LIGHTNING POLICY

The Department of Parks & Community Engagement utilizes a top-of-the-line weather detection system called Perry Weather. This lightning warning system uses real-time data from a large network of public and private instruments to detect lightning strikes up to 30 miles from a specific location. Real-time data reduces the threat of false alarms to nearly zero, increasing user confidence in the system. This system is fully automated and can be accessed by our visitors by scanning the QR codes located at each of our parks.
