Welcome Back to Falmouth!

The 2021 Cape Cod Baseball League season is finally here and we certainly missed watching some great games on Arnie Allen Diamond at Guv Fuller Field. It's a sentiment that's been shared in the past, and it means even more now that we can almost put the 2020 COVID Cancellation in the rear-view mirror and enjoy being at the ballpark!

We all have gone through a very trying time, and the light at the end of the tunnel is in sight – we all will need to continue to be careful and vigilant to ensure we have the chance to enjoy some great plays that are sure to occur when watching the Commodores, and their opponents, battle it out all summer in what will definitely be fantastic games full of line drives, double plays, quick steals, long bombs, strikeouts, and plenty of chances to see a fielder dive for an out on an otherwise sure hit. The best, elite college players from all over the country will be here to showcase their skills to the MLB scouts looking for that 'something' that will tell them a player is ready to be drafted to their organization. But, as always, these great players will just be able to enjoy the game of baseball in the best Summer Collegiate Baseball League in the nation, in front of the best fans watching them night in and night out.

Now is also our chance to thank the volunteers, CCBL Board Members, coaches and their staff, GMs, and all the 10 teams' many individuals involved with getting everything ready for the 2021 season. It was a difficult task; Cape League Baseball was surely missed last year, and we are extremely pleased and blessed to be able to bring it back this summer!

I hope that you treasure your time in Falmouth, Cape Cod, and at the ballpark for all the games you get a chance to watch. Enjoy, and have fun! Go 'Dores!

All the best,

Eric Zmuda, Commissioner
Cape Cod Baseball League

FROM THE PRESIDENT

Welcome to All Our Fans to the 2021 Commodore Season:

I am so honored to have returned to the Commodores family, where it all started for me 35 years ago, when I became President of the Falmouth Commodores 2 years ago. Many things have changed since I was last active and I am excited to get back to my roots and become involved with the newer version of the Commodores!

The Commodores' executive board and volunteers work year-round to bring you the best summer baseball in the country. During the off season, they are setting up housing, working on schedules and events, and ordering merchandise, to name only a few of the year-round tasks.

The Baseball Operations department, from the General Manager, coaches and the players work during the off season to ensure we field a team and will work every day this summer to provide you with great entertainment.

Our Host Families become second families to our players who have come from all over the country to play on the Cape. They open their homes and hearts to these ball players. Without the Host Families this team or the league could not exist.

I also want to take the time to acknowledge our corporate sponsors and individual donors. They provide the team with over $200,000 to allow the team to return year in and year out.

To all of you, our fans who come from both near and far, I want to thank you for all your support!! Attending our games, both home and away, supporting our players and our sponsors allow us to remain the number one Summer College Baseball League in the US!!

I also want to inform all our fans that the league has developed Policy and Procedures to deal with the COVID-19 virus. Those were developed by the league Medical Team, which has the Falmouth Commodores doctor, Dr. Donald O'Malley, as an integral part of that team. Thank you, Doc.

So fans.... Pull up a chair or put down a blanket, relax with a hot dog, soda and peanuts and watch the best of college baseball.

Oh, and by the way, this fall, Arnie Allen Diamond at Guv Fuller Field will be going through a $1M renovation, with new dugouts and a backstop, including safety netting for your protection. This is all possible through the Town of Falmouth, including the Selectmen, Recreation Department, The Parks Department, and also the Community Preservation Committee. So make sure you come back in 2022 and see the improvements!!

"Let's PLAY BALL"

Chuck Sturtevant
President of Falmouth Commodores & Cape Cod Baseball League

FROM THE GENERAL MANAGER

Cape League Baseball is back! The cancellation of the 2020 season was a very difficult but necessary decision made by the league. It was surreal not playing last year and hopefully that was the last time we will need to cancel a season. I would like to thank all the volunteers who spent countless hours making sure this season will happen. I am confident this will be the best season yet!

In 2019, our coaching staff led the team to the best overall record, as well as three players receiving individual awards, including batting champion and reliever of the year. We are fortunate enough to have all of our coaches returning this year, highlighted by three-time coach of the year, Jeff Trundy, for his 23rd year as head coach and 25 years with the team. He was an assistant coach at Cotuit for the previous 2 years. Coach Trundy is one of only four coaches in CCBL history with over 450 career wins. Alongside Coach Trundy will be Pitching Coach Mike Landry who is in his 10th year with the Commodores, Hitting Coach Brett Becker returning for his 5th season and Assistant Coach Ryan Ihle returning for his 3rd year.

As always, I would like to thank our community and fans from across the country for your support. It is because of you we are able to continue this cherished franchise.

Chris Fitzgerald
General Manager, Falmouth Commodores

FROM THE HEAD COACH

"I see great things in baseball. It's our game – the American game. It will take people out-of-doors, fill them with oxygen, give them a large physical stoicism. Tend to relieve us from being a nervous, dyspeptic set. Repair these losses, and be a blessing to us."

-Walt Whitman, "Brooklyn Daily Eagle," July 23, 1846.

It's back, a summer with baseball on the Cape once again! College players from across the country will be joining each other with smiles on their faces as they enjoy America's game! There was a very large void during the summer of 2020 for so many, an emptiness felt by those who are accustomed to enjoying baseball with Cape Cod Baseball League fans and families. Fans, host families, interns, hard working volunteers, our executive committee, players and coaches all missed the sounds and sights of an evening game at the Guv. I know that for me it was just added confirmation of what I already knew, that the league is about the people and the relationships that I have been so grateful to have formed. I missed seeing our volunteers, who work tirelessly to provide this great opportunity for young players aspiring to make a career out of baseball. I missed seeing our interns, both the new and returning members, who add to my own and everyone's summer enjoyment. Of course, I missed spending time with our coaching staff, comprised of longtime assistant coaches and friends Mike Landry, Brett Becker, and 2019 addition Ryan Ihle. The loss of those good times was disappointing, to say the least. They will be enthused and ready to help this summer's Commodores team with their development.

I most definitely look forward once again, to sharing afternoons and evenings with our awesome medical staff, including longtime invaluable trainer, Laura Murphy, and our top notch team doctor, Doc O'Malley, and his wife, Karen.

Last summer, I often thought, at particular moments, what might I be doing if I were on the Cape. For example: What conversations would I be having with President and former GM Chuck Sturtevant, League Commissioner and former GM Eric Zmuda, and GM Chris Fitzgerald, who all have become important friends.

Those late afternoon chats with good friends during batting practice were definitely missed. There were times when I would recall a 'Dores late inning comeback win.

Other times I'd remember post-game meetings in the outfield that were concluded with the teammates giving the 'Dores' shout!

I still feel regret for the opportunity lost by all of the players who were ready and looking forward to last summer's lost season. They did not have the chance to experience the excitement of playing in the Cape Cod League. Neither did they have the experience to play baseball in, what many players refer to as, 'the best summer of their lives.'

The summer of 2021 brings a renewed sense of excitement with the anticipation of seeing old friends once again, and to be able to see our 'Dores team become a family and form their own cherished memories.

The team will undoubtedly carve out their own identity and form the special brotherhood that is the reputation of all 'Dore teams. The Guv will again be full of energy and excitement, and the Cape will again be the epicenter of summer collegiate baseball.

I am eager to get the season rolling. The Cape season and the 'boys of summer' will help us all move beyond the difficulties and hardships experienced by so many during the past year.

I look forward to seeing you all, and I feel extremely grateful to be sharing days with the 'Dore family once again!

All the best,
Jeff Trundy

AL IRISH

REMEMBERED FOR HIS MEMORY AND KIND HEART

By Taylor Viles

Al Irish first attended a Cape Cod Baseball League game in 1925, supporting the Falmouth Commodores at their original field in Falmouth Heights. It was 94 years later, at their second home of Guv Fuller Field, that he threw out the first pitch during a game. The summer of 2019 became the final season of summer baseball Irish would see.

He passed away on February 20 at the age of 101, but not without leaving behind a legacy that only a century of life could earn a person. A legacy not only spanning the baseball world, but including the Falmouth Masonic Lodge, the Falmouth Historical Society, and St. Barnabas Episcopal Church.

Through each civic engagement, his radiant energy affected the people he worked with. It is through those people with whom his legacy lies. It is those people who remember Irish the way he deserves to be remembered: a man with dedication and a driving passion for his involvements and his family.

"Al was a sweetheart. He did not have one ounce of bad bone in his body. He loved everyone, cared about everyone, and if he met you and got to know you, he wouldn't forget you," said Cape League President, Chuck Sturtevant. The Cape League was Irish's first love as he spent his childhood watching the Commodores. But he didn't just enjoy the games as a fan, he remembered the players and paid close attention to every detail.

"You could pretty much ask him anything and he'd have the answer," said Commodores Board of Director's member Donna Curtis.

Irish was an encyclopedia derived from a life of solving puzzles, according to his eldest son. "He was in cryptography in World War II," said David. "For years, well into his 90s, he would do the cryptograms and the jumbles in the Cape Cod Times every day, successfully." Although these puzzles may not have helped his knowledge of baseball, they were part of what kept him young.

After his military involvement and various off-Cape endeavors, Irish and his wife Esther, moved their family to Falmouth in 1961, a place he hadn't lived since he was 18. He rekindled his love of Cape Cod baseball and shared his childhood passion with his sons. He taught them to play catch and took them to games, but he never asked them to adopt his love for the game for themselves. "A lot of people think of sportspeople as kind of rabid, [but] dad was a quiet sports fan," said David. "He never shoved it off on Brad or me. He appreciated it and he exposed us to it, but he wasn't somebody who was going to push you in a direction that you didn't want to go."

Irish retired in 1985 at the age of 66, and while many retirees struggle to find ways to keep busy, he took full advantage of the newfound free time.

"He had a lot of books, and we used to kiddingly buy him books and say, 'Dad, are you going to read these someday?'" David remembers. "Well, guess what? When he retired, he did. He was incredibly disciplined."

2019 SEASON RECAP

By Maxwell Trink

With many rainouts, over 50 collegiate baseball players from around the country and the longest win streak in 'Dores history, the 2019 Falmouth Commodores season was historic.

For the third time in the past four seasons, manager Jeff Trundy led the Commodores to the top of the Western Division in the regular season. The 'Dores also finished with the best record in the CCBL.

But no matter who was involved, whether it was new general manager Chris Fitzgerald or the coaching staff, Trundy felt the players were the influential piece of this season. "The players defined the season without question," Trundy said. "This was a really, really special group of kids and they made the season what it was."

Multiple 'Dores finished the regular season with awards. Coach Jeff Trundy won the CCBL's Manager of the Year, reliever Zach Brzykcy (Virginia Tech) was selected as the Russ Ford Outstanding Relief Pitcher, outfielder Austin Masel (Holy Cross) earned the Manny Robello 10th Player Award and outfielder Zach Deloach (Texas A&M) received the Thurman Munson Batting Champion Award.

Deloach finished with the best batting average on the Cape. This followed a season at Texas A&M where Deloach batted .200 in 160 at-bats.

"I had to open up my eyes and see the atmosphere," the

6-foot-2, 200-pound right fielder said. "Being able to be with your teammates and knowing they have your back and you have theirs is what it's really all about."

What was also unforgettable was the rain. The Commodores had the most rainouts of any team in any summer collegiate baseball league with a total of 14. In June, five consecutive games were postponed due to rain.

This led to a stretch of 32 games in 31 days throughout the month of July. There were little-to-no off days for the Falmouth Commodores for the rest of the season.

July 2019 was a magical time for the Falmouth Commodores. The highlight of the season was an 11-game win-streak that capped off the month. This was the longest win-streak in modern Commodores history.

In the postseason, the 'Dores defeated the Bourne Braves in the first round of the playoffs. The series took three games. Falmouth ended their season in the Western Division Championship Series after getting swept by the 2019 Cape League champion Cotuit Kettleers.

Every year manager Jeff Trundy wants his team to have fun and appreciate the small details about the game. While the season didn't end with a championship, the 2019 Falmouth Commodores truly had fun and developed into a strong family.

FALMOUTH COMMODORES AND CAPE COD BASEBALL LEAGUE (CCBL) DOMINATE 2020 MLB DRAFT

The 2020 Major League Baseball (MLB) draft was unusual in many aspects mainly due to the Covid-19 pandemic. The usual June event was delayed to July and the number of rounds for selecting players was dramatically reduced from 40 to 5. That meant instead of drafting 1268 players in 40 rounds, it was reduced to 160 players chosen from colleges and high schools in the U.S. and abroad. This represented a sharp reduction in amateur players making it into the MLB system. Not surprisingly, the CCBL and the Commodores fared very well. Of the 160 players selected, 73 (46%) played in the Cape Cod Baseball League, 12 of whom were former Commodores (9 drafted and 3 signed as free agents).

Besides reading, his love for the Commodores kept his summers full. He transitioned from a fan to a board member and began running the entrance gate for home games. Gary Rebesa joined Irish to help run the gate in the early 2000s and remembers him for his humor and his drive to stay young. "When he was 95, we were at the gate and he says 'guess what I did today,'" said Rebesa, quoting Irish. "'I went to renew my license today.' I said 'You did?... How'd you make out?' He said, 'when I got all done, they told me I'm good until I'm 100.'"

He stopped driving during year 97 when he moved into Atria Woodbriar assisted living, but that didn't stop him from his participation in Falmouth's baseball team. Commodores board members would pick him up and drive him wherever he needed to go, whether it was a game, a Commodores board meeting, or even a Hall of Fame advisory board meeting, for which he consulted because of his recall.

What made him different from most wasn't just his memory though, it was the way he handled himself. "It was not about him. It was about everyone else, and he showed that," said Sturtevant.

This showed in conversation as Brad acknowledged his father's ability to listen. He picked and chose when to input his thoughts, but when he did, they were well thought out. "If someone mentioned something that he knew he could add to the information about, he was extraordinary in the amount of detail he could offer to the conversation," said Brad.

When it came to remembering past players or memories, Irish never referred to his notes; in fact, he didn't have any notes. "One thing that really impressed me is my father would never write anything down. He'd say, 'I have it all up here,'" said David, pointing to his head. "But he never missed this trick. He never goofed up."

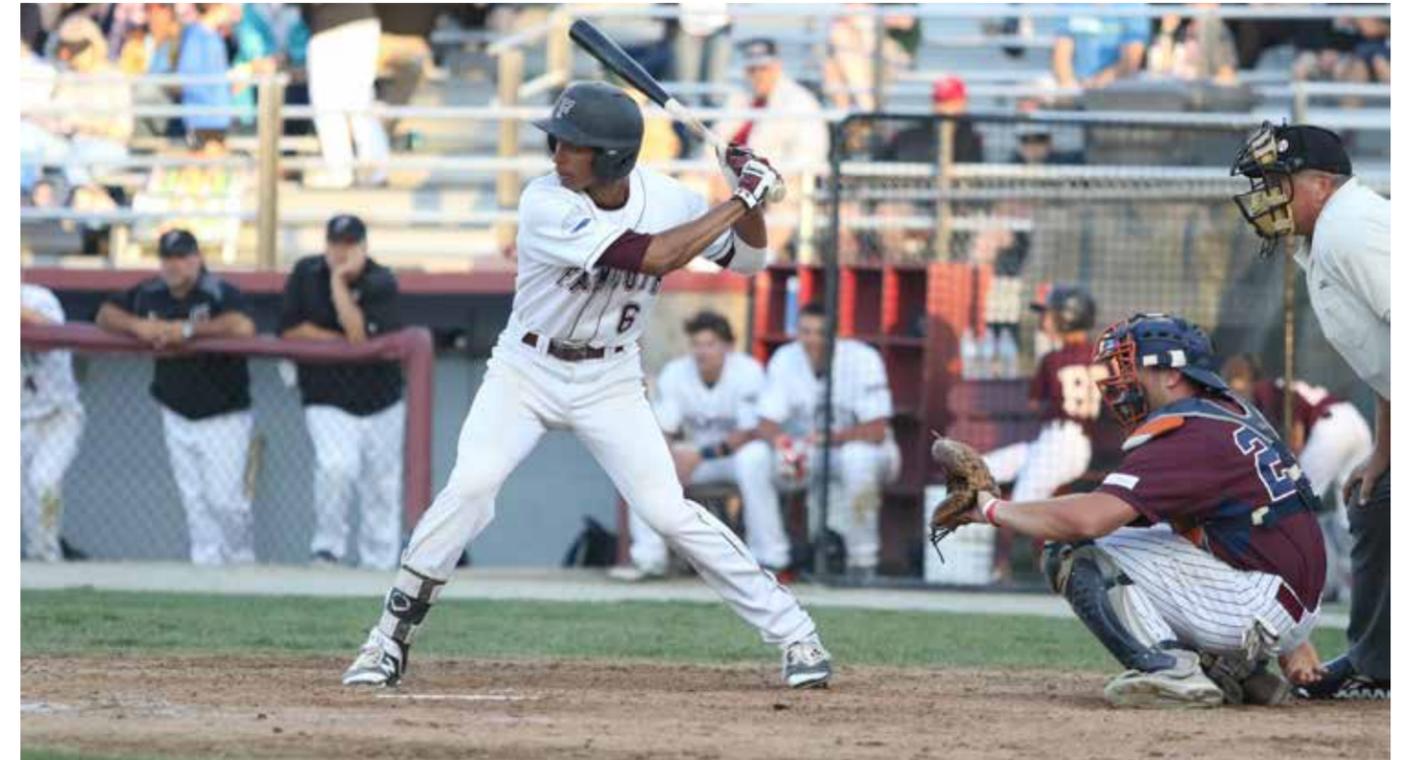

This kept Irish's brain active, leading to his sharpness in his later years, but his longevity and health were likely aided by how he took care of his body. His sons explained their father's stubbornness about eating unhealthy food. He never let them go to fast-food restaurants and only when he was out of town on business did they enjoy a pizza, courtesy of their mother.

Irish and Esther had an "incredible marriage," according to Brad. Even through their older years, the couple shared an evening ritual Brad says led to his Dad's lifespan. "They enjoyed going out for a nice evening walk. It was religious. I mean, as long as the weather was halfway decent," said Brad. "Dad was not a weekend warrior when it came to exercise, but he always got in his daily constitution in terms of walking."

Before Irish's death, Brad asked what his secret was to living a long and happy life. "He said 'moderation,'" Brad remembers. "Basically, he would engage in many things, but he wasn't one to overdo it, he had a lot of variety. In many ways, because he was low key about it, I think he was able to enjoy other people's successes and watch them enjoy it, I think gave him a lot."

Irish's dedication to the Commodores and the Cape League earned him the league's lifetime achievement award in 2007.

GUV FULLER FIELD IMPROVEMENTS 2021

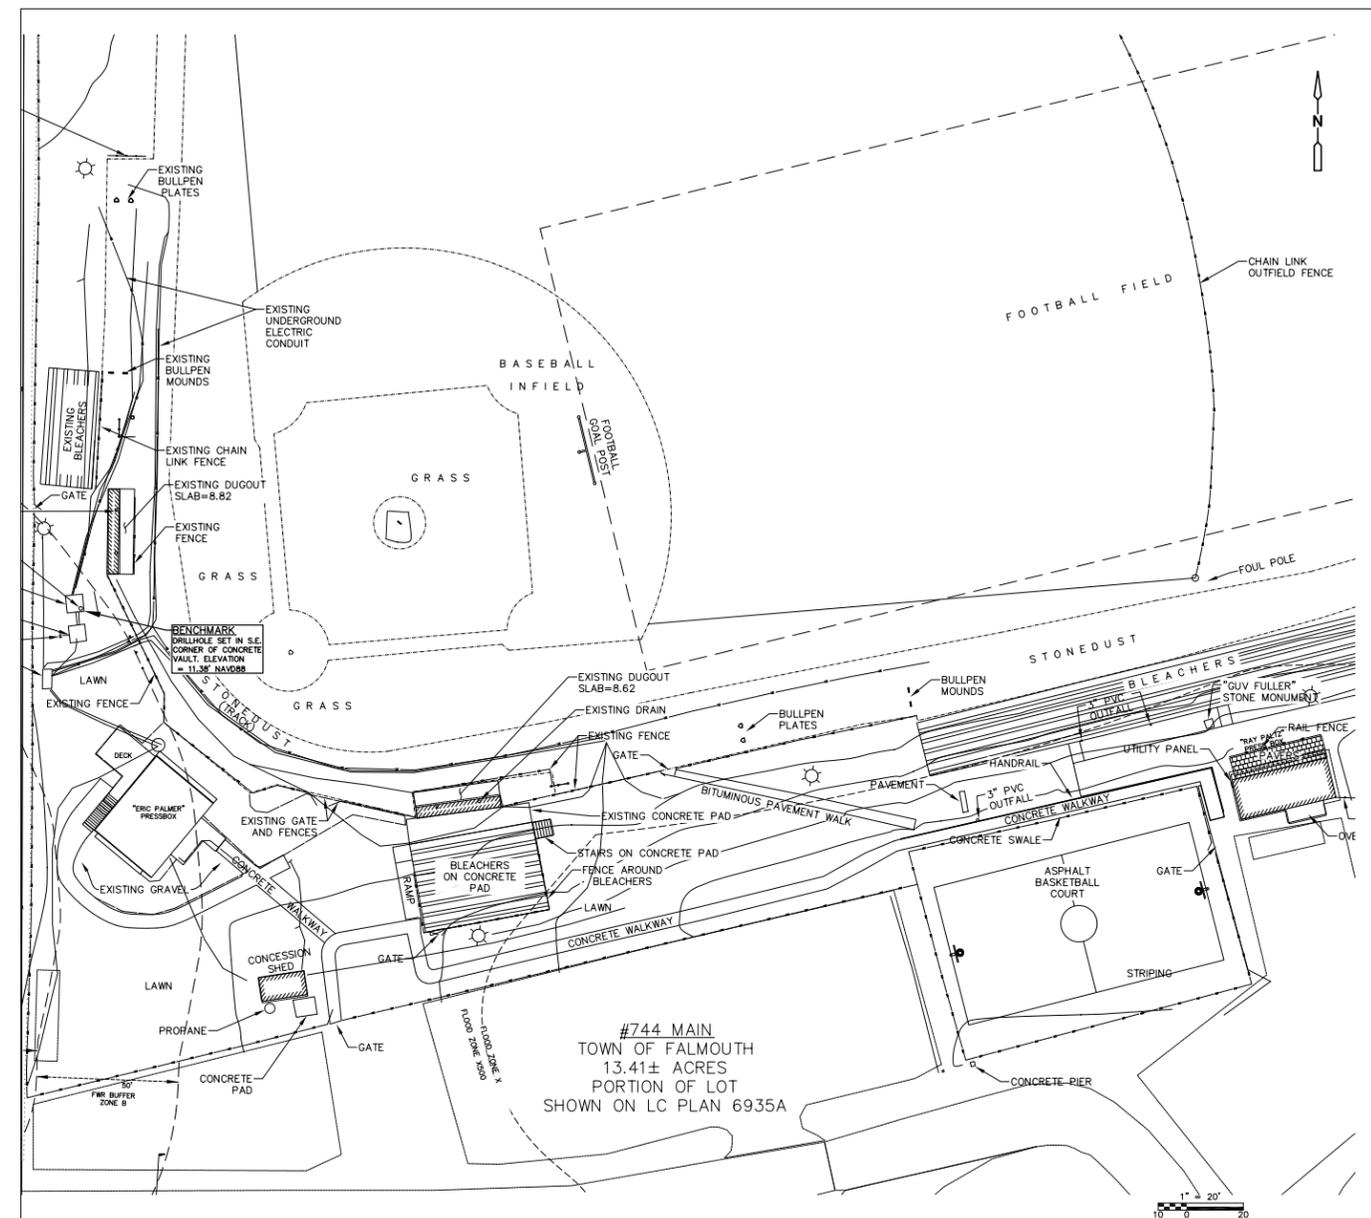

Diagram describing new construction and improvements to Guv Fuller Field

The planned Guv Fuller Field renovation project scheduled for construction in 2020 got sidetracked due to the Covid-19 pandemic; however it is on track for construction in September of 2021. The original approvals of the funds from the Community Preservation Committee (CPC) (approved in December 2019) and the Falmouth Town Meeting (delayed until September 2020) was for an amount thought to be more than sufficient to cover the entire project. However, construction and material costs dramatically increased during the pandemic resulting in insufficient funding following the bidding process. Tremendous flexibility shown by the CPC and the Town were exhibited as an urgent funding request was approved by the CPC for an additional $314,045 bringing the total funding of the project to $1,055,336. Final approval is anticipated at the Falmouth Town Meeting scheduled for June. The major renovation will include new safety fencing, dugouts and visitor bleachers. All new walkways and dugouts will meet the guidelines for the American Disability Act, a feature that did not previously exist.

THANK YOU TO OUR 2019 HOST FAMILIES

Host families are vital to the Commodores organization. With a roster of 30 players, it takes a number of dedicated and generous individuals to provide a loving summer home environment for these young men. The experience is one-of-a-kind, and lifelong relationships often are built. The Commodores greatly appreciate all that their host families do for their players and the team. We could not field a team without the generosity and contributions of each and every host family. If you are interested in hosting a Falmouth Commodores player, please visit www.falmouthcommodores.com and click on "Become a Host Family," or send an email to Lisa Zmuda at lisatz143@comcast.net.
