Gaetti (1989); Torri Hunter (2002); Justin Morneau (2007-08); Hall of Famer Joe Mauer (2009); Brian Dozier (2014); and Miguel Sanó (2017). Buxton is seeking to joining Moreneau as the only Twins to ever win the event, following Morneau's crown in 2008.

Caminero, who was selected to his first Midsummer Classic, will participate in his first Derby and will become just the fourth Rays player to compete in the event, joining Evan Longoria (2008); Carlos Peña (2009); and Randy Arozarena (2023). The 22-year-old is seeking to become the first Ray to win the event and along with fellow 22-year-old competitor Wood, Caminero is aiming to become the youngest Home Run Derby Champion ever, eclipsing 23-year-old winners Ruben Sierra (1989); Juan Gonzalez (1993); and Juan Soto (2022). Additionally, he is attempting to become the eighth native of the Dominican Republic to win the competition and fourth straight Derby winner with Dominican ties, following wins by Soto in 2022; Vladimir Guerrero Jr. in 2023; and Teoscar Hernández in 2024.

Chisholm, who was selected an All-Star for the second time in his career and for the first time in the AL, will compete in the Derby for the first time. The Bahamas native will become the seventh different Yankee (10th appearance) to participate in the Derby, joining Tino Martinez (1997); Jason Giambi (2002-03); Nick Swisher (2010); Robinson Canó (2011-13); teammate Aaron Judge (2017); and Gary Sánchez (2017). Chisholm is bidding to become the fifth Yankee to win the event, joining Martinez, Giambi, Canó and Judge. The Yankees are already the only franchise to claim four Derby victories.

Cruz will compete in the Derby for the first time and become the seventh Pirates slugger to participate in the showcase. The 26-year-old will join Bobby Bonilla (1990); Barry Bonds (1992); Jason Bay (2005); teammate Andrew McCutchen (2012); Pedro Alvarez (2013); and Josh Bell (2019), with Cruz seeking to be the first Pirate to win the event. Additionally, he is attempting to become the eighth native of the Dominican Republic to win the competition and fourth straight Derby winner with Dominican ties, following wins by Juan Soto in 2022; Vladimir Guerrero Jr. in 2023; and Teoscar Hernández in 2024.

Olson, who was named an All-Star for the third time in his career and named as a replacement in the competition for Ronald Acuña Jr., is the only hitter in this year's Derby with prior experience, following his appearance in 2021 as a member of the A's. He will become the 12th Brave (15th appearance) to compete in the event, joining Dale Murphy (1985); Ozzie Virgil (1987); David Justice (1993); Hall of Famer Fred McGriff (1994); Hall of Famer Chipper Jones (1997-98, 2000); Javy López (1998); Gary Sheffield (2003); Andruw Jones (2005); Freddie Freeman (2018); and teammates Acuña Jr. (2019 & 2022), and Marcell Ozuna (2024). His appearance will mark the 27th by a player from the host team and it marks the 11th Derby in the last 12 years to feature a hometown slugger. Only Hall of Famer Ryne Sandberg (1990), Todd Frazier (2015) and Bryce Harper (2018) have won the competition in their home ballpark.

Raleigh, who is Seattle's first-ever fan-elected starting backstop and ninth different Mariners player to garner a fan-elected starting assignment (30th selection in total), will participate in his first career Derby. He will become the eighth different Mariner (16th appearance) to compete in the event, joining Hall of Famer Ken Griffey Jr. (1990, 1992-94, 1997-99); Jay Buhner (1996); Alex Rodriguez (1998); Hall of Famer Edgar Martinez (2000); Bret Boone (2001 & 2003); Robinson Canó (2016); and teammate Julio Rodríguez (2022-23). He is aiming to joining Griffey (1994, 1998-99) as the only Mariners to win the competition. Additionally, MLB's home run leader will be the 11th different catcher (13th occurrence) to hit in the Derby, joining Hall of Famer Carlton Fisk (1985); Ozzie Virgil (1987); Hall of Famer Mike Piazza (1993-94); Javy Lopez (1998); Hall of Famer Iván Rodríguez (2000 & 2005); Hall of Famer Joe Mauer (2009); Gary Sánchez (2017); Salvador Perez (2021); and Adley Rutschman (2023), with no previous catcher winning the event.

Rooker, who is headed to the Midsummer Classic for the second time in three seasons, will participate in the Derby for the first time. The 30-year-old will become the 10th player in A's history to partake in the showcase, and the A's 16 appearances now rank third-most in history behind Baltimore (18) and Toronto (17). Other A's to compete in the Derby include Jose Canseco (1986 & 1990); Mark McGwire (1987, 1990, 1992, 1996-97); Ruben Sierra (1994); John Jaha (1999); Jason Giambi (2001); Yoenis Céspedes (2013-14); Josh Donaldson (2014); Matt Chapman (2019); and Matt Olson (2021). Rooker will aim to join McGwire (1992) and Céspedes (twice) as winners of the competition, as the A's seek to match the Yankees for the most Derby victories all-time with four.

Wood, who earned his first career All-Star nod, will participate in the Derby for the first time, and will become just the third Nationals player to compete in the event, joining Bryce Harper (2013 & 2018) and Juan Soto (2021-22). Following wins by Harper in 2018 and Soto in 2022, Wood is attempting to make the Nationals the fifth team to have at least three different players win the Derby, joining the Chicago Cubs, Cincinnati Reds, Los Angeles Angels and New York Yankees. Along with fellow 22-year-old competitor Caminero, Wood is aiming to become the youngest Home Run Derby Champion ever, eclipsing 23-year-old winners Ruben Sierra (1989); Juan Gonzalez (1993); and Soto (2022).
