Saturday, October 4, 2025 | 6:38 P.M. ET | Citizens Bank Park | Philadelphia, PA
National League Division Series | Game 1
TV: TBS, Tru TV, HBO Max | Radio: AM 570, ESPN, KTNQ 1020 AM

IT'S ALWAYS SUNNY IN L.A.: The Dodgers advanced to their 13th consecutive National League Division Series on Wednesday night, sweeping the Cincinnati Reds, 2-0, in the NL Wild Card Series, while outscoring the NL Central squad, 18-9 in the two contests. Los Angeles collected 28 hits and five home runs during the sweep, while the Dodger starting pitchers (Blake Snell and Yoshinobu Yamamoto) limited Cincinnati to just two earned runs and eight hits in 13.2 innings pitched. The Dodgers have now won seven of their last eight Postseason contests, dating back to Game 6 of the 2024 NLCS. Los Angeles will now turn its attention to the NL East-champion Philadelphia Phillies, who went 96-66, including a Major League best 55-26 (.679) at home. The Dodgers have lost seven consecutive Postseason games in Philadelphia, including the last five at Citizens Bank Park. The Boys in Blue recorded their last playoff win in the "City of Brotherly Love" on Oct. 5, 1978, almost exactly 47 years ago today.

- Dodger manager Dave Roberts won his 58th career Postseason game on Wednesday night, which ranks him fourth all-time, trailing just Hall of Famers Joe Torre (84), Tony LaRussa (71) and Bobby Cox (67).

- Los Angeles won its fourth consecutive NL West title and 12th in the last 13 seasons this year and have made the Postseason for 13 consecutive seasons, which is tied with the Yankees (1995-2007) for the second longest streak in Major League Baseball history, trailing only the Atlanta Braves record of 14 (1991-2005). It's also the longest current playoff streak in the four major pro sports leagues, ahead of the Boston Celtics, who are on an 11-season run (2015-25). The club appeared in a three-game Wild Card Series for just the second time, following their two-game sweep of Milwaukee in 2020 that led to the franchise's seventh World Series title.

- The Dodgers closed out the season winning 15 of their final 20 games and ended the year on a five-game winning streak. Their 32 series wins (32-18-3) were the second most in baseball and one more than last year. L.A. was tied for the third best home record in baseball (52-29, .642) and finished with a winning record on the road (41-40) for the ninth consecutive season. The club's 48 comeback wins led the National League, one shy of Toronto (49) for the most in baseball.

MOOKIE KNOWS WHAT TIME IT IS: Dodger shortstop Mookie Betts went 6-for-9 with three doubles and three RBI in the two-game series with Cincinnati, matching his career Postseason high with four hits (3rd time) in the clinching contest. Betts also hit three doubles in that game to set an L.A. Dodger single-game Postseason record and tie Jim Gilliam's franchise mark, established in 1953. Betts has 62 career Postseason hits as a Dodger, one shy of matching Steve Garvey for second all-time. His 18 Postseason doubles as a Dodger are one shy of Justin Turner for the most all-time. In his career, Betts has 25 Postseason doubles, which ranks third all-time, trailing just Derek Jeter (32) and Bernie Williams (29). Since the start of the 2024 Postseason, Betts is slashing .338/.424/.620/1.043 with four homers in 18 playoff games.

THE PHILADELPHIA STORY: The Dodgers lost four of their six games to the Phillies during the regular season, dropping two of three from April 4-6 in Philadelphia and two of three from Sept. 15-17 at Dodger Stadium. This will mark the first meeting between these two storied NL clubs in the Division Series, but the two squads have locked horns in the National League Championship Series five different times, with the Dodgers winning twice (1977, 1978) and the Phillies taking three, (1983, 2008, 2009).

HOW'S THAT FOR AN ENCORE?: Dodger two-way superstar Shohei Ohtani followed up his unbelievable 50-50 campaign in 2024 with another MVP performance in his second season with the Boys in Blue. Ohtani established a new franchise record for the second consecutive year with 55 home runs, set a new franchise record with 146 runs scored and tied Mookie Betts (2023) for the most leadoff home runs in a season with 12. Ohtani also led the Majors with 89 extra-base hits and 380 total bases while leading the National League with a .622 slugging percentage and a 1.014 OPS. He finished second in the NL in home runs, walks (109--one shy of the L.A. Dodger record) and on-base percentage (.392). Ohtani established new career bests in homers, runs, triples (9) and walks while also recording his fourth season of 20 or more stolen bases (20).

- Ohtani finished the season on a Major League leading 31-game on-base streak, the longest by a Dodger since Max Muncy's 34-game streak in 2019 (May 17-June 25). During the run, he posted a .401 OBP and a 1.048 OPS while hitting 11 homers.
- With his 146 runs scored, Ohtani set the Modern Era (1900) Dodger record, surpassing Babe Herman (143, 1930), two shy of Hub Collins' franchise record of 148 (1890). Ohtani was just the third player in the last 20 seasons to score 140 or more runs, joining Ronald Acuña Jr. (149, 2023) and Alex Rodriguez (143, 2007).

- According to the Elias Sports Bureau, Ohtani's 109 home runs in his first two seasons with the Dodgers are tied with Alex Rodriguez (2001-02) for the second-most all-time by a Major Leaguer in his first two seasons with a franchise. Only Babe Ruth (113 for the Yankees from 1920-21) had more.

LET'S GET IT STARTED: Dodger starting pitching finished fifth in the Major Leagues with a 3.69 ERA, but that doesn't begin to tell the story of how good the rotation has been of late. Once Blake Snell and Tyler Glasnow came back after early season injuries, the hurlers have been on a roll, posting a Major League best 2.73 ERA (87 ER/287.0 IP) since August 1, far better than the second-place Yankees (3.19). During that stretch, the starters are 22-9 and lead the Majors in strikeouts (340), WHIP (1.01) and opponents' average (.195). In September, the entire Dodger pitching staff held the opposition to a .173 average, which is the new MLB record for lowest batting average allowed in any month.

- Dodger fans got to see three-time MVP Shohei Ohtani pitch for the first time in Blue this season and it was nothing short of electric. The right-hander went 1-1 with a 2.87 ERA (15 ER/47.0 IP) and 62 strikeouts in 14 starts, but saved his best for last. In his last four outings, the five-time All-Star allowed just one run over 19.2 innings (0.46 ERA), while striking out 27, walking just four and holding batters to just 10 hits in that time. In 100 career starts, Ohtani is 39-20 (.661) with a 3.00 ERA and 670 strikeouts. His only career start vs. Philadelphia came on Aug. 16 at Dodger Stadium and he no-hit the Phillies over 5.0 scoreless innings.

Game Notes

• Yoshinobu Yamamoto was one of the best starters in the National League this season, making his first All-Star appearance and capping off the season by being named NL Pitcher of the Month for the second time in 2025 (March/April), after posting a 0.67 ERA (2 ER/27.0 IP) and holding batters to a .081 average in four September starts. He lost a no-hitter in Baltimore on Sept. 6 with two outs in the ninth inning. Yamamoto finished among the NL leaders in ERA (2.49, 2nd), WHIP (0.95, 1st), opponents' average (.183, 1st in MLB), strikeouts per nine innings (10.42, 3rd) and strikeouts (201, T-7th).

• With his sixth strikeout on September 25, Yamamoto became the first Dodger pitcher with a 200-strikeout season since Walker Buehler had 212 strikeouts in 2021. He also became the seventh Japanese-born pitcher with a 200-strikeout season, joining Yu Darvish, Hideo Nomo, Yusei Kikuchi, Daisuke Matsuzaka, Shohei Ohtani and Kodai Senga. Yamamoto logged 17 starts in which he allowed one-or-zero runs this season, tied with Cristopher Sánchez, Hunter Brown and Tarik Skubal for the second-most in the Majors behind only Freddy Peralta and Paul Skenes, who each had 18 such starts.

• Blake Snell, was spectacular in September, going 2-1 with a 2.25 (6 ER/24.0 IP) and 34 strikeouts in four starts. Snell, who made just 11 starts this year due to an early season shoulder injury, came off the IL on Aug. 2 and has posted a 2.41 ERA with 68 strikeouts in 52.1 innings since then. He allowed just two runs in 7.0 innings while notching his fifth-career Postseason victory in Game 1 of the NL Wild Card Series vs. Cincinnati.

GETTING OFFENSIVE: The Dodger offense led the National League with 825 runs scored, 5.09 runs per game, 244 home runs, 580 walks, 2,415 total bases, a .441 slugging percentage and a .768 OPS. The club finished second to the Yankees in the Major Leagues in each of those aforementioned categories.

• Freddie Freeman finished his ninth All-Star season and fourth campaign with the Dodgers hitting .295, which ranked third in the National League. Freeman also ranked third in the NL with 39 doubles and his .367 OBP ranked seventh in the league. He had 24 homers and 90 RBI, while closing the year with 2,431 career hits, most among active players. Freeman also ranked seventh among qualifying players with a .323 average with runners in scoring position.

• Despite a season in which he played just 110 games (the lowest full season total of his career) due to various injuries, Dodger catcher Will Smith batted a career high .296 and was named to his third NL All-Star team and first as the starting catcher. Smith hit 17 homers with a .901 OPS and batted .337 (32-for-95) with runners in scoring position. Smith hit two pinch-hit walk-off home runs this season, with the second one on Aug. 31, giving him a Dodger record four pinch-hit walk-offs. He has five career walk-off homers overall, leaving him two shy of catching Andre Ethier for the Dodger record (since 1974).

• Mookie Betts battled through a illness to start the season and struggled for much of it, but finished on an upswing in his first full season as the Dodger shortstop. Betts hit .288 in August and .299 while whacking six home runs with an .899 OPS in the season's final month. Betts scored 95 runs and had 20 homers, reaching 90+ runs scored for the ninth time in his career and getting to 20+ homers for the eighth time. Betts won the NL Player of the Week from Sept. 8-14, hitting .462 (12-for-26) with two homers, 10 RBI, three doubles, three walks, seven runs scored, an .808 slugging percentage and a .517 on-base percentage across six games. The Tennessee native made just seven errors in 482 chances all season, good for a .985 fielding percentage, which ranked sixth among ML shortstops.

THE ARCHITECT: Dodger President of Baseball Operations Andrew Friedman assembled his 11th straight postseason team with the Dodgers and will be part of Postseason play for the 15th time in his career. He has been the leader for 12 division titles (2008, 2010, 2015-20, 2022-25), seven LCS appearances (2008, 2016-2018, 2020-2021, 2024), five pennants (2008, 2017, 2018, 2020, 2024) and two World Championships (2020, 2024). Since taking over the top spot in baseball operations, Friedman's Dodger teams have gone 1,036-645 (.616).

THE FIELD BOSS: Dave Roberts is now a perfect 10-for-10 in postseason appearances, winning nine division titles and earning one wild card berth. He is the first National League manager in history to lead his team to the playoffs in his first 10 seasons and is the first to accomplish the feat since Joe Torre led the Yankees to the playoffs in his first 12 seasons at the helm. Under Roberts, the Dodgers have posted a Major League best 944-576 (.621) record since 2016, and he is the winningest Manager in Major League Baseball history with 1,000+ games managed.

ALL-TIME WINNING PERCENTAGE IN MAJOR LEAGUE HISTORY - MANAGERS

Bullet Rogan	.698	(257-111)
Vic Harris	.663	(547-278)
Rube Foster	.633	(336-195)
Dave Malarcher	.628	(263-156)
Dave Roberts	.621	(944-576)

• He has recorded 100-win seasons in five of his 10 seasons with the Dodgers and he is one of five managers in Major League Baseball history with five 100-win seasons, along with Bobby Cox (6), Joe McCarthy (6), Connie Mack (5) and Earl Weaver (5).

• His 10 playoff appearances are tied for sixth all-time in MLB history and he ranks second among active managers (Terry Francona, 12). In the 2020 playoffs, Roberts became the winningest postseason manager in franchise history, surpassing Hall of Famer Tommy Lasorda with his 32nd postseason win in Game 5 of the NLCS against the Braves. He now has 58 postseason wins, which ranks fourth all-time, trailing just HOF's Joe Torre (84), Tony La Russa (71) and Bobby Cox (67).

THE ROSTER: The Dodgers' NLDS roster includes 15 position players and 11 pitchers. Los Angeles added left-handed pitchers Anthony Banda and Clayton Kershaw to the active roster and left off pitchers Edgardo Henriquez and Justin Wrobleski, who were active in the wild card round.

• The Dodgers finished the season using 62 different players (4th, NL), and led the Major Leagues with 2,183 days with players missing games on the injured list.

• Clayton Kershaw will be on the active Postseason roster for the first time since the 2023 NLDS. The southpaw, who announced his retirement at the end of the season last month, has made seven Postseason relief appearances in his career, going 0-0 with a 4.50 ERA (5 ER/10.0 IP) and 12 strikeouts. Kershaw has not appeared in relief during the playoffs since 2019. Overall, he's 13-13 with a 4.49 ERA in 39 Postseason games (32 starts). He holds Dodger Postseason records in wins, starts, innings pitched (194.1) and strikeouts (213). Since 1962, Kershaw's 2.53 regular season ERA is the best in baseball among pitchers with at least 1,500 innings pitched, just ahead of Jacob deGrom (2.57). Kershaw allowed zero or one run in a whopping 51.4% of his career starts (232 of 451).
