In Memoriam

KEVIN HICKEY
1956-2012

Kevin Hickey, who served as a Chicago White Sox pre-game instructor since 2004 and pitched for the club from 1981-83, passed away on May 16 at the age of 56.

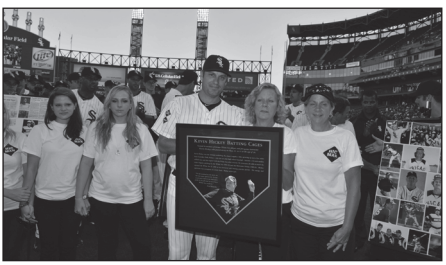

Hickey pitched six seasons in the major leagues with the White Sox (1981-83) and Baltimore (1989-91), going 9-14 with a 3.91 ERA (114 ER/232.2 IP) and 17 saves in 231 relief appearances. The left-hander went 5-8 with a 3.52 ERA (56 ER/143.0 IP) and 14 saves in 124 games with the Sox, with his best season coming in 1982 when he was 4-4 with six saves and a 3.00 ERA (26 ER/78.0 IP) in 60 games.

"Kevin was the ultimate long-shot, the classic underdog," said former White Sox general manager Roland Hemond, who signed Hickey in 1978. "You couldn't help but root for him. Kevin did the absolute most with every single opportunity he received and earned every bit of his success."

"Ask anyone in our clubhouse, every person here appreciated what Kevin did to help the White Sox win baseball games," said White Sox first baseman Paul Konerko. "No one wanted to win more, no one was more optimistic, no one cared more and no one took more pride in his job. He made all of us better."

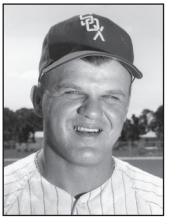

A native of Chicago's Brighton Park neighborhood, Hickey attended St. Rita High School and Kelly High School. He took a unique route to the major leagues. He did not play high school baseball. Following a successful run as a 16-inch softball player – he helped lead his team, the Bobcats, to the 1976 World 16-inch Championship – and a stint with the Markham Cardinals semipro baseball team, he was invited to a summer tryout at Comiskey Park.

He was the only one of 250 players at the tryout to be signed. Following three seasons in the Sox farm system, Hickey made his major-league debut on April 14, 1981 and was a member of the 1983 "Winning Ugly" club which won the American League West Division title.

The White Sox announced on September 3, 2012 that the batting cages at U.S. Cellular Field will be named the "Kevin Hickey Batting Cages." A plaque commemorating Hickey's career will be placed outside the batting cages.

BILL "MOOSE" SKOWRON
1930-2012

Bill "Moose" Skowron, a five-time World Series champion who played for the White Sox from 1964-67, passed away on April 27 at the age of 81.

Best known as a member of the great New York Yankees teams of the late 1950s and early 1960s, Skowron played for five teams over the course of a 14-year career that spanned from 1954-67. He won four World Series titles with the Yankees (1956, 1958, 1961 and 1962) and another with the Los Angeles Dodgers (1963), playing in eight World Series overall. Skowron spent nine seasons with the Yankees (1954-62) prior to stints with the Dodgers (1963), Senators (1964), White Sox (1964-67) and Angels (1967).

Skowron had worked for the White Sox since 1999, when he joined the community relations department as part of the organization's speakers bureau, making appearances and greeting fans on behalf of the team.

"We all have lost a dear, dear friend," said White Sox chairman Jerry Reinsdorf. "While Moose may have become a star in New York with the Yankees, he was a Chicagoan through and through. I certainly will miss his priceless stories about Casey Stengel, Roger Maris, Hank Bauer and of course, his good friend, Mickey Mantle.

"A few years ago, we started a tradition of holding monthly lunches here at the ballpark, and the laughter and conversation always centered around Moose. My guess is that right now Mickey, Roger, Hank and Moose are enjoying a good laugh together."

Skowron told friends his one regret in baseball came in 1964 when his White Sox team fell one game short of winning the American League pennant. A World Series title that season would have given Skowron three consecutive World Series rings with three different teams.

The powerful first baseman hit more than 20 home runs four times in his career, batted over .300 in five of his first seven seasons and was an eight-time All-Star. A career .282 hitter, Skowron hit 211 homers and drove in 888 runs in his career.

Skowron appeared in eight World Series and won five titles in a nine-year span from 1955-63, hitting eight home runs in 39 World Series games. He delivered the winning home run in the decisive Game 7 of the 1958 World Series as the Yankees beat the Milwaukee Braves.

STAFF

U.S. Cellular FIELD

RICK HAHN
Senior Vice President/General Manager

Rick Hahn, a Chicago native who has been with the Chicago White Sox since October 2000 and helped build the 2005 World Series Champion and 2008 postseason teams, was named the club's senior vice president/general manager on October 26, 2012.

Hahn replaces Ken Williams, who owns the best winning percentage of any general manager in franchise history and was the fourth-longest tenured general manager in baseball in 2012. Hahn just completed his 12th season in the White Sox front office as vice president/assistant general manager, and his wide-ranging responsibilities have included working with Williams to determine the club's roster composition, player acquisitions, talent evaluations and contract negotiations.

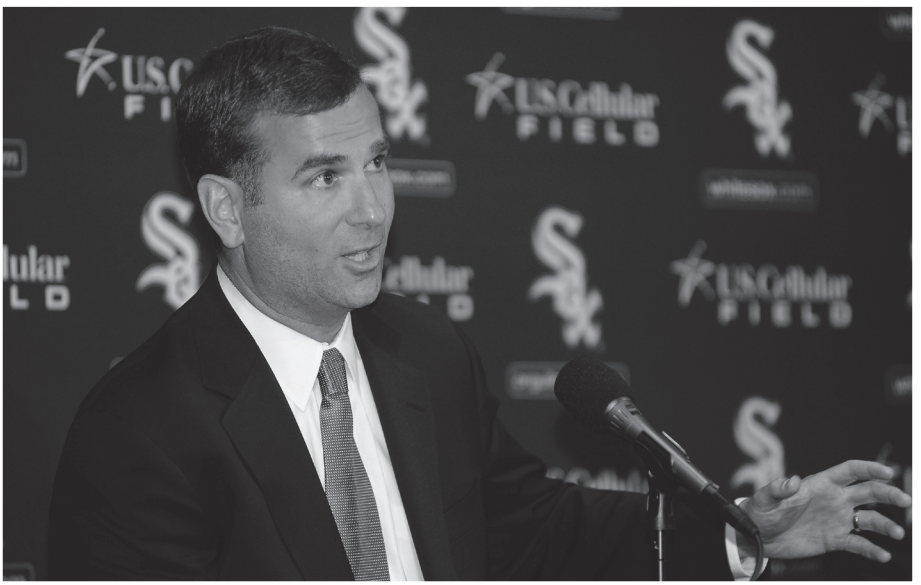

In his new role, Hahn's duties will be expanded to include oversight of all player personnel matters, coaching staff decisions and the club's player development and scouting operations. His first move as general manager was to re-sign RHP Jake Peavy to a two-year, $29-million contract with an option for 2015.

Since joining the organization, Hahn has negotiated several multiyear player contracts, including agreements with current White Sox players John Danks, Gavin Floyd, Paul Konerko, Jake Peavy and Alexei Ramirez. Hahn has been credited with playing a key role in moves such as signing eventual Cy Young Award runner-up Esteban Loaiza to a minor-league deal prior to the 2003 season, the waiver claim of Bobby Jenks prior to the 2005 World Series championship season, the 2007 acquisition of Most Valuable Player-candidate Carlos Quentin, the evaluation and signing of 2009 Rookie of the Year Gordon Beckham, and the signing of 2010 first-round pick Chris Sale.

In midsummer 2011, Hahn ranked first in SI.com's survey of the top general manager candidates in baseball. In March 2010, Baseball America ranked Hahn No. 1 on its list of "Top GM Prospects" in Major League Baseball.

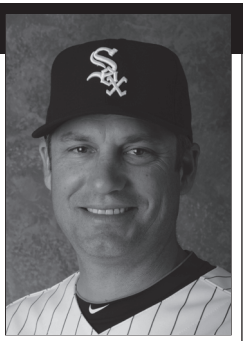

Prior to joining the White Sox, Hahn spent two years as an associate at Steinberg, Moorad & Dunn, a sports agency based in Newport Beach, Calif., representing more than 150 athletes from Major League Baseball, the National Football League and the National Basketball Association.

Hahn is a native of Winnetka, Ill. and a graduate of New Trier High School, the University of Michigan, Harvard Law School, and Northwestern's Kellogg Graduate School of Management. He and his wife, Jean, have two children, Jacob and Charlie.

Rick Hahn was named the 12th general manager in White Sox history on October 26, 2012, replacing Ken Williams, who served in the capacity for 12 seasons.

Interleague Recap

The White Sox were 9-9 in interleague play in 2012, going 4-2 vs. the Cubs, 2-1 against Milwaukee and 1-2 vs. Houston, Los Angeles-NL and St. Louis. It was the Sox first non-winning record vs. the National League since 2007. Five of their nine losses came by one run. Chicago's streak of 11 consecutive interleague series victories on the road ended when it dropped two of three at St. Louis on June 12-14. The Sox are 164-120 (.577) all-time in interleague play, the second-best winning percentage in baseball behind the Yankees (.603), and have gone 59-31 since 2008.

■ Addison Reed recorded his 22nd save of the season on Monday vs. New York, breaking the franchise rookie record set by Salome Barojas in 1982.

■ Chris Sale recorded his fourth double-digit strikeout game of the season on 8/22 vs. the Yankees, joining Ed Walsh (four in 1910) and Javier Vazquez (four in 2006) as the only players in White Sox history to accomplish that feat.

■ Sale also became the fifth pitcher in Sox history to strike out 13-plus batters twice in one season (15 on 5/28 at Tampa Bay) and the fifth pitcher (first left-hander) to strike out Ichiro Suzuki three times in one game, joining Justin Verlander (8/6/12), Kevin Slowey (7/31/10), Josh Beckett (4/10/07) and Tim Hudson (9/19/03).

September 1: Tigers 5, Sox 1 — 72-60, 1st/+1.0
