INSTANT CLASSIC—Last night the Rays won a postseason game in walk-off fashion for the third time in club history, following Game 3 of the 2013 ALDS vs. BOS (José Lobaton homer) and Game 2 of the 2008 ALCS vs. BOS (B.J. Upton sacrifice fly)...Seminole HS product Brett Phillips—who, as a 2-year-old in 1996, attended the first Rays Fan Fest at Tropicana Field with his grandma—delivered a 2-strike, 2-out game-tying single to score Kevin Kiermaier in his first at-bat since Oct 7...he advanced to second on an error by CF Chris Taylor, and Randy Arozarena scored the game-winning run on a second error on the play, a missed catch by C Will Smith.

- It was the fifth game in World Series history to end on a walk-off error, and the first to end with two on the same play...the last team to win on a walk-off error was the Cardinals in Game 3 of the 2013 World Series vs. BOS on a Will Middlebrooks obstruction call...it was the first World Series game to end on a fielding error since the Mets won Game 6 of the 1986 World Series vs. BOS (Bill Buckner error)...the only other World Series walk-off errors: Mets won Game 4 of the 1969 World Series vs. BAL on an E1 and the Boston Braves won Game 3 of the 1914 World Series vs. PHI-AL on an E1.
- Last night the Rays became the fifth team in World Series history to record a walk-off win with the team trailing and the third to do so when down to their final out...see chart below for play details.
- Last night was the 61st walk-off in World Series history and first since the Dodgers won Game 3 of the 2018 World Series vs. BOS (Max Muncy homer)...according to ESPN Stats & Info, the Rays became the first team to win a World Series game they trailed entering the bottom of the 9th inning since the Royals in Game 1 of the 2015 World Series vs. NYM (trailed 4-3, won 5-4 in 14 innings), and the first team to win a 9-inning World Series game they trailed entering the bottom of the 9th inning since the D-backs in Game 7 of the 2001 World Series vs. NYY (Luis Gonzalez walk-off single).
- On a night when Dan Johnson—who hit a game-tying homer with the Rays down to their final strike in an eventual 8-7, walk-off win in "Game 162" on Sep 28, 2011—threw the ceremonial first pitch, the Rays won on a walk-off, 8-7, after being down to their final strike.
- The Rays have four comeback wins this postseason after an AL-most 20 come-from-behind wins during the regular season.
