Welcome to Eldredge Park!

Thanks for joining us for another exciting Cape Cod Baseball League season. If this is the first time you've attended a Cape League game, get ready to enjoy the best in amateur baseball. Now in its 132nd season, the Cape Cod Baseball League made the transition from "town team" to collegiate in the mid-60s, and is now comprised of ten franchises whose players are selected from the finest college baseball programs in the nation. There is no admission or parking fees to our games, and we are dependent on your generosity via donations at the games, Firebird Fan Club memberships, and souvenir purchases.

We have several special events planned this summer including a special Scout Game on July 25 at 6 PM. Be sure to check our website, www.orleansfirebirds.com, for other special events and rainout rescheduling.

This year's Cape League All-Star game will be held at Chatham's Veterans Field on Saturday, July 23th.

Thanks to all members of the Firebirds organization: our players, coaches, bat kids, interns, volunteers, host families, and others, many of whom work year round to make the Firebirds season possible. Equally important, thanks to our fans, for your extraordinary support over the years. We hope to see you often at picturesque Eldredge Park!

Gene Hornsby,

President, Orleans Athletic Association

Dear Firebirds Fans,

As a member of the Orleans Firebirds/Cardinals for the past fifteen years, I can't imagine a better way to spend the summer! Watching the "stars of tomorrow shine tonight" is truly an honor, and I am extremely humbled to be part of an extraordinary organization. Your unbelievable support, generosity and enthusiasm for the Firebirds are the best on the Cape, and my sincere appreciation goes out to each and every one of you.

Coach Kelly Nicholson

The Firebirds pride ourselves in bringing a professional environment to the Cape Cod Baseball League, doing things "the right way" and playing the game with the utmost respect for America's favorite pastime. We, the players and coaches, promise to represent the great town of Orleans with pride, poise, class and hustle at all times.

We look forward to sharing a tremendous baseball experience with you this summer. When you visit Eldredge Park, please come by and say "hello," get autographs from the players, visit the Home Plate Shop, take home a souvenir and be prepared to watch some future major leaguers display their talents!

Thank you again for your continued support.

Humbly and respectfully yours in baseball,

Kelly Nichol

2015 CCBL SEASON REVIEW

YD RED SOX DEFEAT HYANNIS FOR CAPE COD BASEBALL LEAGUE CHAMPIONSHIP

The Firebirds congratulate the Yarmouth-Dennis Red Sox for winning the 2015 CCBL Championship, their second consecutive championship and fifth in 12 years. Despite a .500 regular season record, the Red Sox caught fire in the playoffs, recording three consecutive upsets on their way to the title. In round one, Y-D swept #2 Eastern Division seed Brewster behind strong pitching and the hitting of SS Donnie Walton. Y-D then faced President's Trophy winner and #1 seed Orleans. In a classic three-game Eastern Division Championship series, the Red Sox eliminated the Firebirds 2-1 in game 3 before an enormous crowd at Eldredge Park. Y-D then took care of Western Division top seed Hyannis, winning games two (9-3) and three (8-1) in convincing fashion. The team was led by veteran manager Scott Pickler and Playoff MVP's pitcher Ben Bowden (Vanderbilt) and SS Donnie Walton (Oklahoma State). ○

Welcome to historic Eldredge Park. Named "the best summer collegiate park in the nation," in 2004 by Baseball America, this picturesque park has served the town of Orleans for over 100 years. Over this time, substantial work has been completed to maintain, improve and modernize the park, most recently through private donations and without a single penny of local taxpayer support. Today, Eldredge Park provides the town with a beautiful facility and ambiance once described by Philadelphia Reporter Joe Parillo as "a Norman Rockwell painting come to life."

Back in the early 1900's, a local gentleman named Lewis Winslow "Win" Eldredge (1861-1944) acquired about 250 acres of land in central Orleans in "consideration of my affection for and interest in the young people of Orleans and my desires to provide a playground for them."

In 1966, major steps were taken to modernize the park. The facility expanded to include a music band shell, tennis courts, picnic areas and other recreational facilities provided for in the master plan. Significantly, the field configuration was changed, moving home plate from near the existing left-field foul pole to its current location. Coinciding with this reconfiguration, a new irrigation system was added, along with new soil. The "new" Eldredge Park was "an incredible diamond of velvet turf infield on a beautiful site." The new park debuted on July 23, 1967 when it hosted the Cape Cod League Baseball All-Star game.

One of the most distinctive elements of Eldredge Park is the steep hill that runs all the way down the right side of the field, which for years was almost impossible to sit on comfortably. That problem was solved in 1985 when Fred Perreault suggested terracing the entire hill, creating relatively level tiers on which fans could place chair and blankets. Now known as simply The Hill at Eldredge Park, this iconic feature expanded capacity to around 6000 and created a unique setting that is the envy of community ball parks throughout the country.

In 2004, the Yawkey Foun-

ation began making a series of $150,000 grants to each of the 10 CCBL teams. In 2009, Orleans and Yarmouth-Dennis became the last teams to receive grants. Staged in phases, and with the addition of community donations, Eldredge Park underwent $322,000 worth of improvements.

Phase 1 was completed in 2010 and involved construction of state-of-the-art 46' long dugouts, complete with New England styled bead boarding. A knee high padded brick backstop was built, new safety netting that extended 180' down each foul line was added and new foul poles and a flagpole in centerfield were erected.

Phase 2 was completed in 2011, focused on improving the playing surface. The entire infield was excavated to a level 5 feet underground, and then layered with new clay and sod. Sophisticated laser-guided instruments were used to level the field. Warning tracks were widened to 15' to conform to NCAA guidelines. Finally, both bullpens were fully restored to their original condition and the safety netting was raised another 20'.

Phase 3 was completed prior to the 2013 season and included a new sprinkler system. Fred Perreault and John Martin also cleared out two overgrown and unsightly groves, above the home plate area and adjacent to the left field foul pole, greatly enhancing the expansive, open feel of the park. Finally, bleachers were converted from wood to aluminum and new sets were added beyond the outfield fence.

Over the last 100 years, Eldredge Park has served the town of Orleans in many ways. The town has coupled a vision with an unparalleled commitment from residents, local business owners and countless volunteers to build, maintain and constantly improve the ballpark. George Mitrovich, a San Diego Civic Leader, summed up Eldredge Park in a 1998 Letter to the Boston Globe, "some teams play in ballparks with lights, some without. Some play in forgettable surroundings and some, like the Cardinals in Orleans, play in a sylvan setting so transcendently beautiful one's breath is swept away." ◊

TEAMMATES and CHEERLEADERS for LIFE

BY VINCENT M. MALLOZZI
NOV. 27, 2015 - NEW YORK TIMES

There are no fancy hotels, first-class flights or rubbing elbows with celebrities in the anxious life of a minor-league baseball player as he dreams of making it to the major leagues. Most of those dreams take place on late-night bus rides along the lonely roads and dimly lit highways that run through the heart of baseball's minor league circuit.

One of those dreamers is Jason Wheeler, a 6-foot-6 left-handed pitcher from Loyola Marymount University in Los Angeles who can throw a fastball more than 90 miles an hour.

In June 2011, Mr. Wheeler, who grew up in Torrance, Calif., arrived in Orleans, Mass., to play for the hometown Firebirds of the Cape Cod Baseball League, a summer collegiate league. He drove to Eldredge Park, where he was to meet a member of his host family, a common arrangement for many young baseball players across the country who aim to keep expenses down while on the circuit.

That's where Mr. Wheeler met Madelyn Walters, a 19-year-old college sophomore at the time who knew little about the pitcher she was asked to pick up and deliver back to her family's home in Orleans, where he would stay during his time as a Firebird.

Things were already looking up for Jason, then 20. A week earlier, he was drafted by the Minnesota Twins. But his fortunes took an even better turn.

"When I pulled up to the field and saw Maddie," he said, "I thought she was really pretty, and that I had gotten really lucky."

And in the eyes of Maddie, Jason quickly became a different kind of prospect.

"I found him attractive, absolutely," said Maddie, who is now 23 and an academic advisement fellow at Marist College in Poughkeepsie, N.Y., where she works with student athletes.

"But it was a complicated situation," she said, because she was an only daughter with three brothers. "My dad had his own set of house rules where our guests were concerned. His list of rules included turning out the lights after getting home late, and to remember at all times that his daughter was off limits."

Jason, now 25 and still enduring long bus rides as a professional baseball player in the Twins organization, was made well aware of the house rules, but his relationship with Maddie quickly began to crystallize, putting him in a difficult position.

"Scandal was not my goal," he said with a chuckle. "But as I continued to hang around Maddie and got to know her, I kept thinking how lucky I was to have met her. I had to constantly remind myself that she was my host sister, and that any thoughts of romance that entered my mind would be completely inappropriate."

So they became close friends and began spending most of their free time together beneath a New England sun and moon that Jason had once seen as having only stitched seams on them. They often drove to Nauset Beach in Orleans or to the ponds near the Walters house.

On other days and nights, when there wasn't a game being played, they drove to surrounding quaint towns or enjoyed each other's company aboard the family boat, sailing on Pleasant Bay past the cedar-shingled cottages and whaling captains' homes set along the Cape Cod coast.

"We were always together, but almost never alone," Maddie said. "We sat next to each other at dinner, but always with family around us.

Everything we did was very family oriented."

That family included Jason's aunt, Rebecca Butler, who lived two hours away in Wayland, Mass., and would often visit with her four children.

"When I heard Jason would be in the Cape league, I thought, 'He's going to be lonely, we should see him,' but he said no," Ms. Butler said. "I'd offer to give him a ride home after we watched a game where he pitched, and he never wanted one. Maddie was always driving him."

Then one day that summer, during a family get-together that included Ms. Butler, she noticed the couple's body language and turned to Maddie's mother, Dr. Kimberly Mead-Walters, and Jason's mother, Heather Wheeler (who had flown in from California), and asked "O.K., what's going on between Jason and Maddie?"

Though both women insisted that their children were simply good friends, Ms. Butler knew otherwise.

"Rebecca was right," Maddie said. "We were falling in love."

In mid-August, Jason returned home to Torrance and to Loyola Marymount for a month before reporting to the Twins for the Fall Instructional League in Fort Myers, Fla. He played there for a month before returning to Loyola again in October, to continue studying for a degree in business law.

Maddie had returned that fall to the University of Connecticut, where she was a member of the rowing team, but she soon headed west.

"Jason and I kept texting and calling and wishing each other well, but we just couldn't separate," she said. "We finally decided to give it a try," she added, referring to living near each other.

In January 2012, in the middle of her sophomore year, Maddie transferred to the University of Southern California "for strictly athletic and academic reasons," she said, followed by a chuckle. (UConn had given her permission to contact other schools and had released her from her athletic scholarship. Because she would be competing in a different conference, she was immediately eligible to compete.)

"Two or three days after Jason left, Maddie said, 'All the good rowers go to where it's warm,'" said Dr. Mead-Walters, a family physician who is also the Firebirds' team doctor. "Within 24 hours, she had contacted and heard from U.S.C., U.C.L.A. and the University of San Diego. A week later she was out there interviewing and was offered a full scholarship at U.S.C. She said to her dad, 'I will be dating Jason Wheeler when I get there.'

We knew he'd be part of her California plan."

And there was nothing in the family ground rules against that.

"Every year, I said that the players had to keep their hands off our daughter," said Maddie's father, Davis Walters, who is in charge of facilities management for the Town of Wellfleet, Mass. "But now I jokingly say that, of course. The one she chose is 6-6 and has 50 pounds on me."

Jason, whom Mr. Walters described as "very mature, very even-keeled and intelligent," graduated from Loyola Marymount in 2012 and scored high on the Law School Admission Test he took in December 2013 at the University of Southern California. At the time, he and Maddie were sharing an apartment near the U.S.C. campus.

By May 2014, Maddie had completed her undergraduate degree in human biology at U.S.C., and the following month, she moved to Seattle to begin studying for a master's degree in intercollegiate athletic administration at the University of Washington. Jason joined her in Seattle in September 2014, at the conclusion of another baseball season filled with hope.

Three months later, the couple spent their first Christmas together at the Walters home in Orleans. On a blustery Christmas Eve, Jason told Maddie that he wanted to visit Nauset Beach "to look at the stars."

When they arrived, Maddie was greeted by the sight of a gazebo strung with Christmas lights, candles flickering on the railings. Jason talked about their future together before season with the Twins and live with Maddie in Poughkeepsie, N.Y., in the off-season. "There's always a chance to make it, especially when you are in the higher level of the minor leagues. If you have a good season, you're always just a phone call away."

Jason's brother, Ryan Wheeler, 27, who also played in the Cape Cod League before breaking into the majors in 2012 as a third baseman for the Arizona Diamondbacks and later for the Colorado Rockies, knows all about dreaming on those endless bus rides. But he also knows that his little brother has a great support system in Ms. Walters, whom he calls "one of the most patient people I've ever met."

Jason Wheeler said life on the road can take its toll on the psyche of a ballplayer.

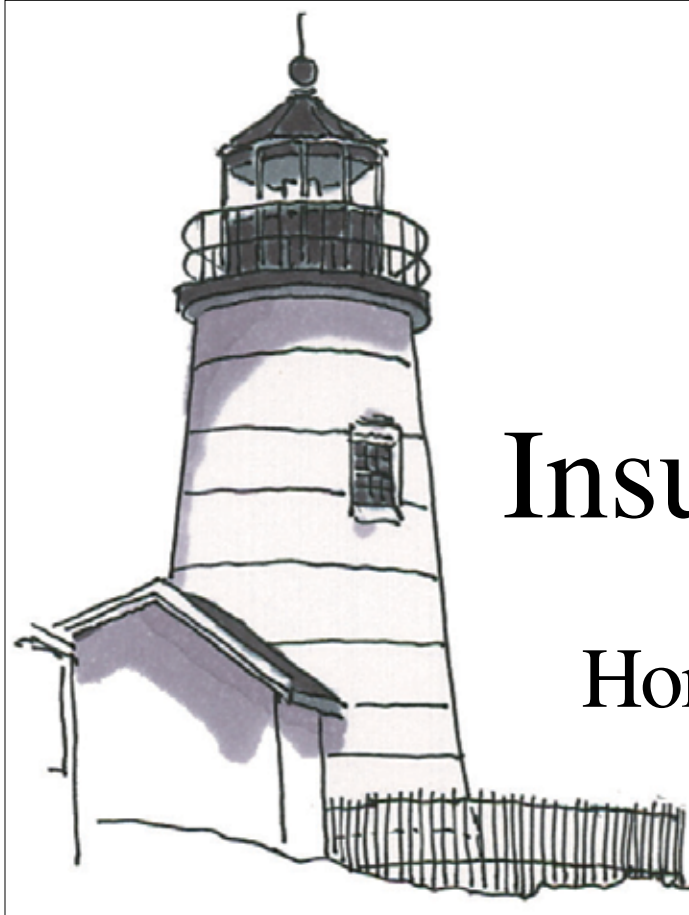

"We have driven overnight from Tennessee to Jacksonville, Fla., and on to Mobile, Ala., and then continued on to Biloxi, Miss., for games in those cities," he said. "There have been some long bus rides for sure. But if you let all of that traveling get to you, it can affect your game, so it's just something you have to get through."

Back home, Maddie is indeed determined to stay the course, albeit long and uncertain.

"All the time that Jason and I spend away is not really frustrating to us, because we both have goals that we are trying to achieve," she said. "We are teammates who are going to do whatever we can to help each other achieve those goals and ultimately succeed."

"We are dreaming the dream together," she added. ○ dropping to one knee and proposing.

It was raining and foggy on Nov. 6, and certainly no day for baseball, when the couple married at the Wychmere Beach Club in Harwich Port, Mass. There was no visibility to the harbor or Nantucket Sound, but the gray mood outside was brightened considerably indoors when a keyboardist and guitarist played "Here Comes the Sun" and other Beatles tunes as the 130 guests waited for the ceremony to begin.

"Let marriage be waking each morning and falling in love all over again," said the Rev. Sally Norris, a minister of the United Church of Christ who officiated, along with Joshua Jackson, a lifelong friend of Mr. Wheeler's from Torrance who offered commentary on the couple's relationship.

By the end of the ceremony, some of the fog had lifted and lobster buoys were visible through the raindrops on the club's windows. Wind blew the trees, and even in the mist, autumn's gold and orange leaves lightened the horizon, the last vestiges of another promising season.

"We are each other's biggest fans and supporters," said Maddie, who had returned to Seattle, where she completed her master's in June, while Jason spent the first half of the 2015 baseball season playing for Minnesota's Class AAA affiliate, the Rochester Redwings, inching ever so close to his dream. He spent the second half playing for the team's Class AA club, the Lookouts, in Chattanooga, Tenn.

"There are things I still need to work on to improve as a baseball player, but I believe I can play on the major league level," said Jason, who will report to spring training next

Introducing JAMIE QUINN

AN INTERVIEW WITH THE FIREBIRDS' NEW PITCHING COACH

How did you become connected to Kelly and ultimately land this role as Orleans' pitching coach?

The fall of 2015 was my first not coaching college ball, as I was looking for something full time, however I wanted to still be able to coach summer ball. At the Zoned Baseball Academy in New Jersey, as recruiting coordinator I had the opportunity to work with a team that included Al Leiter's son. I went down to Fort Myers for the Perfect Game tournament this past October and Al started to get to know me a little more. He learned that I already had some good coaching experience and he asked me what I want to do. Told him I wanted get back to coaching at the D1 level and I knew the Cape was "the Big Leagues of college summer leagues", so I wanted to get up there. He said "hey, I have a buddy who coaches up there and I'll reach out to him". Kelly was interviewing three guys at the time, but Al said, "At the worst case, you should be able to get a phone interview". That's all I needed and I'll took it from there.

How did the phone interview go with Kelly? What were some of the things he focused on?

To be honest, it was more of a conversation than an interview. He wanted to learn of my philosophy, my roles in each of my prior coaching stops, especially in my years as a pitching coach. He wanted to know my career path. I'm a big believer that things happen for a reason. We probably spoke for 45 minutes to an hour. It was very positive and energetic on both sides. I was certainly pumped listening to Kelly, and I hope the reverse was true as well.

Did Al Leiter offer you any insight on Kelly?

He said, "Dude, you're going to love Kelly. He's laid back, genuine, passionate & positive." I think we share some of the same qualities. I may not be as laid back as he is; you know he's a California guy, metaphysical. Al said that I'd love Orleans, that he spends time in the summer with Kelly and the team.

Last year you were a first time manager, in the Hamptons League for Shelter Island Bucks. How did that go?

My first head-coaching gig went pretty well, we had a great year and won the Championship. Two goals I set out at the first team meeting: 1) not get one kid kicked off the team and 2) win a championship. Both those goals were achieved. For three years previously, the Shelter Island Bucks had a kid kicked off the team and they hadn't won a championship. We set the tone real early at that meeting. Proud that we won the most games in HCBL history, but more proud no one was kicked off the team. They bought in, both players and coaches. Gotta Buy In To Win!

Can you describe your coaching philosophy?

To keep it short; Teach, Develop and Win. My background is teaching, I have a degree in physical education (Queens College, 2008) and am pursuing my master's in Coaching Education and Athlete Development through Xavier University. I believe in player development and that winning can speed up player development. We did early work every day we were home in Shelter Island. The day before I would put up an organizational chart, put up which 5 kids would be scheduled for early work with me and one of the other assistants. Usually I try to keep the middle infielders together; they would come for about an hour. Thirty minutes of hitting work and a half hour on defensive fundamentals. Next day would be the catchers and hitters and so on. I am attention to detail oriented.

You had the opportunity to play for Gary Carter, the late Mets Hall of Famer. What was he like and what did you learn from him?

Gary's an icon. I grew up a Mets fan and a catcher. My dad would say if you want to be a catcher, watch him. He was energetic. That smile was iconic. He held everyone accountable; he didn't care whether you had big league experience or a new guy right out of rookie ball. He pushed guys the right way, and they responded.. He taught me how to go about my business as a professional. He was a great family man, spiritual, and a privilege to work under.

A short story about Gary. It was November 2009; we had just lost in the Atlantic League semi-finals. I saw in the paper that Gary was making an appearance at a mall in Long Island, near where I live. My dad and I just took a chance going up there. We arrive and the line was down the mall. This is a legend in New York, a Hall-of-Fame catcher. Given the line, we thought we'd just walk up, say hello and keep walking. I wasn't a star, really the low guy on the totem pole on his team. So I just whistled a bit and said "hey Skip!" He turned, smiled, signed the two baseballs that were in front of him and told the organizer it was time for a break. He walked over and talked with my dad and I for about 20 minutes. That's what kind of dude he is. He'd do anything for you. It was tough when he passed in 2012. I think about him all the time. He was really good to me, and I try to emulate much of what I do after Gary.

Who are some current Big League pitchers you especially admire?

I really like the Mets starting staff. They all attack the zone, and not just with their fastballs. They're pretty much lightning right now. David Price is another one, full of confidence and poise.

I like the confident guys, not showy or brash, but confident.

You have a unique perspective as a catcher turned pitching coach. What's key to a positive relationship between "battery-mates", and how will you foster that between Firebirds largely unfamiliar with each other?

For starters, I want the catchers to get to know the pitchers, and fast. I want them to hang out together that first week. It's not really about what the guys best pitch is. It's about learning what makes that guy tick, or how you have to push that guy. Find out about his home life, his school life, learn about his family. I'm going to tell the catchers that I want them to tell me about each pitcher. The catcher is an extension of the pitching coach. It goes both ways. I want the pitchers to understand the catchers as well. You have to understand each other after that first week, because otherwise it's too late. We want to hit the ground running right out of the gate. The catcher also needs to know each pitcher's arsenal, from the wind up and stretch, where he likes you to set up. You want to make him as comfortable as possible. That requires doing all the homework.

Tell me about the catcher-umpire relationship. Why is that important and how is it fostered?

You want to make it easy on the umpire, make that pitch look good for him. Subtly pull that ball towards your midline. You can't show him up. On TV, the focus is almost always on the pitcher, the hitter, the catcher and the umpire. You can see the intricacies of the catcher and umpire, talking back and forth. You want him on your good side, not just catching, but also when you're at the plate with a 3-2 count.

Much is currently made of the importance of good "pitch framing" by the catcher. What is good technique?

Framing is really the old terminology that is still used. It's all about presenting the pitch for the umpire, as clear and clean as possible, give him the best look. Subtle movement. He's not stupid. He's going to see when you move your glove six inches. You want to subtly bring the outside of the ball toward your mid-line, maybe 1-2 inches at the most. If it's a definite strike, catch it and throw it back. Same if it's a definite ball. Catch it and throw it back.

Are there any MLB catchers that you believe are particularly good at presenting pitches?

Absolutely. Jonathan Lucroy from Milwaukee, he gets low, he steals that low strike, very little movement at all. Travis d'Arnaud of the Mets. He does a great job stealing those pitches. He'll roll that thumb up. These are receivers, not necessarily the best throwers. I'd add Yadi Molina (Cardinals) and Russell Martin (Blue Jays) are great at it. Nowadays, teams are paying top dollar for great receiving skills.

Given the transition to wood bats on the Cape, how will you instruct pitchers to alter their approach?

First off, we'll have more confidence. Not be afraid to challenge hitters and attack the strike zone early. Pitch to contact. "Rule 68", 68% of all balls put in play are outs. I want our guys confident out there. Not overly so, but knowing they can make a quality pitch when they need to get the job done.

Are you a big believer in throwing a first pitch strike?

Yes. A 0-1 count vs. a 1-0 count is a big difference. Percentages are drastic. We're not micing, not going to nibble on the corners, we're going to attack the zone. I worked with Doug Drabek (155 MLB wins, including Cy Young Award winner in 1990) for two years with the Diamondbacks. He'd say to our pitchers, "Trust your stuff, over the plate, down in the zone. Just trust your stuff."

For a pitcher, what's the difference between starting a game and coming in as a reliever?

Starters have more time to establish the zone. If something's not working, you have time to fix it and get deeper into the game. You don't want to show all your pitches up front. If you're a four-pitch guy, you may want to save something in our back pocket for later on. For relievers, it's different. You're going out there, for one hitter or inning, to get your job done. You don't need to save pitches. There's usually no room for error. I'm a big charting guy, and one of the things I follow are runners inherited that eventually score off a reliever. Relievers have to own their role. It preaches accountability.

The Cape's staff's are typically loaded with "Friday starters", with front-line guys. How're you going to coach some pitchers into new roles?

It's all about winning. Every championship team I've been on bought into winning, first and foremost. Player development is key to winning. I'll look for teachable moments, have one-on-one conversations with kids early, and tell them this is what we're looking for from you. We'll watch them in the spring with their college teams, and when everyone arrives we will mold roles as they unfold.

At Eldredge Park, the bullpen is way out by the Band Shell. Can you describe what goes on out there, seemingly so removed from the game?

Early on, probably from the 1st through 4th innings, guys are staying loose, just talking baseball, watching opposing hitters. But once the 5th inning comes, stuff can hit the fan real quick. One thing we'll do is begin to stretch, get loose by the 5th. It doesn't matter if our guy is throwing a perfect game, just in case the wheels start falling off. We'll have a scouting report out there on the opposing hitters. Its funny, some guys want to know, some don't. Is the hitter a first-pitch swinger? Then they may work on their breaking stuff. The game is a teacher. The game will tell you, if you watch closely and observe, what's going to happen, or who is going to be needed at any particular time. That's why it's huge to know your role.

Outside of pitch count, what are the other things you look for to see if your pitcher is losing it?

Good question. Arm slot. Release point. There are guys who cruise through 50 pitches, other guys who labor along the way. Watching his mannerisms and poor body language, any mechanism flaws that are emerging. Pitch location alters from inconsistent release point, which stems from an imbalance in delivery.

During a mound visit to check on a struggling pitcher, do you seek input from the pitcher or the catcher?

The catcher won't necessarily say their guy is losing it in front of him, so you have to have that "look" that the catcher gives you, or something that says "hey, this guy is done". Some subtle signal. But when I visit the mound, I have my own opinion. It's relying on all that experience, doing this for so long. Usually it will be Kelly that takes the ball from our pitcher, so my visits will be mostly to encourage the kid to get one more hitter, get through the inning, how we're going to pitch a particular hitter or situation, or what adjustments can be made.

Do you have any favorite pitching coaches in the Majors?

Dave Righetti, longevity, been around so long for a bunch of different pitchers, staffs, World Series Championships. A New York native in Donny Cooper with the White Sox. I've heard him speak and his message is simple - "pound the strike zone and be aggressive". Rick Peterson, been a big league pitching coach for awhile, I've taken some stuff from his arsenal over the years including the "193 Line" (MLB data supports this batting average against pitches at or below the knee). One other guy is Dave Duncan, Tony LaRussa's right hand man for 30 years. Of course he was a catcher. I'm from the Dave Duncan School.

As your first time on the Cape and in Orleans, what are you most looking forward to experiencing?

Just explore things. I've been fortunate that baseball has been my vehicle to see the country. I've never been to the Cape but have heard great things, how pretty it is and everything. I'm just going to let the summer take me where it goes, try to experience everything and anything, check out places recommended by old timers. I want to explore the beaches, the small little towns, the food, everything. ○

In Memory of Dick and Louise Mulholland

In 2015 the bleachers located just to the first base side of home plate were dedicated to the memory of Richard "Dick" and Louise Mulholland as a gift from their sons, Rick, Dave and Doug Mulholland, and close family friends, Mark and Anne Carron.

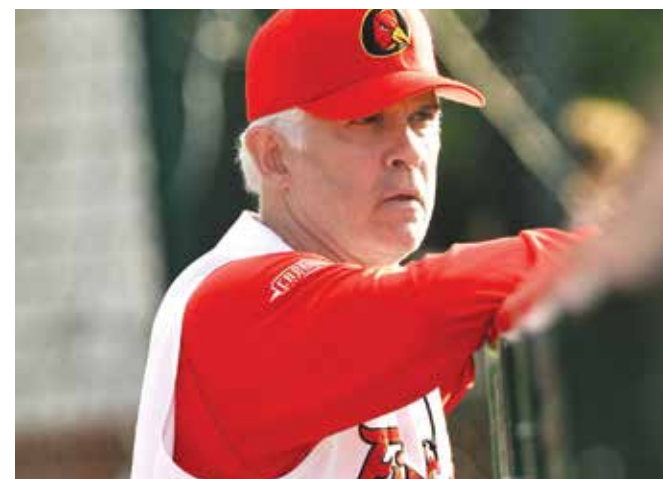

Dick and Louise were longtime Orleans residents and business owners, having owned and operated the former Backus and Soule Jewelers. Dick, a watchmaker, died in 1983 and Louise, an administrative assistant, remarried in 1991 the late Herbert Bierkan. She died in 2014.

They were always very involved in the Orleans sports community, as their sons were athletes at Nauset Regional High School. Dick coached little league for many years and refereed high school basketball. Louise was the "#1 Fan." They especially enjoyed watching the Orleans Firebirds (Cardinals back then) and they could always be found sitting on their lawn chairs at the bottom of the hill across from 1st base.

It is in their memory that these bleachers are gifted and dedicated to the Orleans Athletic Association, so that others can enjoy an up close view of Cape Cod League baseball. A view that they thoroughly loved and enjoyed for years.

The Firebirds thank the Mulhollands and Carrons for their generous donation.

Orleans is indeed fortunate to welcome Coach Nicholson back for his 15th summer here – his 11th as Field Manager, the longest tenure for an Orleans skipper in the "modern era" (1963-present).

Kelly (or Coach K as he's known in the pitching fraternity) is a native of Corona, California where he won numerous scholar-athlete awards in both baseball and basketball while in high school. He was a four-year letterwinner and two-time all-conference pick during his pitching career at Loyola Marymount University.

After earning his bachelor's degree in business administration from LMU, he began his career teaching mathematics at Loyola High School of Los Angeles, while completing his master's degree in education from LMU. He was the head coach of the Loyola HS Cubs for eleven seasons, where he led the team to seven playoff appearances and a league title. Kelly then spent three seasons as Loyola Marymount's pitching coach, and each year the Lions won the WCC title and went to the NCAA regionals. In the summer of 2000, Kelly worked with the Team USA pitching staff in its early preparation for international play. Kelly joined Orleans as the pitching coach in 2001. In 2002, Coach K's staff had a 2.11 ERA (the best ever by Cardinals pitchers) and in 2004 it led the CCBL with a 2.37. His 2003 championship pitching staff was lights out, with a 2.36 ERA and a league-leading 397 Ks in 401 IP. All told, Kelly's pitching staffs have led the CCBL in ERA an astounding 7 times.

It's no surprise to anyone who knows him that Kelly enjoys the respect, affection and admiration of his players, fellow coaches and colleagues here and around the league and in the wider baseball community; he's a favorite around town, having made countless friends over the years. Orleans fans know they'll see a first class team on the field every summer with Kelly at the helm.

Kelly recently established his "ABC" or Academy of Baseball and Character, where young players "learn to play the game the right way." We can attest to that. Orleans welcomes a true gentleman and a terrific leader back for his fifteenth summer. Kelly is engaged to Donna Barney and resides in Playa del Rey, CA. ○

Co-winner of the Hossfeld Spirit Award with Coach Steve DeBlasi in 2004, Kelly became the field manager in 2005, and was the unanimous choice of his fellow managers for the CCBL Mike Curran Manager of the Year Award after leading the Cardinals to a record-setting 30-win season and the championship. Coach K was again named Manager of the Year in 2008 as his squad finished the regular season in first place overall (25-17-2), but a heart-breaking 1-0, 18-inning loss to the eventual CCBL Champion Harwich Mariners ended the team's playoff run. Under his leadership, Orleans is a perennial playoff contender. In 2015, Kelly led the Firebirds to a franchise record of 31-12-1 (.716) and was named the CCBL Mike Curran Manager of the Year. Coach K's overall regular season winning percentage of .580 leads all active CCBL Managers.

Benny Craig
Feel Good Hitting, Carmel, IN
Hometown: San Diego, California

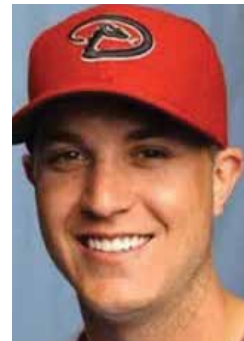

Coach Craig returns for his eighth season as the team's primary hitting coach and he'll also run the offense.

A native of San Diego, Craig spent the first three years of his collegiate career as a switch-hitting outfielder for the UCLA Bruins before transferring to Loyola Marymount for his senior season. Selected in the 19th round of the 1997 Major League draft by the Cincinnati Reds, he played for its Burlington Bees affiliate and later the Houston Astros' Kissimmee Cobras.

Coach Craig played for several independent teams, and he homered from both sides of the plate in the same game three times. During his 10-year professional career, he accumulated 108 home runs. He started his coaching career at Cal State Los Angeles, and was the hitting coach at Grossmont High School (CA) for two seasons, reaching the CIF finals in both years and winning the title in 2010.

Craig holds a bachelor's degree in history from UCLA. Currently, he runs a private batting facility in northern Indianapolis called Feel Good Hitting, where he instructs players of all ages, with a strong focus on high school, college, and professional athletes; a current client is Firebirds alum and current San Francisco Giants 3B Matt Duffy. Coach Craig names Ted Williams, Pete Rose, Sadaharu Oh, Harvey Dorfman, and Ben Hogan as his strongest hitting influences.

The Firebirds wish Coach Craig and his bride Kaitlin a happy first year anniversary and welcome them back to Orleans! ○

Mark Hallberg
Assistant Coach
American School of Dubai
Hometown: Balsam Lake, Wisconsin

Mark Hallberg returns for his third year on the Firebirds coaching staff, working primarily with the defense and coaching third base.

Coach Hallberg was a three-sport star at Barron High (WI) in baseball, soccer and basketball. On the diamond, he was a 3-time All-State performer and in 2004 was recognized as the Northwest Wisconsin player of the year. Amazingly, he didn't strike out once during his junior and senior seasons.

Coach Hallberg started his college baseball career at the University of Illinois at Chicago, where he was named Louisville Slugger Freshman All-American, and was the most difficult hitter in the nation to strike out. He played for Orleans in 2006, and transferred to Florida State for his junior season where he garnered first team All-ACC honors in 2007, hit .360 and recorded the highest fielding percentage in school history for a short-stop. In the three years of college, Coach Hallberg was 1st team All-Conference three times, and 2-time All-American, with a career .362 BA.

A 9th round draft selection (234 overall) in the 2007 MLB draft by the Arizona Diamondbacks, he played five seasons in the minor leagues, the last two with the Triple-A Reno Aces, finishing with a career .277 BA and .977 FPCT.

Coach Hallberg holds a Master's in Business Administration (MBA) degree and BS in Health and Human Performance. He currently works overseas teaching at the American School of Dubai. We're proud to have a former player on the coaching staff. Welcome back, Mark! ○

Jamie Quinn
Recruiting Coordinator
Zoned Baseball Academy, Bridgewater, NJ
Hometown: Somerville, NJ

Jamie Quinn joins the Firebirds in 2016 as the Pitching Coach.

Quinn brings several years of coaching experience and a successful track record with him to Orleans this summer. Most recently, Quinn was Head Coach of the Shelter Island Bucks of the Hamptons Collegiate Baseball League. In his only season Quinn's team posted a 31-15-1 overall record, won the HCBL Championship and set the league record for most wins.

Quinn has served on college coaching staffs at the United States Merchant Marine Academy (Top Assistant-Pitching Coach, 2013-2015), Hofstra University (2nd Assistant Coach, 2012), Long Island University (Volunteer Assistant Coach, 2011), and Queens College (2nd Assistant Coach, 2009-2010).

At the professional level, Jamie served as Bullpen Coach for the Long Island Ducks (2011-2012) of the Atlantic League, where his bullpen led the league in saves in 2011 and won the ATL Championship in 2012. Quinn worked under the late Hall-of-Famer catcher Gary Carter for the Ducks in 2009. From 2013-2014 Quinn served as a Video Coordinator and Catching Instructor for the Arizona Diamondbacks Single-A club in the Northwest League where they won the NWL Championship in 2014.

Quinn, who holds a degree in Physical Education from Queens, and is pursuing his Master's in Coaching Education & Athlete Development through Xavier University. ○

Chris Constantine
Assistant Coach
United States Naval Academy
Hometown: Franklin, MA

Chris Constantine returns to the Firebirds staff in 2016 after serving as an assistant coach at the United States Naval Academy, University of Maryland Eastern Shore, and Winston-Salem State University.

As a player, Chris played outfield for Winston-Salem State University and was named a 2012 USCAA Academic

All-American. Following graduation, he played two years of independent minor league baseball.

A Massachusetts native, he holds a master's degree in business administration from East Carolina University.

Chris will serve as first base coach and work with the Firebirds outfielders. ○

Be more than a fan, become a benefactor of the Firebirds

More than 30,000 fans attended Firebirds' games last season, one of the largest figures in the league. The Firebirds organization deeply appreciates your continued, enthusiastic support over the years.

This season we will need your support even more.

It costs us $300,000 a year to operate the team and cover expenses such as field maintenance and repairs, housing the coaches, transporting the players, providing uniforms and equipment, buying bats and balls, etc.

Contrary to popular belief, the Firebirds do not receive any direct financial support from either Major League Baseball or the Town of Orleans. Although we have the Cape Cod Baseball League's highest attendance, we do not charge admission, nor do we charge fans for the yearbook, daily stat sheets or listening to and viewing our internet broadcasts. Unlike most other CCBL teams, the Firebirds do not receive any income from food concessions at games.

Instead, all funds are raised through the Orleans Athletic Association, which is a 501 (c) (3) non-profit organization. Every member of the OAA is a non-paid volunteer. Many work hundreds of hours a year tirelessly contributing to the team. The primary sources of operating income are sales from the Home Plate Shop, the 50-50 raffle, fan donations at the game, corporate sponsorships, and fees to participate in the baseball clinics.

That's why we are so grateful for all your individual and business donations. To help us remain financially strong, the OAA launched the Firebirds Fan Club in 2011. The generous outpouring of support over the past two years has enabled the team to avoid a potential financial crisis and significantly reduce our debt.

The Firebirds are counting on our great fans once again. We are reaching out beyond Orleans to Eastham, Provincetown, Truro and Wellfleet residents, as well as to our many summer visitors to join our donor team and assist us so we can continue to provide this wholesome, family oriented activity. Attendance at a Firebirds game is the best Cape Cod summer entertainment bargain available, and the team continues to be the highlight of many vacations as well as a major source of local pride.

We depend on your generous support for our survival. Please consider a financial donation to the team so this community treasure can continue to provide pleasure and entertainment for years to come.

We also deeply appreciate the many businesses that advertise in this yearbook, and take out various sponsorships that support the team and its players. Those businesses understand how the Firebirds contribute vitally to our local economy, and we encourage you to visit their establishments and utilize their services. ○

Give Blood for Cape Cod

What's donated here stays here to help your friends, family and neighbors.

Why Donate Blood?

- A blood donation truly is a gift of life.
- Approximately one in seven people entering a hospital is in need of blood products.
- One pint of blood can save up to three lives.
- Red blood cells have a shelf life of 42 days so they constantly need to be replenished.
- Every three seconds someone is in need of blood.
- There is no substitute for human blood, so donating blood helps improve the quality of life for local patients in need.

2015 BIRDS NESTERS

The Firebirds thank all the host families, aka Bird Nesters, for opening their homes to our ballplayers, for their generosity and support. In providing warm and caring homes, you greatly contribute to the wonderful experience players will remember for the rest of their lives.

2015 Bird Feeders

After every home game, the team is treated to a meal that has been prepared by various host families, committee members, local businesses and organizations, plus other friends. The program begun by Kathy Udall as "sandwich suppers" has expanded its gastronomical boundaries to include everything from pasta dinners to barbeques to sushi, and it really helps the players – whose appetites may exceed their food budgets. It's a big undertaking to feed a group of hungry ballplayers, coaches and bat kids. We thank those volunteers for their generous efforts.

The Orleans Firebirds Youth Baseball Clinic

SUMMER MEMORIES FOR BOYS AND GIRLS AGE 5 TO 15 YEARS OLD

OUR CLINIC PHILOSOPHY

The co-ed clinic is dedicated to teaching the fundamentals of baseball. Skills and technical instruction will cover throwing, catching, fielding, hitting and base running. All level of abilities are identified, and all instruction is based on the age, ability and playing experience of each boy and girl. A high instructor-to-child ratio ensures that each boy and girl receives personal attention and direction.

GENERAL INFORMATION

All participants receive instruction from the manager, coaches and Firebirds, as well as a t-shirt, and an opportunity to "run with the 'Birds.'" 'Campers of the Week' also will be awarded at the conclusion of each clinic.

Clinics are held weekly beginning June 20 and continuing through July 25 at Nauset Middle School (adjacent to Eldredge Park). They run from 9 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. Water breaks and a nutrition break will take place daily, so attendees should bring snacks and water, in addition to their baseball gear.

Cost is $120/week or $30/day. There also are specialty clinics in pitching, catching and hitting for $40 per session. You can sign up at orleansfirebirds.com or register at the beginning of each clinic week beginning at 8:30 a.m. at Eldredge Park. Semi-soft baseballs are used for beginners. Required batting helmets will be supplied. ○
